Reagan Asks $9.81 Billion State Budget

Blueprint Has Surplus To Fight Energy Crunch

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan, refusing to abandon his rejected spending limit plan, today proposed a record $9.81 billion state budget which envisioned a $272 million surplus as a possible cushion against the energy crunch.

The fiscal blueprint was the biggest-in-the-nation proposed state budget and was the second tightest Reagan ever submitted. It totaled more than twice as much as his first "squeeze, cut and trim" spending request in 1967.

Major provisions included a 7 per cent pay raise for state employees; $19.9 million for a new school for the deaf and blind; $2.5 million to shore up San Quentin, an 8.5 per cent funding increase for the University of California and an 8 per cent increase for the state colleges; and a return to one license plate cars.

Broken down, it represented about $467 for every man, woman and child in California, an increase of about $3.60 over the current spending level.

In sending his last budget to Legislature, legislature, Reagan kept his promise and tailored the package to conform with the provisions of his tax and spending limit ballot initiative defeated by the voters in November.

"Abiding by the limitations which would have been placed in the constitution by Prop. 1 has not, despite the claims of some opponents, caused wholesale cutbacks in existing state programs," he declared.

The plan to finance state government for the fiscal year starting July 1 totaled $9,812,470,481—an increase of $168.4 million over current spending or 1.7 per cent.

Although Reagan conceded the energy crisis would cut into state revenues, "the full implication of which no one can presently foresee," he projected a hefty $272 million tax surplus by July 1975, including $167 million in unspent federal revenue sharing.

He urged the lawmakers to "zealously guard those reserve funds, with the thought upper-

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE'S FORT? — Researchers think they may have found the ruins of Sir Francis Drake's fort, built in 1579, at this pond near Bolinas Lagoon, on a county parksite. The pond was constructed 101 years ago for duck hunting, on top of crumbling dirt walls of a much older structure. Historian V. Aubrey Neasham, a former Marin County resident, seeks to raise $25,000 to finance thorough scientific exploration of the site. Meanwhile, County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre V. Joske warns that no one is allowed to search the site without county permission.

Researchers Believe Drake Built Bolinas Lagoon Fort

Would Be First U.S. Building By English

By JEFF GREER

BERKELEY — The answer to the riddle of where Sir Francis Drake actually landed in California probably is hidden in ancient ruins on the swampy shore of Bolinas Lagoon in West Marin, two researchers said today.

Former Marin resident V. Aubrey Neasham and state archaeologist William E. Pritchard presented research papers at a national archaeological conference here. They told of the historical detective work behind their belief that Drake and the crew of the Golden Hinde built a fort at Bolinas in June of 1579.

Today all that can be seen at the site is a rectangular pond with tidal waters flowing in and out through a muddy, meandering channel. The pond is on county-owned land.

Neasham and Pritchard said they need $25,000 to finance complete, scientific digging to prove that their painstakingly built theory is correct.

During brief preliminary digs last spring and over Labor Day weekend, the searchers found tantalizing clues that are being studied by the Smithsonian Instution in Washington, D.C.

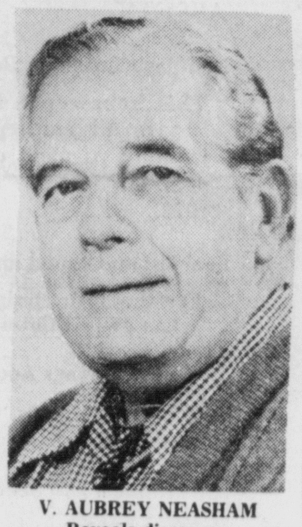
If it is Drake's fort that Neasham has found, it will mean much more than merely settling a long and sometimes heated argument over the site of Drake's landing place.

It also will mean that Marin County boasts the oldest English-built structure in the Western Hemisphere.

The oldest previously known English construction in the New World was Fort Raleigh, built in 1585 in what is now North Carolina. That was the site of Virginia Dare's birth and the mystery of the lost colony of Roanoke, Neasham said.

The ancient North Carolina fort and the ruins near Bolinas have strong similarities. Both are typical of fortifications the English built during their 16th Century explorations, Neasham and Pritchard reported in their papers, read at the Seventh Annual Conference of the National Society for Historical Archaeology.

Drake's own log of his famed voyage around the world — with a 36-day stopover in California to careen and repair the Golden Hinde — has been missing for centuries and so the exact location of his landing has been a subject of controversy.)



V. AUBREY NEASHAM
Reveals discovery

The full story bears strange resemblances to the saga of another Californian, German-born millionaire Heinrich Schliemann, who became a U.S. citizen during Gold Rush days.

Schliemann used Homer's poetry and other clues to uncover the long-lost great city of Troy. He found Troy in 1872 — the same year that some Bolinas landowner-sportsman buried the remains of what may be Drake's fort to build a duck hunting pond.

Neasham, a historian and professor emeritus of environmental resources at California State University in Sacramento, used as his clues several centuries-old maps, chronicles of Drake's voyage and even the strangely shaped hole in the famed Plate of Brass that Drake left behind in Marin to claim "Nova Albion" for his Queen, Elizabeth I.

Most historians have accepted the Drake Plate as authentic, but puzzling because of its apparent travels from the landing site. The experts long have agreed that inside the hole in the plate was mounted a sixpence — long since vanished — that bore Elizabeth's portrait.

SIR FRANCIS DRAKE
First Marin builder?

Since the 1940s when he came to Marin as a National Park Service historical expert, Neasham had puzzled over the irregular outline of the hole. It contrasted strangely with the neat workmanship of the rest of the plate. If meant only to hold a coin, surely it would have been more regularly shaped.

"It came to me in 1962 that the hole might represent a map of Drake's anchorage," Neasham recalled.

One problem was that the shape of the hole had been changed. In 1938, scientists removed a protruding bit of brass from it to test the plate's authenticity. But Neasham had photographs of the plate in its original state when found.

He compared the photos with the oldest maps available — the drawing of Drake's fort and anchorage in the "Hondius Broadside" published in 1589 and Robert Dudley's "Carta Prima Generale" of 1647.

When the maps were redrawn to the same scale, Neasham became convinced that both identified Drake's anchorage at what now is called Bolinas Lagoon, not at the more northerly Drake's Bay. The professor said the maps closely matched the original outlines of the strange hole in the Plate of Brass.

"A symbolic map is exactly the thing an Englishman of that period would have done," Neasham explained.

But was the harbor actually

Quentin Project Funds In Budget

Plans to spend $15 million to virtually rebuild San Quentin Prison's 60-year-old South Block were revealed today in Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed state budget.

Reagan's $177.7 million Department of Corrections budget for fiscal 1974-75 contains $2.5 million for a start on the San Quentin project, which is expected to take four years.

The block now houses 1,039 inmates, according to William D. Nyberg, San Quentin information officer.

Many of them are housed two to a cell. The cells are tiny cubicles rising in five tiers in the grim, high building. A single floor-to-ceiling hallway divides the building.

Phil Guthrie, spokesman for the state Department of Corrections, said the entire inside of the building would be torn out and "whole new floors and a whole new interior installed."

The South Block as it's now constructed, is "virtually impossible to watch," to provide control and safety for inmates and guards, Guthrie explained.

Nyberg said "amen" to Guthrie's comments about the block's inadequacies. He said that the work would be done in four phases, but did not know what would be done with the block's inmates during the remodeling.

The budget item marks a complete reversal of Reagan's announcement almost exactly two years ago, that San Quentin would be entirely closed down by this year or next.

News of the remodeling displeased Marin County officials.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste recalled that the board of supervisors recently unanimously "adopted a policy of opposing any expansion of San Quentin and to continuing to ask the state to close it down."

Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini called the governor's decision "a reversal of what was an enlightened policy — to abandon the warehousing of thousands of people."

Giacomini said he believes the "warehousing" is to blame for much of the state penal system's recidivism problem. He pointed out that Marin officials have been opposed to continued existence of "a huge prison" in the county, since the bloody shoot-out in 1970 when a judge and four other persons were killed during a kidnap-escape try by San Quentin inmates on trial at the Marin County Civic Center.

Reagan's budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year also includes $2.2 million to reopen the California Conservation Center at Susanville.

Federal Agency Drops Parking Charge Idea

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Controversial regulations imposing surcharges of up to $450 a year on parking spaces have been "dropped forever," the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported today.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency also has postponed from Feb. 15 to Jan. 1 its requirement that an agency permit be required to build any parking lot with 250 or more spaces, the congressman's staff reported.

The agency's regulations were hit by a storm of protest when announced late last year, and several bills were introduced in Congress to take away its power to impose surcharges.

(A spokesman for the agency's regional office in San Francisco said it had no word yet of the changes. He said other unspecified controls on car use may be needed to replace the surcharges if air quality standards are to be met.)

Safety Belt Bill Rejected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly today rejected a bill requiring California motorists to buckle their seat belts or face a $25 fine for failing to do so.

Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara, insisted the requirement would greatly reduce traffic deaths and said half the persons killed last year in United States automobile crashes would have survied if they had worn seat belts.

But others argued motorists should have the choice of whether to buckle up or not. The bill (AB1262) was defeated on a 28-34 vote.

Anderson's Firing Upheld

By GEORGE NEVIN

The firing of Tamalpais High School teacher Kenneth A. Anderson was upheld today by a Marin Superior Court judge.

Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled the 33-year-old suspended English instructor engaged in "immoral conduct" with a girl student, whom he later married, and that he violated district rules.

But McGuire cleared Anderson of the most serious charge — encouraging a boy student to bomb and burn several public buildings in Southern Marin.

In his decision, McGuire held that Anderson was wrong in sharing a hotel room with 15-year-old Beth Okamura and that many Tam High School students knew of the teacher's relationship with the girl.

"Such conduct adversely affects the defendant's ability to command respect and confidence of students . . . and as such impairs his fitness to teach," said the judge.

McGuire also said Anderson was guilty of several violations of district rules: allowing students to wander in and out of class, having inflammatory posters and a Viet Cong flag on his classroom wall, failing to follow grading policies and improperly possessing a school master key.

After attorneys for Anderson and the district have read the intended decision and have asked the judge to clarify any ambiguous points, a formal decision will be handed down.

Carl A. Shaprio, the suspended teacher's attorney, said today he doesn't know if he will appeal the decision.

On the charges that Anderson knew of and condoned several bombings and arson fires by Bruce Paul Lohmann in the spring of 1971, McGuire wrote:

"The testimony of Bruce Lohmann by way of deposition and not in person in court was unsatisfactory, was not corroborated in substance by other witnesses or evidence . . . was contradicted in whole by the defendant (and) in part by other student witnesses . . ."

"This evidence indicates a lack of credibility on the part of

Two Terra Linda Schools Told Their Water Will Be Cut Off

By ERIC INGRAM

The Marin Municipal Water District plans to cut off water service to two schools in Terra Linda, including the Marindale School for Crippled Children, it was learned yesterday.

The water district's action against the schools, which receive "surplus water" since they are outside the district, will take effect Dec. 1 unless blocked by county supervisors and the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Besides Marindale School, where 60 orthopedically handicapped children are enrolled, the Dixie School District's Santa Margarita School has been caught in the same "threatened water shortage" controversy.

The water district's notices of termination were filed Dec. 31 with school officials. They were prompted by legal opinions that the recently imposed moratorium on new water connections within the district means there is no "surplus water" available to serve those serviced outside the district.

(Several other areas outside the district, including the Muir Woods National Monument, are threatened with losing their water service in July.)

The two schools are located

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Crosby's Left Lung Drained

Crosby

The doctors at Peninsula Hospital and Medical Center said results of the biopsy — removal of lung tissue for testing — would not be known until tomorrow.

A spokesman said fluid was drained from an abscess and this, too, was under examination.

Crosby, 69, was reported to be in satisfactory condition and resting comfortably. He was said to have a low fever and slight cough.

A Thieu Warning

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu accused North Vietnam today of planning to annex South Vietnam through a combination of political infiltration and military might.

The semi-official Vietnam Press quoted Thieu as warning government workers of the danger of a Communist attempt to create political confusion in order to weaken the country.

"They are waiting for that weakness, then they will launch big military operations to pressure us into accepting a pro-Communist coalition government," Thieu was quoted as saying.

Joins The Firm

DETROIT (UPI) — The newest young executive at Ford Motor Co. is ambitious, but he said today he knows he must prove himself.

His name is Edsel B. Ford II and he is the son of the current company chairman, Henry Ford II.

"I hope some day to run the company," said the 25-year-old great grandson of the company's founder. "But if I can't, I can't."

Ford's job is analyst in the product planning and research department.

He was graduated last September from Boston's Management Training School, Babson College.

Rail's Future

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John P. Fullam will hold a hearing March 25 aimed at determining whether the Penn Central Railroad can be reorganized under the Bankruptcy Act into a profit-making venture in a "reasonable time."

Should this prove impossible, Fullam said, the hearing will consider whether reorganization should proceed under the recently enacted Rail Reorganization Act, signed by President Nixon a week ago.

The legislation is designed to realign the Penn Central and six other bankrupt rail lines in the northeast and midwest into one profitmaking system.

Another Slaying

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen shot a 52-year-old Roman Catholic in the head and dumped his body early today in a Belfast cemetery, a police spokesman said today.

The body was found at dawn sprawled behind a shrub in Milltown Cemetery after an anonymous telephone caller told a local newspaper its location.

Police quoted the caller as saying the killers were members of the official wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), but the officials later denied any involvement.

Canal Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Panama have reached preliminary agreement to yield U.S. control over the Panama Canal at a date yet to be determined, the Washington Post reported today.

The newspaper attributed its information to "government sources," who called the agreement in principle a major step toward resolving 10 years of fruitless negotiations between the two countires.

Readies Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steel union leaders today are putting the finishing touches on their contract demands, which could set a pattern for other labor contracts which will involve more than five million workers this year.

The United Steel Workers of America was expected to ask for substantial and costly wage and fringe benefit increases to make up for the soaring cost of living.

But union leaders face a revolt by dissident members because the leaders signed an "Experimental Negotiating Agreement" (ENA) with steel producers pledging the union not to strike and providing for arbitration of any issues that can't be resolved in the contract bargaining.

No Survivors

BOGOTA (UPI) — Authorities said today initial reports indicated everyone aboard died when a domestic airliner carrying at least 28 persons burst into flames and slammed into the side of a mountain in southern Colombia.

Witnesses said the Satena airplane, reportedly carrying several employees of a U.S. oil company, crashed yesterday afternoon into a peak of the towering Andes mountain range.

The witnesses said the Avro prop-jet crashed a few minutes after taking off from the southern Colombian city of Florencia.

Engineers Cut British Rail Travel

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers staged mass walkouts throughout Britain today, stranding hundreds of thousands of commuters and paralyzing much of the country's rail network.

The engineers walked off the job to protest a "get tough" warning by the state-run British Railways Board. The rail board had said that from midnight yesterday any engineer refusing to take out a train would be sent home and lose a day's pay.

The protest virtually shut down London's normally jammed commuter service and British Rail warned city workers not to travel by trains.

The shutdown represented a grave new blow to Britain's already dangerously crisis-shaken economy.

Nearly one million workers already were laid off as a result of a three-day work week ordered by the government to save dwindling fuel stocks that have been hit by a 2-month-old slowdown by 260,000 coal miners.

The Confederation of British Industry, which represents 2,000 big industrial firms, predicted total unemployment would reach three million by the end of the month.

The government's National Economic Development Board said the jobless total might reach four million.

More Cutbacks At Ford Plants

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto industry layoffs because of the energy shortage effect on big car sales rose to nearly 61,000 today as the Ford Motor Co. announced it will add 2,550 workers to the list of the unemployed.

The latest Ford cutbacks will become effective Feb. 4 at the St. Louis assembly plant, where 1,435 workers are being laid off indefinitely, and at Wixom, Mich., with 1,115 employes losing their jobs. The two plants build full-size Mercury, Thunderbird, Lincoln Continental and Continental Mark IV models.

In addition, 7,000 workers at the two plants face one and two-week layoffs next week and in the final week of the month as Ford cuts more than 9,000 full-size cars out of its January production schedule.

With the announced cutbacks, Ford will idle a total 8,950 workers. That is well below the 38,000 General Motors has announced since early December when automakers began cutting back production to reduce their inventories of unsold big cars.

Chrysler has 12,000 workers on indefinite layoff and American Motors, with its heavy emphasis on the hot-selling small models, has furloughed only 200 workers indefinitely.

Industry sources said the layoffs will spread if Americans continue to avoid the large models because of the fear they may not be able to get enough gasoline. The extended layoffs, however, are cushioned by the various benefit programs won for the workers by the United Auto Workers.

GM estimates that over 80 per cent of the workers on indefinite layoffs will receive benefits averaging over $150 a week. Practically all the other 20 per cent will receive up to $85 a week.

Workers with more than 90 days with one auto company, but less than one year are eligible for state unemployment compensation. Those with more than one year seniority receive supplemental unemployment benefits which provide up to 95 per cent of their take-home pay less $7.50 a week for work-related expenses.

For instance, a Michigan worker with take-home pay of $200 would first have $7.50 subtracted, then a maximum of $92 for unemployment compensation. He would receive 95 per cent of the $100.50 remaining. That amounts to $95.48 which, when added to the $92 would give him $187.48—about 95 per cent of his regular pay.

Palumbo Named

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday named Anthony L. Palumbo, 44, a Republican of Sacramento, as executive director of the new Office of Criminal Justice Planning, at a salary of $32,256.

Nixon's 61st Birthday Unusual In Many Ways

Nixon was relaxing today at the 250-acre desert estate of Walter Annenberg, multimillionaire ambassador to Great Britain. He arrived here late yesterday afternoon in a nine-car motorcade from the Western White House, 125 miles away.

In Banning, they stopped at a McDonald's hamburger stand where his good friend, Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo, a wealthy banker, bought "Big Macs" for everyone, including Nixon. The President washed his down with chocolate milk.

Nixon, a constant dieter, told aides it was his first chocolate milk in 13 years and he "really enjoyed the Big Mac."

"Hey King," the President called to his Irish Setter, King Timahoe. "Want a little lick?" The dog ate a corner of the cake, appearing to relish a red icing rose.

CITRUS CHIC

The fashionable lemon tree this season is wearing garb similar to this lemon sapling photographed yesterday in San Rafael by Jim Kean. It features a maxi look for complete coverage against the stinging frost that has plagued citrus and other delicate plants in Marin this winter. A paper bag will work as well, although see-through plastic is more in keeping with citrus chic.

Builder Will Buy Buckling House

Larkspur's largest developer will buy back a house which once sold for $52,750 from a woman who says the home settled and cracked because it was built on unstable fill.

The settlement in a court case involving the Laguna Development Co. could affect at least 15 other families who have sued the company and developer Neils Schultz Jr. on similar grounds.

An attorney for Paulette I. Minden said yesterday his client dropped her Marin Superior Court suit.

In exchange, Laguna will repay her for money she put into the house at Corte Del Coronado in the Greenbrae Marina. Included are the down payment and mortgage payments and the cost of a pool, deck and patio.

Although attorney James F. Feutz refused to disclose the amount of the settlement, court records place it at about $55,000.

Mrs. Minden said she bought the house for $52,750 in May 1967. Three years later she noted the filled land was slipping and her home buckling.

At least five other suits on behalf of some 15 families have been filed in Marin Superior Court.

Total damages sought from Neils Schultz Jr., son of the man who developed much of Greenbrae and Larkspur, exceed $1.8 million. Each of the suits claims Schultz should have known the filled bayflats were too unstable for building houses.

Teller Foils Robbery Try

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Two gunmen robbed a bank Tuesday and fled with a duffel bag filled with money—and containing a tear gas device slipped in by a teller.

Police, alerted by a silent alarm, sped to the Fidelity Bank and arrested two men coming out of a nearby taproom rubbing their eyes.

Student Hopes Grand Jury Can Uncover All Kent State Facts

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A senior at Kent State University who was wounded when National Guardsmen fired into a group of demonstrators May 4, 1970, said today he hoped a federal grand jury meeting here would "uncover some facts that have remained covered."

John R. Cleary, 22, Scotia, N.Y., was a freshman when hit twice in the chest by Guardsmen's bullets as he stood more than 100 feet from the troops.

Four students were killed and nine others wounded when guardsmen fired into a crowd of students demonstrating on campus against U.S. military action in Indochina.

"The basic thing is that they want to know exactly what happened at the time of the shooting, where the crowd was in relation to the guard," Cleary told newsmen prior to his appearance before the grand jury, which began a probe of the shootings last month.

"I hope possibly we might get down to the facts, uncover some facts that have remained covered," Cleary said.

Robert E. Matson, former KSU vice president of student affairs and now president of Ricker College of Holton, Me., also testified today.

"I hope they can come out with a complete story out of this," Matson said to newsmen. "There's been too many bits and pieces over a period of years.

"I don't think anyone who was personally there has the complete story," said Matson.

Matson was one of those who had attended a meeting at which former governor James A. Rhodes allegedly gave orders for the guard to keep the university open despite the demonstrations.

Under the circumstances, we are beginning to discover other ways to spend our leisure time. Staying at home is not a bad idea. You turn off the lights and light the fire and open the chilled bottle of wine and begin to rediscover one another.

Our 'Wine Discovery' for this cold and wet January is from a small wine producing region in the Saar Valley. The soil there is rich in minerals and a natural storehouse for sunshine. The Riesling grape flourishes here and produces a delicate and fragrant wine, with a flavor that is both refreshing and exhilarating.

The vineyard of Herrenberg is rated by both Frank Schoonmaker and S.F. Hallgarten as one of the great vineyards of Ockfen. At the Bourbon Shops of Marin, we are both wine romantic and wine practical. We have a passion for finding good wine at decent prices.

New Policy Set On Maternity Leaves

A woman teacher is entitled to paid leave during the time she cannot work due to pregnancy, but not for additional time that her baby needs extra care after it is born, Dixie School District trustees unanimously decided last night.

Dr. Clifford Campbell, district superintendent, said today the decision sets a district precedent. New federal laws on maternity leave went into effect late last year, requiring disability pay for teachers unable to work during pregnancy.

After extensive discussion of a two-part maternity leave pay claim submitted by teacher Jean Radtke, the board decided to grant her $1,777.90 in paid leave from last Sept. 4 to Nov. 10, when the mother herself was physically able to return to work, according to her obstetrician.

Mrs. Radtke had also asked additional leave until Feb. 4, to provide extra care needed by the premature child, backed by a pediatrician's report. The trustees granted her unpaid leave for up to five months, the maximum allowable under law, Campbell reported.

The Dixie School District board also:

DAYLIGHT SAVING — Decided no school schedule changes were needed, after Campbell reported that no complaints had come from elementary pupils' parents, and only six from junior high parents, whose youngsters begin class at 8:25 or 8:35 a.m. Trustees decided that any parent worried about a child walking to school before dawn may send the child later, with a written note from the parent.

EXCHANGE — Approved allowing industrial arts teacher Elroy S. Munson a leave to go overseas under a federal teacher exchange program, provided the district is furnished a foreign teacher capable of teaching industrial arts.

WORKSHOP — Called a special, public meeting for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 18 to discuss salary problems.

Good Snow At Resorts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Skiing at resorts along the Sierra today was generally very good on packed powder bases.

The weatherman forecast mostly fair through Friday but with increasing high cloudiness. A warming trend begins Friday.

The report of selected ski areas by the California State Automobile Association at 10 a.m.:

TEACHER

said student (Lohmann), a tendency to falsely implicate adults for his actions, a passion for peer approval, recognition and attention."

The district's charge of immoral conduct with Beth Okamura — who married Anderson in June 1972 — stemmed from a night the pair spent in a cabin in Yosemite National Park in 1971.

Anderson came to work at Tam High in 1967 and was tenured in 1970. The school board removed him from the classroom the following year for alleged infractions of rules, but kept him in a nonteaching job.

But in 1972 he was suspended from all duties following allegations he was involved in Lohmann's bombing of two Bank of America branches and a school restroom and two arson fires at the school.

When Anderson contested his firing, the district filed suit in Superior Court as required by state law in the case of tenured teachers.

During a trail stretching over almost four weeks, the court heard from dozens of witnesses and was read a sworn statement by Lohmann, now reported traveling in Europe.

Another School Adviser Named For Larkspur

Mary Ann Villarreal of Larkspur was named to the Kentfield School District Citizens Advisory Council by district trustees Tuesday, completing the 21-member group.

Other members were chosen in December.

The council now will begin studies of possible district reorganization to include a middle school of sixth, seventh and eighth grades and a study of the district's extended learning program, according to Supt. Eugene C. Peters.

Trustees also authorized hiring a typing teacher for Adaline E. Kent Junior High School for three hours per day at $5 an hour.

Trustees will next meet Monday at 8 p.m. in district offices to continue work on revision of the board's policy handbook.

Work Crew Plan Wins Endorsement

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission last night endorsed a plan to hire work crews to undertake minor jobs in park development.

Parks and Recreation Director Lester Russell recommended hiring people to work on a weekly or daily basis to accomplish small irrigation and landscaping tasks, bicycle route signing, street tree work and possibly development of a day camp at O'Hair Park.

He said funds for such work are available in the capital improvements budget and that hiring crews will take the pressure off the existing maintenance staff, which is kept busy with routine maintenance work.

Russell said he will present the recommendation to the city council for approval.

BUDGET

most in all our minds that they remain uncommitted, to be used in the event economic conditions might drop to a level not now expected."

The budget offered no major programs to deal with the energy crisis, but officials said the surplus could be spent to meet a possible increased welfare caseload.

The document forecast a "disappointing" revenue picture for the start of 1974 but confidently predicted by mid-year the economy would "stabilize to offer slow but steady growth."

Reagan's assurance of no wholesale cuts was challenged by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., Democratic chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, who said normal workload needs would peg the plan at up to $11 billion. "They must have done some incredible cutting," he said.

The governor earmarked $207 million for pay increases, providing civil servants with a 7 per cent raise, a 4.7 per cent hike for UC faculty members and 5.4 percent boost for state college instructors. Nonfaculty campus employees would receive a 3.7 per cent raise.

The UC operating budget was targeted at $493 million, up $38.8 million; the state colleges, $480.2 million, up $35.4 million; and state support of local schools, $2.6 billion, up $122 million.

For construction of a new school in the Fremont area for the deaf and blind, the budget earmarked nearly $20 million, with opening planned for the 1977 school year.

Rolling back history to 1946, the governor also proposed reinstituting the one license plate system for motor vehicles starting with new cars next year. This is calcuated to save $400,000 a year but would result in no lower registration fees.

Reagan provided no extra funds for possible construction of a new state Capitol or restoration of the current historic structure. The current budget contains $41 million for such a project and the administration foresaw "no possibility" that those would be spent in the next 16 months.

He also included $615,000 to hire more auditors and employes to enforce California's new political campaign spending laws and proposed giving the next governor-elect $125,000 to pay costs of setting up his administration between the time he wins the November election and when he is sworn into office in January.

Wildlife Lecture Offered Tonight

John Smail, director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, will talk on the conflicts between man and wildlife on the Farallones at 7:30 p.m. today at the Lawrence Hall of Science on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

This is the first in a special winter series of lectures on man and science to be given this month. On Jan. 17, Marian C. Diamond, associate professor of anatomy at UC, will discuss the evolution of the brain, on Jan. 24 Warren Winkelstein, dean of Berkeley's School of Public Health, will talk on medical care and on Jan. 31, Edward Bennett, associate director of laboratory of Chemical Biodynamics, will discuss the brain and memory.

WATER

on the same site in the Del Ganado Road-Las Ovejas Avenue area, which is an island of unannexed land surrounded by the water district.

Through an administrative error by the water district, school officials said, the school sites were not included when the surrounding lands were annexed to the water district years ago.

Until the moratorium, when the error was discovered, school officials thought the schools were within district boundaries.

But water district officials say the schools have been supplied on a "surplus water" basis since they were built about 16 years ago.

In a letter to the water district, Dixie Supt. Clifford W. Campbell said the water board has put itself "in the ridiculous position of saying you would cut off water service to a school."

"However, I can assure you the water district will not be terminating water service to our Santa Margarita School and its 500 students by Dec. 1 as you indicated in your letter.

"The Dixie School District will use every means at its disposal to see that water service to this school continues," Dr. Campbell said, adding he has asked the county counsel's office "to take whatever legal action is necessary. . ."

"The attorney (Thomas Thorner) seems to be the one giving us the problem," Brennan said.

Thorner told the Independent-Journal today "the district is sympathetic to the surplus water users but the law prohibits us from supplying water outside the district unless there is a surplus."

The county counsel's office, meanwhile, plans to ask the Local Agency Formation Commission and county supervisors to invoke a rarely used section of state law allowing the county supervisors to force the annexation of the schools, as well as open space lands in upper Lucas Valley, to the water district.

The maneuver, to be considered Wednesday by the Local Agency Formation Commission, can be made because the water district failed to act on the school's request in July to be annexed.

(If a special district fails to act within 35 days, state law allows the Local Agency Formation Commission to give county supervisors jurisdiction over the matter and decide if the annexation should go through.)

Board President Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., who called the cutoff "immoral", said he supported county attempts to force the annexation.

"I'm against cutting off any of the 'surplus water' users," he said. "I think it's immoral."

But, Martinelli said, the district has proceeded with the legal notices "to be consistent with the water moratorium."

Martinelli, along with director John MacPhail Jr., opposed the moratorium. He was the only director or district official who could be reached for comment today.

He acknowledged it was "a water district error' that excluded the school sites along with six or seven homes in the same area.

He said preliminary discussions have taken place between his district and the North Marin County Water District to transfer service of the "surplus water" areas.

Dr. Campbell, who said he hoped the matter could be worked out "administratively," said he would probably recommend his school board oppose such a switch because it would make the school site technically a surplus water user of the North Marin District.

Hence, he said, the district could be facing the same problem in later years with the North Marin district.

School Times

The Mill Valley School District's new schedule of starting and closing times, set up because of Daylight Savings Time, will end on Feb. 19. Schools will begin one-half hour later and end one-half hour later. The Independent-Journal gave a different date yesterday for the end of the new schedule.

OBITUARIES

Lloyd R. Richards

Private funeral for Lloyd R. Richards of Kentfield, retired vice president of Overseas Shipping Co., were held Tuesday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Richards, 73, of 50 Idylwild Road, died Sunday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Born in San Francisco, he was a veteran of World War I, serving in France. At the end of the war, he worked for Pacific Mail Steamship Co. in Los Angeles and later worked for Los Angeles Steamship Co. and in 1934 was named manager of the Los Angeles branch of Sudden and Christenson.

When Waterman Steamship Corp. bought Sudden and Christenson in 1951, a new firm was formed, known as Overseas Shipping Co., with Richards as vice president and general manager, with headquarters in San Francisco.

Richards was past president of the Los Angeles Steamship Assn., a member of the board of governors of the Los Angeles-Long Beach Chapter of the Propeller Club, charter member of the American Legion Merchant Marine Post No. 420, Masonic Order Royal Arch Masons of California, Chapter 5, Mount Moriah Lodge Free and Accepted Masons, Knights Templar of California, Golden State Commandery No. 16 and Islam Temple of the Shrine in San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Lorraine, and a sister, Mrs. Harold Trieber of San Francisco.

Memorial contributions to the San Francisco Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children or a favorite charity would be preferred by the family.

LUISE CAULFIELD

Funeral for Luise C. Caulfield, former Mill Valley resident and mother of George Caulfield of Mill Valley, will be at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Gantner-Felder-Kenny Mortuary in San Francisco.

Mrs. Caulfield, 76, of San Francisco, died Tuesday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness.

A native of Germany, she came to this country in 1903 with her parents. She went through the 1906 earthquake and fire and lived with her family in a tent in Golden Gate Park. She and her husband, the late John F. Caulfield, a San Francisco postal employee, and veteran of World War I, moved to Mill Valley in 1922 and lived there until 1964, when they moved to Pacific Grove. He died in 1966 and she moved back to San Francisco.

In addition to her son, she is survived by three other sons, John Caulfield of Sunnyvale, Stanley Caulfield of Fairbanks, Alaska and Leland Caulfield of Boxford, Mass., and 10 grandchildren.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

MICHAEL DE RUTTE

Michael Peter de Rutte of Lagunitas, who died Tuesday in Sacramento, is survived by five sisters, Daphne, Mary-Kate, Cecelia, Jean and Roseanne de Rutte and four brothers, Stanley, Rob-Roy, Sean and Mark de Rutte, all of Lagunitas. A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal listed an extra sister and omitted the name of one brother.

WILLIAM G. TAYLOR

Services were held in Sebastopol for William G. (Bingo) Taylor, who died Monday at a Petaluma hospital after being injured in an auto accident Saturday in North Marin. He was 73.

A native of Maryland, he lived at the Tides in Bodega Bay, where he had been employed as a fisherman for about 15 years.

Burial was in Sebastopol Cemetery.

MICHELL HOWELL

Michell Anne Howell, 17-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Howell of Sausalito, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital following a long illness.

She had resided at 76 Crescent Avenue in Sausalito.

Survivors include her parents, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pereira of Stinson Beach and paternal grandparents Beth Howell of Mill Valley and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Howell of Ben Wheeler, Tex.

Funeral is Satu. day at 2 p.m. at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Home in Mill Valley.

Private burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery. The family has asked that memorial gifts be made to the Crippled Children's Foundation.

CARL LIND

Carl H. J. Lind, longtime Bay Area resident, died yesterday in a Petaluma hospital after a brief illness. He was 74.

A native of Bornholm, Denmark, he came to the U.S. in 1923, settling in Oakland. He lived there until 16 years ago, when he moved to Petaluma. For many years he worked as a commercial painter for the Allied Painters Co. of Oakland, before retiring in 1962.

He was a member of the Elim Lutheran Church in Petaluma and was active in the church choir.

Lind is survived by his wife, Elsie Lind, of 638 E Street; a son, Leonard Lind of Laytonville, Mendocino County; a daughter, Lois Smith of La Mirada, Los Angeles County; a sister, Maria Lund of Petaluma, two brothers in Denmark and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Elim Lutheran Church, Baker and Stanley streets. Private inurnment will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

The family prefers contributions in his memory to the Elim Lutheran Church or the American Cancer Society.

Wounded Knee Leaders' Counsel Charges Witness Terror Tactics

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Defense attorneys for two American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders on trial in connection with the Wounded Knee takeover accused the government yesterday of creating "an atmosphere of terror" for potential witnesses.

Attorneys for Dennis Banks and Russell Means, leaders of the armed occupation of the South Dakota hamlet, moved for dismissal of charges against the two. No action was taken on the request, however.

Jury selection was scheduled for a third day today.

"It is impossible for these men to receive a fair trial," said Mark Lane of the defense team, which submitted a motion contending the government has harassed and threatened potential witnesses, lawyers and legal workers for the defense and solicited "false and perjured testimony" by various means including attempts to "buy off" some witnesses.

U.S. District Court Judge Fred Nichol and government prosecutors said they would study the 85-page motion.

"The assaults, the deception, the fraud, the political use of the federal, state, local and tribal police (at the Pine Ridge, S.D., Indian Reservation) and continuing illegal acts employed against the Indian people have created an atmosphere of terror," Lane said in an affidavit accompanying the motion.

Lane said the defense has prepared to prove "arrest of innocent persons were made by the FBI for the sole purpose of developing a pool from which vulnerable persons might be selected and turned into informers."

Banks and Means are charged with several felonies stemming from the 71-day Wounded Knee takeover. Theirs is the first of a number of trials for more than 130 persons indicted by a South Dakota grand jury. The trial has moved here, where their attorneys felt they would receive fairer treatment.

Novato Hires Firm To Aid In Manager Hunt

The Novato City Council has voted to employ a management firm to search for a city manager to succeed Charles A. Brown who resigned last month effective "as soon as possible after Jan. 1."

The council Tuesday night voted 4-to-1, with George C. Quesada dissenting, to hire Arthur D. Little Co. of San Francisco at a cost of $4,900, plus expenses.

Mayor Fred F. Ruegg said the firm will "perform functions we're just not in a position to perform and will, after recruiting and investigation, offer five or six top candidates from which the council will make its selection.

Firm representatives will interview the council to determine what it wants in a city manager and find out what the city needs before starting recruiting, Ruegg said.

Investments Pay Off For State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest says her office will achieve a record high in investment returns during the current fiscal year.

Mrs. Priest yesterday said the investment returns should surpass the $200 million mark.

She said earnings on investment of temporary idle state funds have already topped the $100 million mark for the first six months of the 1973-74 fiscal year which ends June 30. During the 1972-73 fiscal year, investment earnings totaled $140.3 million.

Auto Smog Device Delay Challenged

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two auto smog device firms and a group of environmentalists have sued the state to reinstate the 1974 deadlines for auto smog devices on 1966-70 cars.

Superior Court Judge David N. Eagleson yesterday set Feb. 8 for a hearing on a preliminary injunction that would reverse a controversial decision last month by the State Air Resources Board.

At one time last year the state was readying a program that would have had tens of thousands of California drivers install $35 antismog devices on their used cars in 1974.

But on Nov. 16, Gov. Ronald Reagan asked that the deadlines be reconsidered because there was some evidence, he said, that the devices caused cars to use more gasoline.

Five weeks later, after the governor replaced three members of the state air board, the panel decided to postpone the smog device program until 1975. The board members argued that the smog devices would have heightened the California fuel crisis.

The court chllenge charges the state air board's decision to postpone the smog device program was arbitrary and beyond its authority.

The suit was brought by the Clean Air Constituency, a group of environmentalists funded by a federal grant to implement the national Clean Air Act. Other plaintiffs included Dana Corp and Echlin Manufacturing Co., both of which made the devices for the California program.

A fourth member of the suit was Mrs. Gladys Meade, one of those ousted from the state Air Resources Board by Reagan, reportedly because she opposed the postponement.

Both smog device firms say they've invested some $14 million in the program and are stuck with thousands of smog devices which they cannot sell.

The environmentalists argue that the smog device postponement has compromised the need for clean, unpolluted air.

Ford Children Rate Him Average, Nearly 'Hip'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — He thinks rock singer Mick Jagger is "that motorcycle rider," but Vice President Gerald R. Ford's children still rate him as "average, verging on hip."

The 60-year-old Ford's confusion of Jagger with dare devil cycle rider Evel Knievel was one of several intimate glimpses into the family life of the nation's 40th vice president to be shown on national television this week.

Two nights ago talk show emcee Dick Cavett moved a battery of television cameras and a small army of technicians into Ford's modest Alexandria, Va. home to tape a 90-minute program to be shown tonight at 11:30 PDT over ABC, Channel 7.

Cavett threw in a few "hard" questions with his personal queries but got only Ford's well-documented answers about President Nixon and the administration's plight over Watergate.

Ford repeated his early contention that Nixon is not guilty of any criminal charges and talk of impeachment or resignation is "out of place."

Just suppose, pressed Cavett, that Nixon does resign and then is charged with criminal violations. Would Ford, as president, grant Nixon executive clemency?

"I should not comment in that regard because I strongly feel the President is not involved in any criminal activities," Ford said. "The President has been treated unfairly. Besides, that is just a speculative possibility and I won't comment on it."

Turning to Ford's wife, Elizabeth (Betty) Ford, Cavett asked "Do you conceive, or does the possibility of living in the White House scare you?"

"It's inconceivable," she said. "We're very happy here. It is unwise to even speculate on that. None of us talk about it or think about it."

Two of the four children living at home, Steven, 17 and Susan, 16, listened quietly and offered no further comment. The other two Ford children, Michael, 23, and John 21, are away at college.

After the Jagger-Knievel flip-flop, Cavett asked Steve and Susan how they would rate their father, "average, square verging on hip," and Steve nodded agreement.

Cavett observed that the two-story brick and frame home with living room, kitchen and den — no dining room — on the ground floor and four bedrooms upstairs, was typical of many "suburban middle class" homes and asked how Ford approached a "middle class" class problem of youngsters and marijuana.

"What would you do if you walked into the house one day and found one of your kids smoking a joint?" asked Cavett.

"I think I would be understanding," Ford said, "I would not take a violent step. I would object and then I would try to find a cure through reason rather than through utilization of force."

Question Of Traffic Still Key Problem

Developers of a regional shopping center in Larkspur must resolve traffic problems which the project will create before the city will continue consideration of the proposal.

The Larkspur Planning Commission decided Tuesday not to look at the $55 million center's environmental impact statement or other plans until the Rouse Co. of Maryland and Connoly Development Co. of Oakland come up with solutions to anticipated traffic circulation problems, said John E. Robert, city planning director.

Of special concern is the developers' proposal to locate a southbound offramp from Highway 101 directly onto the center site to help ease traffic congestion on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The state Department of Highways has indicated it will not permit the offramp.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

USE — Refused to allow flea markets as permitted uses in commercial zones but directed staff to draft an ordinance allowing such establishments with a use permit.

GENERAL — Agreed to permit professional office and commercial uses on Wood Island near Highway 101. Roberto said such uses were originally intended for the site but were overlooked in the drafting of the city general plan.

CONDOMINIUM — Approved the conversion of 10 apartments to condominiums at 775 South Eliseo Drive, as requested by James Menke.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Air District Accused Of Pandering To Oil Companies

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — An outgoing official of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District yesterday charged that the district deliberately mismeasures pollution levels and allows many oil companies to get away with violations of district regulations.

"This district is not run exclusively for the benefit of Standard Oil, the Ford Motor Company or those residents of the area who are well enough off to have the best of medical care and an air filtered, air-conditioned home in the suburbs away from traffic," Dr. David T. Mage declared.

Mage, a member of the district's advisory council and a professor of chemical engineering at San Jose State University made the accusations as he resigned to take a teaching job as a visiting professor of air pollution in Copenhagen.

He also said he will urge labor organizations, which he has represented on the council, to sue the district for failing to permit special treatment of clean air areas. There was no legal need for "clean" counties like Marin to be stuck with the same tough federal parking restrictions needed in polluted areas, he said.

Declaring it was absurd to impose the same rigid restriction throughout the nine-county district, Mage insisted it was being done simply because the district's staff had objected that it would be difficult and costly to do otherwise.

"If San Francisco had an ordinance that no building shall be over 500 feet tall and the tallest building was 1,000 feet tall, would it be reasonable to require by law that all buildings, even those 500 feet tall, reduce their height 50 per cent?" he asked.

Citing his record of almost five years of technical proposals to improve district measurement of pollution, Mage said "the staff has an almost perfect record of squelching every suggestion I have made."

Criticizing the staff's refusal to challenge increasingly tough federal controls on land use, he said the district and state Air Resources Board "are quite willing to let EPA (U.S. Environmental Protection Agency) become the target of public indignation for doing for them what is required by the Clean Air Act."

Mage also declared it is illegal for the district to measure air quality on the roof of its seven-story San Francisco Headquarters. Federal law requires the measurement to be made of air to which the public has access, he noted.

Mage apologized to Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., saying nothing personal was intended when he previously criticized Arrigoni's performance as a district director.

He rejected Arrigoni's assertion last week, however. That Mage's criticism was "reprehensible" and "deplorable." and that Mage had been "running to the newspapers."

Mage said he never signed a "waiver of my constitutional rights nor have I ever been notified that the Bay Area Air Pollution Control Law contains a gag rule."

The chairman of the district board, Santa Rosa City Councilman Gerald M. Poznanovich, told Mage his charges, made in a nine-page letter, were "not just going to be put in the file, I'll assure you of that. I will read them and get answers from the staff."

The board accepted Mage's resignation "with regrets" in an almost unanimous vote. The single exception was Arrigoni, who said, "I'm glad you're resigning. The advisory council will offer better advice without you."

Nine Cited For Smog Violations

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Ten notices for violations of Air Pollution Control District regulations were issued in Marin and Sonoma counties during December.

Cited by smog inspectors in Marin were: Hill Road Convalescent Hospital, Novato; Elmach Cabinet Co. and the Original Hickory Pit, both of Mill Valley; Guide Dogs for the Blind and L. Pollock of San Rafael, and Charles R. Hosey of Tamalpais Valley, who was cited twice.

SBA Lending Activities Under Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators have begun checking more Small Business Administration field offices for possible illegal lending activities as a result of tips from persons who have dealt with the SBA.

Sources on the House Banking Committee said four or five offices have been added to the list of 22 SBA field operations under investigation by the House Small Business Subcommittee.

The offices were added as a result of telephone tips and letters from a variety of sources including SBA employes, SBA borrowers and persons who were either refused loans or granted money under what they felt were questionable circumstances.

Some were crank leads, but investigators say they found most contained valid information.

One phone call led directly to a field visit by staff investigators to an SBA office where alleged illegal activities were taking place. Since public hearings on the SBA began in late November, staff investigators have checked five such field offices including the Richmond, Va., operation which triggered the full probe.

Of the five offices, only one has proved to be well run in the view of investigators. They refused to identify specific offices.

A full report on the investigators' findings will be presented to the Small Business Subcommittee after Congress returns from its recess Jan. 21.

Kleppe, in seeking additional fund authorization for his agency, has promised subcommittee members a complete internal review of charges leveled against the SBA during two recent weeks of public hearings. So far, Kleppe's investigation has resulted in the firing of three top SBA management officials, two of whom figured prominently in the congressional probe.

Committee sources said that although the staff investigation of the SBA is quieter and less sensational than the public hearings, the results are proving to be about the same — that serious irregularities have and do exist in a number of the SBA field offices which dole out funds to the small business community.

BALMY DAY ON THE BAY

While many parts of the nation were battling winter storms yesterday, these energetic sailors in Miami, Fla., fought to hang onto their Hobby Cat boat in Biscayne Bay. The pair was in no real danger with the catamaran, since this sort of thing happens frequently and is considered by boaters to be half the fun of sailing on a balmy day. South Florida temperatures have been in the 80s recently.

Larkspur Man Robbed; $80 Taken

A Larkspur man was robbed at gunpoint early this morning by two men who demanded he "make this worth our while," police reported.

Everett W. Thompson, 45, of 2130 Redwood Highway, said the two men took $80 from him at his trailer home.

Police gave this account of the robbery:

Thompson ate a late dinner at a Larkspur restaurant and noticed two men sitting next to him, one whose name he overheard as Gaines.

He went home about 1 a.m., and was accosted outside his trailer by the pair.

Thompson was then forced into his trailer at gunpoint and gave the men the cash. They left on foot.

Police said the suspect known as Gains is described as Caucasian, 22 to 26 years old, six feet tall, 165 pounds with shoulder length hair, wearing a green shirt and pants. The other man is described as Caucasian, 25 to 30 years old, five feet, six inches tall, 135 pounds.

Bagley Seeks To Insure Privacy

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to ban the increasing use of social security numbers on a myriad of state government and private business forms was proposed today by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley said he proposed the measure because social security numbers are "becoming more social and less secure all the time" in a computerized society that gathers personal data about virtually every citizen.

There is a growing trend to use social security numbers as standard universal identifiers and this enables individuals or agencies to pull together every kind of information available about a person according to Bagley. Banning its use as a universal identifier should eliminate this threat to personal privacy, he said.

The bill, to be introduced Monday, also would permit persons to have their social security numbers removed from existing files. It would give public and private agencies three years to switch to some system of random identification numbers.

The only exceptions would be for social security and taxation purposes.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

Reagan Proposes One License Plate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Governor

Reagan — Delivered his final "State of the State" address, calling for voluntary cutbacks in energy consumption and proposing elimination of the secretary of state as a partisan office.

The Senate
Introduced

College — Appropriates $22 million for state university and college construction. SB1517-Robbins, D-North Hollywood.

The Assembly

No major actions.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — For the first time in three decades, California vehicles would have one license plate instead of two under a proposal contained in Gov. Ronald Reagan's new state budget.

If approved by the Legislature, motorists registering new cars would receive a single, rear-end license plate beginning next year. Both front and rear plates still would be required on vehicles which already had them.

Verne Orr, Reagan's chief of finance, estimated the switch to single plates would save $400,000 a year.

A spokesman for the California Highway Patrol predicted that local police will "go into orbit" when they hear of the plan because the current front-end plates make it easier for them to spot stolen vheicles.

Elmer A. Brown, an official with the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), said the one-plate proposal was prompted by "the fact that steel is getting very hard to get and very costly."

Before Reagan's plan could take effect, the Legislature would have to pass a special bill authorizing the switch to single plates.

Brown added that the switch would have little effect on the Folsom Prison inmates who make the plates because they still would have to prepare a special metal stamp for each plate.

Reagan's proposed 1974-75 budget also contains $2.2 million to implement the year-round registration program, which is to begin next year.

Beginning in 1975, motorists will purchase their vehicle registration tags throughout the year instead of once a year. The $2.2 million is to set up the computer program for year-round registration.

Lake Washington Rebirth Shows Cause Not Hopeless

By DAVID F. SALISBURY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

SEATTLE — More than half of America's 1.6 million lakes are dying from over-fertilization and the lack of oxygen.

But one, Lake Washington, has been rescued.

A unique partnership of scientific knowledge and public concern combined here to begin the efforts to save Lake Washington more than ten years before environmental consciousness swept the U.S.

It all started one summer day in 1955, when a young ecologist from the University of Washington was out sailing.

Just because he thought the water looked different somehow, George Anderson filled a handy bottle with lake water.

Later, when he looked at the sample under a microscope, Dr. Anderson saw a startling sight — a new kind of algae, Oscillatoria rubescens. These tiny aquatic plants signal the onset of eutrophication, an over-fertilization that eventually leads to oxygen starvation.

This occurs when the microscopic plant life in a lake becomes too plentiful. As it dies the algae settle to the bottom of the lake. There they decompose and in the process deplete the oxygen content in the water. And, because fish can't live in oxygen-free water, the lake finally becomes uninhabitable.

Dr. Anderson took his startling find to Prof. W. T. Edmondson, the acknowledged scientific authority on Lake Washington.

"Finding this algae convinced us that the lake was in much worse condition that we had imagined," Dr. Edmondson reminisced during a recent interview.

At that time it was obvious to everyone living on the lake that it was deteriorating. The waters had turned green and murky from the over-abundance of algae flourishing there.

Since the early 1940's municipal plants in the area had been dumping thousands of gallons of treated sewage into Lake Washington. Although this waste was not harmful to humans, it combined tons of nutrients, mainly phosphates and nitrates, that were causing an explosion in the algae population.

The University of Washington had carried out studies on Lake Washington's chemical and biological activity from the 1950's. So despite his surprise at finding Oscillatroia rubescens specifically, Dr. Edmundson knew what was going on in the lake.

Because of similar experiences reported in Swiss lakes in the 19th century, and the university studies, Dr. Edmondson felt he could accurately predict the lake's future if no steps were taken. A green, slimy scum would form on its surface. The stink of dying algae would taint the lakefront area.

But Dr. Edmondson calculated, if the dumping of sewage — some 20 million gallons a day by the 1950's — were stopped and other steps taken, the lake would largely recover within 10 years.

Dr. Edmondson's predictions soon became an essential part of the political debate that was being waged over a proposal to clean up the lake. By 1958, when a volunteer citizen campaign finally culminated in the establishment of $179-million publicly financed sewage diversion and treatment system, there was indeed a greenish-brown scum on Lake Washington, and many of the beaches were closed.

Dr. Edmondson saw his role at this point as simply an extension of his normal duties as university professor and educator. He appeared on television and radio debates, and spent many hours discussing the scientific facts with people on both sides of the controversy.

Lake Washington recovered faster than expected. Its recovery and the scientific studies documenting the effort hold great promist for other rescue operations now being carried out. They demonstrate that lakes are sensitive and respond readily to changes in their watershed.

However, all lakes are different, Dr. Edmondson stresses. Characteristics such as biological activity and the rate at which water is replaced vary greatly from lake to lake. As a result the solutions to different lakes' problems will also vary greatly.

On the other hand, this reputable scientist also sees a great danger in not taking the first steps toward pollution abatement just because the results cannot be scientifically predicted. To him certain things are obvious — for example, the sewage from a large city is damaging and that damage can be lessened by treating it to remove phosphates.

Although attempts like the phosphate ban in the Great Lakes area or the efforts using mechnical pumps to break the eutrophication cycle in Lake Waccabac in New York may not be totally successful, they must be tried, Dr. Edmondson feels.

As tangible evidence of the rewards, Dr. Edmondson need only send a skeptical visitor a few blocks east of his office. There he will see Lake Washington, blue and sparkling in the afternoon sun.

Hot Meal Program Recipient Of Grant

An $83,000 grant has been awarded to the Sonoma County People for Economic Opportunity to enlarge and expand its hot meal programs for the elderly.

The grant, from the California Commission on Aging, will mean at least 200 meals per day at six locations in Sonoma County, including Petaluma, Sebastopol and Boyes Springs. In Petaluma, the grant will expand services of the Golden Circle Dining Club which meets each afternoon from 4 to 5 p.m. at the social hall of the United Methodist Church, 5th & D Streets.

The programs, according to Carl Cole, executive director of the Sonoma County Council on Aging, provides a hot meal containing at least "one-third" of the daily nutritional needs" to those 60 years of age and older who cannot afford adequate food, or who cannot shop or cook for themselves.

The meals, served weekdays except holidays, cost $1.30. The grant, added Cole, will also be used to subsidize meals for those who can't afford the charge.

For those who are shut in or who are otherwise unable to get to the dining site, arrangements will be made to have the meal delivered to their homes, he said.

Advance reservations for the Golden Circle Club may be made by contacting Santina Hooper, chairman of the Petaluma Club, or the Council on Aging in Santa Rosa.

Dog Course

Dog experts from the Sir Francis Drake Kennel Club will present a course on the care and instruction of dogs on Saturdays starting at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Humane Society Education Center in Novato. The course will end Feb. 9.

Dominican Schedules Spring Registration

Dominican College of San Rafael will register students for the spring semester on Jan. 17 and 21, college officials have announced.

Undergraduates may register from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Jan. 21 and graduates from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. on Jan. 17.

More than 45 late afternoon and evening courses will be offered during spring quarter, including such new courses as creative television production, psychology of women and educational communication.

"Before the Word and Beyond," a series of Monday lectures on the nature and function of language, will be one of the new courses in the college's continuing education program.

Another new course, "A Quarto of Modern Poets," will be offered on Wednesdays.

Registration for the continuing education program can be done by mail or in person.

Israeli Survival To Be Discussed

Dr. Martin Primack, San Jose State University professor, will discuss "International Diplomacy — Oil and the Survival of Israel" at a public meeting sponsored by the Marin Chapter of the American Jewish Congress on Jan. 20.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scnurer of 19 Via Capistrano, Tiburon.

Dr. Primack, professor of economics and international affairs, recently returned from a one-year visit to Israel, where he completed a book soon to be published entitled, "Economic History of the State of Israel."

Health Director

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Dr. William E. Mayer, chief deputy director of the state Health Department, was named yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan as acting director of the department.

Golden Gate Span Top Attraction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Golden Gate Bridge is the top man-made tourist attraction in the United States, according to a travel industry poll, the Commerce Department said yesterday.

It said a poll to determine the "seven man-made wonders of the U.S.A." with the greatest tourist appeal had the following results:

1. The Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco.
2. Mt. Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota.
3. The Astrodome in Houston, Tex.
4. The Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.
5. Hoover Dam on the Colorado River in Arizona and Nevada.
6. Walt Disney World in Florida.
7. Gateway Arch in St. Louis.

The U.S. Travel Service, an agency of the Commerce Department, conducted the poll of the American travel industry through its newsletter.

AT LAST — SLIDE REPAIR

Workmen prepare to lower water pipe into ditch yesterday at the Linda Vista earthslide in Mill Valley, estimated to be one of the most massive slides accompanying last winter's destructive rains. The roadway will soon be paved, completing the $175,000 reconstruction job. Linda Vista residents have been forced to use a steep fire road over the Corte Madera Grade to get to their homes during the past year. Most of the work was paid for by federal and state grants.

Audit Task Force To Keep The Oil Companies Honest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Energy Chief William E. Simon set up a task force today to audit "price, profit and supply records of every petroleum refinery in the nation."

"The program in no way reflects on the refiners, but it will assure us that they understand and are abiding by Federal Energy Office regulations," Simon said.

Simon's action follows contentions of some oil industry critics that the government is not getting accurate production and price figures from the companies.

Simon said the task force would be composed of officials from the Internal Revenue Service and the FEO.

The audit program "is designed to insure that petroleum product price increases are justified and reflect only increase costs to refiners for imported and domestic petroleum supplies and not increased profits," Simon said.

It is a major step towards setting up "an independent reporting and information system" on refinery inventories, Simon said.

Simon said the task force would be divided into teams which "will be conducting continuing audits in corporate offices and visiting individual firms as often as four times a year."

The overall program will cover all 140 refineries in the United States, Simon said.

Under FEO regulations refineries are permitted to adjust prices once a month. The adjustment must reflect only increased costs for crude oil, foreign and domestic, or refined products purchased for resale.

The refiners also must report cost justification calculations every month to support price increases.

Simon's announcement came amid growing criticism of the oil industry. A new Gallup Poll showed that more persons—25 per cent of those questioned—felt the companies were responsible for the crisis more than any other single factor.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said in Philadelphia there is "a lot of reasonable doubt" about oil companies' role in the crisis. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said in San Francisco that Congress should force companies to make full disclosures and impose stiff excess profits taxes on them.

In Seattle, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., predicted today that Congress would pass emergency energy legislation soon after reconvening Jan. 21. The measure had been blocked by a filibuster in the final days of the 1973 session.

Congressional sources said several new laws were being considered that would place companies under tough regulatory controls.

New government figures showed that U.S. consumption of gasoline dropped in the week ended Dec. 29, 18.6 per cent from the previous week when consumption had registered a 7.7 per cent decline.

The deputy energy chief, John Sawhill, said consumption of crude oil also was down last week and said a decision on gasoline rationing may be postponed beyond March 1—the date officials had set for a standby rationing system to be in readiness.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today that despite the crisis, tourism should not be considered either frivolous or expendable and said every effort must be made to protect it because of the crucial economic impact it has on some areas of the country.

Younger Refuses Permission To Sue Water Board Member

The state attorney general yesterday denied a Tamalpais Valley man's request for permission to sue Marin Municipal Water District Director Ronald T. Stafford on the grounds that Stafford did not live in the district at the time of his election.

"No substantial questions of fact or law were raised regarding the proposed defendant's qualification for the office he now holds," said Atty Gen. Evelle Younger in a letter to the district board.

The request to sue was by Charles S. Adkins, a resident of Division Five from which Stafford was elected in June 1972.

Younger's decision ends the dispute, according to water district attorney Tom Thorner. "A couple of similar cases have been appealed to the courts, but the courts have said there is no appeal and have thrown them out," Thorner said.

Adkins, through attorney Hugh G. Lawrence, contended the 29-year-old physician and conservationist had not been a district resident at the time of the election and said he had hired a private investigator to prove that.

He asked the board not to seat Stafford until the director's actual residence was determined. But the board voted in Aug. 1972 to seat Stafford and declined to investigate the matter further after the director said he lived at 270 Currey Avenue in Sausalito, within Division Five, which includes most of Sausalito, Belvedere, Tiburon, Marin City and Tamalpais Valley.

Stafford's residency problems began soon after he filed for the board post in Feb. 1972 and learned that his home, at 19 Wolfback Ridge Road in Sausalito, was not in the district.

A day before the deadline for filing, he notified county election officials that he had moved to 71 Sunshine Avenue, a single-family home containing an apartment within the district. He said he moved there before moving again to Currey Avenue.

Stafford charged that Marin County developers were behind the move to keep him off the board because of his philosophy of limiting growth by limiting future water supply. He claimed the district attorney's office had him tailed before the election.

LANDSLIDE SNARLS HIGHWAY TRAVEL

Road crews at Santa Monica had their hands busy yesterday on the Pacific Coast Highway when a landslide snarled traffic on three northbound lanes. No injuries were reported, however. Meanwhile today officials banned travel to the San Bernardino mountains so highways can be cleared of snow drifts up to five feet. Elsewhere, a storm has spread snow from the Great Lakes to the East Coast, leaving New York City with an overnight snowfall of five inches.

Schools In Kentfield To Have Later Start

Students in the Kentfield School District will begin classes 30 minutes later starting Monday it was decided yesterday after a poll of parents favored the change by a 3-to-1 margin.

Dr. Eugene C. Peters, district superintendent, said the change was ordered after half of the district's parents responded to the poll in just 24 hours.

He said 1,250 students in the district will begin classes at 9 a.m. instead of 8:30 a.m. from Monday through Feb. 15. Anticipating continued daylight saving time next year, he said the later starting time would begin Nov. 1 and continue through Feb. 15.

Peters said over 350 parents returned the questionnaire with their children yesterday and another 50 telephoned their views on the time change.

The change means elementary students will complete their day at 3:15 p.m. and junior high students at 3:30 p.m. Peters said no change in lunch schedules is anticipated but bus pickups will be a half hour later.

Two Inmates Are Missing

Two San Quentin inmates walked away from the prison's firehouse outside the main walls last night and were still missing today.

Donald H. Gibson, 33, and Steven J. McKim, 29, last were seen at 9 p.m. and were missing at a 10:30 p.m. check, according to prison information officer William D. Nyberg.

Gibson was sent to San Quentin Dec. 29, 1971 to serve six months to 10 years on a conviction of possessing fraudulent checks in Orange County. McKim arrived at San Quentin April 4, 1973 as a parole violator, after being convicted of first-degree robbery in San Francisco.

Advisory Chief

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Donald A. Wiedmann, a San Diego real estate broker, yesterday was named chairman of a new 10-member advisory committee on a $1.45 million program to advance real estate consumer education.

Man Admits Slaying Of His Wife

Patrick Joseph Pitts, accused of pumping three shots into his estranged wife as she played the organ in a Corte Madera restaurant, pleaded guilty yesterday to second degree murder.

Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best set sentencing for the 52-year-old San Jose service station mechanic for Jan. 21.

The killing occurred Sept. 21 as Beverly Tanzi Pitts, a 48-year-old mother of six, sat behind the organ at Le Tonneau on Paradise Drive.

Witnesses told the Marin Grand Jury Pitts strode into the bar portion of the restaurant, argued briefly with his wife, drew a gun and shot her three times.

Joshua W. Thomas, a deputy district attorney, said his office permitted Pitts to plead guilty to second degree murder because of a "question as to his mental stability when he committed the offense."

Cotati Council Boosts Dog Licensing Fees

Dog licenses in Cotati may soon cost more as the result of an ordinance introduced Tuesday by the city council.

A city spokesman said the new fees would be $2.50 for altered animals and $6 for all others.

The higher fees would not go into effect until March. Present fee is $3.50 for all dogs.

The Cotati City Council also:

INCREASE — Opposed a proposed rate increase by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

APPOINTMENT — Named Ramie Ahlstrom to the parks and recreation commission.

SCHOOLS — Requested the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District to reschedule classes so elementary students will not be required to go to school before daylight.

Emeritus College To Start Soon

Emeritus College, the Marin Community College District's new educational program for persons in or nearing retirement, will begin its first semester this month with several courses, trips, tours and concerts.

The program was financed through a federal grant and was authorized last year by district trustees.

Seven courses will be offered in the first semester and a reduced fee will be charged to persons joining the Emeritus College student body. There is no fee for membership and the only requirement for joining is that a person be at least 55 years old.

Registration for Emeritus College courses and events can be done by mail or in person beginning Jan. 21 at the College of Marin Student Services Center.

Courses being offered are: Lapidary Art, Achieving Self Realization in the Older Adult Year, Autobiography: Writing from Experience, Knit-Crochet, Leisure — A New Life Style, The Law-How to Use It, and Maximum Income — Minimum Risk for Retired Investors.

Additionally, tours will be offered to the Exploratorium in San Francisco on Feb. 6, Lick Observatory on Feb. 15 and the Oakland Museum on March 2. Tours are in conjunction with regular tours offered by the district.

Concerts set for the Tamalpais, Greenbrae retirement residence, are: Carolyn Caton, lyric soprano, Jan. 18; Marcelle Gallez, pianist, Feb. 15; College of Marin String Ensemble, March 14; Karl Goldstein, pianist, April 19; and Marion Marsh, soprano, and David Wade, baritone, May 17. All are at 8 p.m.

Disclosure Asked Of Oil Firms

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The first order of business when Congress reconvenes Jan. 21 should be passage of a bill requiring full disclosure by oil companies and imposing a stiff excess profits tax on them, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said yesterday.

Cranston said the Senate should also launch an investigation of whether oil company practices are contributing to the energy shortage and whether they are reaping "windfall" profits.

Full disclosure of reserves and refining and production capacities would make this possible, Cranston told a news conference.

"There is a widespread suspicion that the energy crisis is a manufactured crisis," Cranston said. "Many people believe that the fuel shortage is a conspiracy by the oil companies — perhaps in collusion with the Nixon administration — to create an artificial scarcity. . .

"I don't know if any of this is true, but I do know that the oil industry secrecy is fueling the suspicion and undermining public confidence in the administration's program."

The California senator said he felt gasoline rationing was "very likely" this year and that he was concerned that some provision be made for California commuters who could not drive to their jobs on the proposed 35 gallons of gas a month.

POLICE PROGRAM

Women Schooled In Dangers Of Attack

By BETTY FROST

"Lady Beware" is the theme of an education program which the San Francisco Police Department presents to assist women in protecting themselves from attacks.

Officer Morgan Peterson, who lives in Mill Valley, works with the department's Juvenile Bureau in the Police Youth Program. Off-duty policemen conduct the protection sessions. Originally the talks were given for San Francisco school girls, but more and more requests have come from secretarial schools, banks and the personnel departments of large corporations where women are employed, Peterson explained.

"We don't want people to be terrified," Peterson said. "We want them to be prepared to expect the worst and know how to handle the situation."

Officer Stephen Hardy of Novato, who coordinates the drug abuse prevention program for the Juvenile Bureau of the San Francisco Police Department, finds a definite correlation between narcotics addition and opportunistic crimes against weak victims. "A male addict who is supporting a $150 a day heroin habit will turn to robbing individuals, burglarizing homes, or purse snatching, taking cash or items which are easily merchandised," he said.

THE EDUCATIONAL film, "Lady Beware," narrated by actress Shirley Jones, stresses four basic points, derived from the letters of the word, SAFE. They are security, avoiding danger, fleeing from danger, and engaging the attacker.

Points made in the film and by the officers under security include, locking doors and windows in the home, not letting strangers in the home, being careful in talking to strangers on the telephone not to reveal that you are alone. Always lock your car doors when the car is parked. At night ask someone to accompany you to the car.

Look in the front and back seats before getting into the car, and lock the car doors and windows when driving.

Things to avoid include going out alone at night. If a woman must go out, she should use well-lighted streets and avoid routes which offer places of concealment. Don't go alone to self-service laundries at night.

At home, close the curtains and leave lights on in several parts of the house. Do not advertise that you live alone by using an obviously female name (like "Mary Smith") in the telephone book listing or the apartment house roster. The police suggest using initials, or adding a fictitious roommate's name. When out alone, avoid attracting attention with a display of valuable jewelry or by wearing extreme styles.

"FLEE IF you hear a stranger in your home at night. Don't turn on any lights and get out through a door or window. Go to a neighbor's home and call the police. A woman walking alone who is followed by a car can reverse her route more quickly than the driver. Run and try to contact police as soon as possible," said Peterson.

When confrontation cannot be avoided, "You might as well fight for your life," Peterson said, "but only if the assailant is unarmed."

A woman's best weapon is to scream, which startles the attacker and should attract attention. The ordinary purse contains a useful arsenal — a nail file, a pen or a rattail comb can be used to stab. Hair spray directed to the eyes is good, as are small plastic containers of lemon juice and a container of pepper spray. A lighted cigarette is also a potential weapon.

"We suggest that women tape a dime inside their purses so it can be easily found to make a phone call, and slip a small spray bottle in a coat pocket so it is easy to reach," Peterson said.

OFFICER PETERSON, who was on the San Anselmo police force for four years before joining the San Francisco department, also has some advice for Marinites.

"Young women take their lives in their hands when they hitchhike, and we also advise drivers not to invite strangers into their cars.

"Never stop to help a stranded motorist day or night," he cautioned. "The best thing other motorists can do is to alert the authorities and ask them to send a unit to assist. It is dangerous to try to help because the vehicle apparently in trouble may just be a ruse to rob or harm the good Samaritan."

The officer thinks good cooperation between neighbors is very helpful in the suburbs, and suggested a call to the police if a neighbor notices anything unusual at a nearby home. In Marin many homes are isolated, he pointed out, and often residents work away from their homes.

Neighbors should also be advised about vacation plans, so they can tell police if they notice something out of the ordinary. He also approves of burglar alarm systems and thinks dogs are good, but not infallible. He spoke of a case where a large dog was distracted by a delicious steak brought by a burglar.

IN MARIN, too, passengers should be careful when getting off a bus, particularly in the winter when it is dark. They should walk home on well-lighted streets and, if possible, be accompanied by a friend.

If a woman driving alone is followed by another car, the officer advises her not to go home, but to drive to the local police station, fire station or some well-lighted place where there are lots of people around.

"The elderly should be particularly careful when they go out and where. Senior citizens are less physically able," he said, "and are easily knocked down by ruthless attackers. Let them have the purse and protect yourself," he advised.

"Suburban centers are just as subject to pickpockets and purse snatchers as downtown shopping districts in big cities. Carry your purse close to your body and at the front, and never put it down," Peterson suggested.

Programs on safety for children, given at schools, are also the subject matter of a television program each Wednesday afternoon on Channel 2, which Peterson conducts.

A WOMAN can protect herself from an attacker by shoving her fingers in his eyes, according to Morgan Peterson of Mill Valley, a San Francisco police officer who helps conduct sessions on self protection for girls and women. Here his wife, Jo Ann, plays the part of the victim with Peterson.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Memories Span Only One Home

"We moved to this house when we were married and we've been here ever since," said Mrs. Irving W. (Bill) Hall of Corte Madera.

The Halls celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Dec. 30 at the home of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Faure of Paradise, with friends and relatives attending a dinner. Now they are planning to send a piece of the wedding anniversary cake to their daughter, Elise Kunkel, who lives in Kitzbuhl, Austria, and who surprised them with a call the night of their anniversary.

Also on hand was their son, Irving F. Hall of San Francisco, and his wife.

Bill and Augustine Hall each came as children to Corte Madera in 1906 — he with his family just two weeks before the earthquake, and she with her family to escape San Francisco right afterward and to take refuge with an uncle. Bill Hall recalls that when the earthquake struck, his father ran to grab a clock off a shelf so it wouldn't fall on his head, and remembers horses running away through Corte Madera. Then his father left word with Mr. Minto, the telegrapher, to tell his mother he was going to Hollister to check on relatives.

"She never got the message and when he didn't come back, we thought he was dead," Hall related. But his father returned after a few days.

MRS. HALL'S family had lived on Nob Hill and lost everything when the quake and fire came, so they fled to Corte Madera to live. But the couple didn't really know each other until they met through friends in January, 1923. By May they had announced their engagement and, because Bill's family was moving away, they married in December at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur.

"We've seen every one of these houses go up," said Mrs. Hall, gesturing toward the houses visible from their living room windows. Bill Hall remembered how as kids they would swim down in the Corte Madera lagoon at high tide, where the park and city buildings now stand.

He worked for S and W Fine Foods in San Francisco for 40 years, taking the train and boat to San Francisco. Aboard the ferry he would see all the people he knew every day and play cards until the boat docked. "I took the train and boat right up until the end, even when they had started buses across the bridge," he said. Hall was head of inside sales for the company when it was sold, and has been a part-time dispatcher for the Marin Municipal Water District for 10 years, a job he enjoys even though he works only Sundays and holidays.

MRS. HALL took teacher training at San Francisco State Teachers College, also commuting by train and boat with other Marin women who became teachers. She taught a few years, then quit to rear her two children, later just substituting.

When World War II came, she became the only teacher at San Quentin School. Later a second teacher was added for the eight grades. From her 23-year teaching career she came to know her students well, and still has visits from many and received congratulatory cards from many for their 50th anniversary. On her retirement, the Augustine Hall art scholarship was named for her in the San Rafael City Schools.

"I just loved teaching," she said. But now she devotes much of her time to the back garden of the home, where a huge redwood tree stands. "I grew it from a burl like this one," she said, pointing out a small dish in the dining room."

SHE SHOWED other redwoods starting at the side of the yard she also grew from burls, and in the freezer she has packed away the fruits and vegetables from the peach trees and garden she grew last summer.

"It's time to get the bulbs in —they're starting to sprout in the basement," she finished.

Augie and Bill Hall, who have two grandchildren, Eric and Scott Hall of San Rafael, are enjoying the colored photos taken at their 50th wedding reception.

"It was so beautiful," she said of the reception. "It doesn't seem like the 51st year."

Course In Weaving Set

A course in "Fundamentals of Weaving" will be offered on Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. by Petaluma Adult Education beginning Jan. 31 at Petaluma High School.

The class will cover weaving on two or four harness table looms and instructions for making these looms, primitive looms and warping boards. It will also cover warping the loom and drafting plain, twill, double and unbalanced weaves, as well as tapestry weaves and spinning wool on a drop spindle.

Information on the course may be obtained from Ann Richards of Petaluma or the adult education office.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Family Talks About Her Baby Like An Unwanted Puppy Dog

DEAR RAP:

My folks are in the other room right now, talking about the baby I'm going to have as if it were a puppy or a batch of kittens. I hear words like "abortion" or "adoption": my baby — just something to get over with as soon as possible. Can't they feel any love for a child that will be their grandson or granddaughter? All they think of is —Sally isn't married, so no baby.

My guy and I want to get married but they say we're too young. We want our child. I could take care of it, I know I could. And in a couple of years Johnny would be out of school and could marry me. Maybe before. I wouldn't mind dropping out of classes or studying at home.

I know it would be hard for Mom —but she's the only one who is even half way on my side. My dad and brothers and sisters all think my baby isn't any more important than an unwanted pup.

I just told them about being pregnant, and they called a big family conference, with me the only one not invited. Just because I'm young doesn't mean I don't know how to love.

Please be on my side. — SALLY

DEAR SALLY:

We are on your side, in that we feel a pregnant girl should have the right of choice. But we also feel you should think about your choice very carefully, discuss it with everyone concerned —and perhaps with a professional counselor as well. Don't let high emotion push you into a decision you may regret — and that goes for your family's emotions as well as yours. — HELEN AND SUE

RAP:

This friend cuts on everything I have. Her house is "bigger" and "prettier." Her clothes are nicer and she's always comparing them to mine. She shows off her figure and makes little remarks about where mine isn't so great.

When she gets better grades at school I hear about them, but she never mentions the "D" she gets in math.

I never can think of the right things to say back to her, so she'd know how it feels, so I just steam. How can I shut off the slams? — MAD & FRUSTRATED

M AND F:

Are you sure your own insecurity doesn't make this friend's ordinary remarks sound like "slams?" If everything she has seems "bigger, prettier, nicer," then it's easy to get super-sensitive.

But . . . since those comparisons make you miserable, avoid 'em, if you can't adjust to them. Maybe a cool-off would show Ms. Better-Than when to keep her mouth shut. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel —or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

Couple Sets June Date For Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy A. Floyd Jr. of Petaluma have announced the engagement of their daughter Arlene to Jerry Mungle, also of Petaluma.

Arlene was graduated from Petaluma High School. She is the sister of Mrs. Charles Holmes Jr. of Penngrove and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Montoya of Espanola, N.M. and Mr. and Mrs. Tracy A. Floyd of Guyton, Ga.

Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Mungle of Petaluma. He was graduated from Petaluma High School and is currently attending Weatherford College in Weatherford, Tex.

He is the brother of Gary and Kriss Mungle of Petaluma and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Causbie of Weatherford and Mrs. Vernon Steele of Marion, Ill.

Mary Healy Betrothed To Dennis Bacon

A wedding in Marin is being planned by Mary Beth Healy and Dennis Richard Bacon on Feb. 9.

The bride-elect, now a resident of Mountain View, is the daughter of Mrs. John Edward Doyle of Mountain View and the late Clyde Elbert Healy Jr. She has one sister, Patricia Healy, attending California State University, San Jose. They are the granddaughters of Mrs. Clyde Healy of Alameda.

The future bridegroom, who lives in Sunnyvale, is the son of Mrs. Clement A. Bacon of Sunnyvale and the late Mr. Bacon. He has two brothers, Ronald W. Bacon of Pacifica and David C. Bacon of San Jose.

Mary Beth lived in Marin until a year ago. She is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin. The future bride participated in the Marin Ballet Aquacade for 10 years. She is employed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in San Francisco.

Plans June wedding

Engagement Of Couple Is Announced

The engagement of Jacqueline M. Rush and Michael P. Warych was announced at a buffet dinner on Dec. 29 at the future bridegroom's parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Warych in San Jose.

Jacki is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Rush of Novato. She is the sister of Richard E. Rush, Mrs. Leonard Genetin and James Rush, all of Novato, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Emilia Giorgetti of Seattle. She was graduated from Novato High School and California State University, Chico, with a teaching credential.

Mike is the brother of John, James, Mary Ann and Martin A. Warych, all of San Jose, and Mrs. John Wallis of Barbers Point Naval Air Station in Hawaii. The future bridegroom was graduated from Novato High School and California State University, Chico, where he was graduated cum laude. He is completing work toward an elementary teaching credential. He is employed at the university.

The couple plans a June 22 wedding.

PARENT AND CHILD

Current Energy Crunch Presents Opportunities For Joint Programs

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Many children in cold-weather countries are going to be out of school for extended periods this winter. What a great opportunity for parents and children to work on some education projects together.

To take advantage of the time, however, you will need to lay in some supplies. First of all, each child must bring his textbooks home from school. Parents must work out with school authorities some way for school libraries and learning centers to loan out their materials while the school is officially closed.

One way might be for the Parent-Teacher Association to staff the centers for two hours each Saturday morning, loaning equipment and software for a week at a time to families who would agree to share with others.

Also, parents will need to ask school personnel which children will be without parental guidance during the closed-school days so that each of those children will have a home to go to, not only to keep warm but to keep up with school lessons. Again, the P-TA might be the clearinghouse to see that children are matched up with compatible families.

TEACHERS WILL need to support these efforts by laying out sensible lesson plans for students and parents to follow. For instance, the drama coach can certainly tell students which plays will be produced in the warm spring, so that everyone involved can read the scripts thoroughly and be thinking of how best to work out the production.

Science teachers will need to work out lesson plans that do not require extensive laboratory equipment but use simple homemade materials. (A friend of mine has a string of pot lids that he claims sounds a scale. This might be a good project for music and physics.)

Also, prior to school closing, students might arrange with teachers, guidance counselors and principals certain independent study projects that would earn credit. Such projects can be done outside school but are intellectually rigorous.

In most communities there are adults who have considerable skill in voice or musical instrument who would undoubtedly enjoy singing and playing with interested and capable children.

Those secondary school students wanting to have school credit for music could work out a program (perhaps playing in a quartet) that is approved in advance by the music department.

ALTHOUGH SOME parents will not be able to find a niche in their business offices for any of their children, there must be many who could use an extra file clerk or errand runner or statistician or researcher. Again, this work experience should be discussed in advance with school authorities and some rationality for providing school credit could be worked out.

Richard Lane Will Lead Square Dancers

Richard E. Lane of San Rafael is the new president of the Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club. He has been a member for two years and previously served as vice president.

Anyone who enjoys dance may join the club, according to the president, with age not a factor.

In addition to monthly Saturday night dances the club sponsors a variety of activities, including a mystery trip, family picnic, Christmas and New Year's Eve parties, a boat cruise and dinner dance at Lake Tahoe, a camp out in Willits, and members participate in the Silver State Convention held in Reno.

Purpose of the club is to create a spirit of friendliness and good fellowship in sharing the pleasures of square dancing and to pave the way for better understanding of mutual interests, the new president said.

He is also a member of the Round Dancing Club, Huff 'n Puffs Square Dance Club, St. Vincent's School for Boys and the Sausalito Yacht Club.

A native of San Francisco, he attended Grass Valley High School and Modesto Junior College prior to serving four years in the Navy during World War II. He has lived in Marin for 28 years. Lane and his wife, Pat, are the parents of Yvonne Lane of Burlingame and Robert Lane of Chicago. They have two granddaughters and three foster sons. He is an electrician.

Other officers of the club are Walt Louie, vice president; Mrs. Don Kenyon, treasurer; Mrs. Chris Oppenlander, secretary; Harry Sharkey, delegate; Al Angulo, membership chairman; Sam Ferry, sheriff, and Al and Joan Sims, publicity chairmen.

News Journal Sets Open House

The Marin Women's News Journal will have an open house Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. in the Marin Women's Center at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue in San Rafael.

The journal is a monthly publication with a volunteer staff. According to the staff, the purpose of the open house is to meet women involved in the Women's Movement and to involve more women in the process of producing the journal.

At the open house plans will be discussed for Marin's second annual All Women's Festival, which the journal staff will sponsor on International Women's Day, March 8.

FIFTY YEARS OF BEAUTIFUL PEALING

For half a century, the Robert Dollar Chimes (left) have rung out from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, tolling the hours, summoning worshipers, noting graduations and signalling mourning and joyous tidings. Sunday, the seminary will recall the gift 50 years ago from shipping magnate Robert Dollar and his wife, with Wilbur Russell (center) playing the chimes and choral and musical groups performing. The concert will begin at 2:30 p.m. in Stewart Chapel atop Seminary Hill (right) with campus walking tours before and following the concert.

Novato Lists Nominees For 1973 Design Awards

Sixteen new buildings, including commercial, administrative-professional and multiple-family dwellings, are among the nominees for 1973 design awards in Novato.

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night selected winners in various categories and will announce them at the city's annual birthday Jan. 18 at the Novato Community House.

The nominees in seven categories are:

TOWNHOUSE/CONDOMINIUM — McKeon Cross Roads Unit II, Redwood Boulevard; Western Hosts Unit I, Redwood Boulevard; San Marin Green duplexes, San Marin Drive.

APARTMENTS — Quinnell apartments, South Novato Boulevard; the Oak apartments, South Novato Boulevard; Park Court apartments, end of Park Court; Korn apartments, San Marin Drive; Pacheco Village apartments, Marin Valley Drive; Park Novato apartments, end of Hill Road.

COMMERCIAL — Neighborhood Grocery, Marin Valley Drive; Northern California Savings and Loan, downtown Novato Center; Markes Paint Store, Reichert Avenue; Olive Ridge Tennis Club, phase one, Olive Avenue.

ADMINISTRATIVE-PROFESSIONAL — Hoytt office building, Novato Boulevard; Masonic Lodge, Novato Boulevard; addition to the Indian Valley Medical Center, Hill Road.

RENOVATIONS — Novato Center building, Grant Avenue; Standard service station, Seventh Street and Grant Avenue; Novato Auto Parts, First Street.

PUBLIC PROJECTS — Vallejo Avenue, Center Road improvements, Tamalpais Avenue improvements and bridge construction, from Novato Boulevard to Center Street; Marin Highlands Park and Pioneer Memorial Park Cemetery improvements.

The committee also approved final plans for additional buildings at the Novak Square Shopping Center, at Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue. The plan by H. L. Bray is to construct stores on each side of the existing Roger Wilco market and a series of shops along Wilson Avenue.

Quake Registered In South Pacific

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California seismographic station reported that it recorded a major earthquake at 2:04 a.m. (PDT) today, centered in the South Pacific.

It registered 7.4 on the Richter scale, enough to cause major damage in a populated area. But since the epicenter was 5,700 miles to the southwest, around the New Hebrides Islands, a UC spokesman said he doubted it caused any damage.

Mill Valley Decides On Sewer Fee

The Mill Valley City Council decided last night that its sewer service charge seems to be the only way for the city to finance repairs which will end infiltration of rain water into city sewer lines.

The council unanimously reaffirmed its decision of last fall to have the sewer service charge. The vote came during a hearing in which the council discussed alternatives to the charge, which is costing the average single family home owner $3.40. About 75 people showed up for the session, according to Mayor Jean S. Barnard.

Mayor Barnard said that a report from City Atty., Leland H. Jordan indicated that the only alternative to the charge was a tax override. She estimated that such an override would cost taxpayers an additional 38 cents on their tax rate.

She said that the sewer service charge would probably cost the single family homeowner less than this override because it was levied on the basis of useage rather than value of property.

She said that some audience members suggested having a bond issue to finance the repairs because the cost of bonds could be spread out over a long period.

But the city attorney's report said that the federal government would view a bond issue as a chancy way to pay for the repairs. The federal government might then stop the aid it is giving to the city for repair of its sewer plant. The federal grant is being made on condition that the city corrects infiltration problems.

This infiltration of outside water into sewer lines places a heavy burden on the system's treatment plant in rainy months.

No Smoking Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors has approved a tough no-smoking ordinance which would ban cigarettes in most public places in the county.

DREAM SHOW — Stars and bars and checkerboard stripes fill the dreamworld of this sleeping cat in Dorothy Arons' painting. Titled "Dreams of Mice N'everything Nice," it is on display in a group show at the Marin Society of Artists gallery in Ross.

ART REVIEW

Society's Latest Effort Billed As 'Dream Show'

By ADA GARFINKEL

What are dreams made of? Hopes, fancies, illusions? Nightmares, libido fantasies, or visits to distant galaxies? Or, perhaps, metaphors for states of mind?

All of these ideas and others may be found in a variety of media, in the lively "Dream Show" now at the Marin Society of Artists gallery in Ross.

The funniest and funkiest entry is Catherine Gibson's "I Dreamt I Was a De-boned Chicken," a soft sculpture with a "human" face.

Of the nightmare variety is Margaret Atchlety's ominous man-eating plant — a black-and-white linear drawing — whose spreading roots seem to proliferate before one's eyes, and Leslie Wilde's "Midnight" Pandora box. Another example is Lucija Javanovic's vivid account of a web of childhood entrapments in "Benign Malevolence."

Galena Braunschweig's exotic dream is a gold-plated silver-and-amber necklace that might have graced the throat of pagan queen, while Ken Potter's "Fertility Symbols" is of bronze and laminated wood.

Ruth Sipper's velvety etching is of a sleeping child and dog in swirl of graceful drapery folds. A fairyland castle floating in outer space is conjured up by Felice Fendell in her miniature lunette-shaped color-etching, "Silent Flute."

Mel Cardy's "Wild Dreams" are enclosed in a trio of suspended plastic cubes. Their sprightly colors and design suggest circus fantasies and childhood day-dreams.

Topical ideas dominate Nelcy Tarics' "Energy Regenerated" and Audrey Kravitt's "Ivan's Dream." Both are colored silk-screen prints. And Ursula Johnson revives the Marilyn Monroe myth in her print collage, "Dream Queen."

"Soul Image," a soft pastel drawing by Firman Bradway is a sensitive portrayal of transfiguration. Al Violante's more mundane dancing figures are encapsulated in a free-standing kinetic painting entitled "Dream Fantasy."

A thickly encursted mixed-media painting by Bernadette Cole extends barren and desolate terrain endlessly as a potent metaphor for loneliness or despair. Maggie Rosen's "Journey" — a drypoint etching of a floating blue orb with human features —conveys contact on a scientific level.

"Pepper Fantasy" by Helen Hipshman, "Renaissance I" by Yvonne Brown, "Reverie" by Phyllis Thelen, and "Seven Fold" by Else Gonella are other personal versions.

Merit awards were presented to Firman Bradway, Galina Braunschweig, Ada Garfinkel, Nelcy Tarics, Phyllis Thelen, and Helen Wood.

This exhibit will continue through Jan. 27. Gallery hours are from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

12-Week Awareness Class Is Set

A program to teach children about the world around them will begin Jan. 18. It is sponsored by the Corte Madera Recreation Department.

Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation director, said the 12-week series will include trips and hikes through forests and waterfront areas.

Snuey Pearlman, preschool educator, will direct the series for children 4 years of age and older.

The recreation department will also sponsor guitar classes for beginning, intermediate and advanced students beginning Wednesday.

Musician Jeff Slatnick will instruct.

Advanced registration for both activities is required at town hall where information can be obtained.

Soprano To Perform In Concert

Soprano Carolyn Caton will perform at the next Bay Area Artists in Concert program at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 at The Tamalpais in Greenbrae.

The public concert is part of a series sponsored by the Concert and Lecture Series of the College of Marin.

Miss Caton recently won the National Federation of Music Clubs' young artists' auditions in voice for Northern California.

She sings professionally with the Talent Bank of San Francisco and has appeared as soloist at the Inverness Music Festival, San Francisco Bach Festival and at the University of California at Davis.

Works on the Marin program will include selections by Mozart, Wolf, Rossini, Bizet, Massenet, Charpentier, Obradors and Verdi.

Miss Caton will be accompanied by Alden Gilchrist, pianist, who is director of music for Calvary Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

CAROLYN CATON
Soprano soloist

The next in the concert series will feature pianist Marcele Gallez on Feb. 15.

Plans Price Hike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. said yesterday it would hike the price of tin mill products by approximately 7 per cent, effective Feb. 16.

MUSIC, ART, DRAMA

Comedy Opens Tuesday At Curran

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

A touring company of Jean Kerr's latest comedy, "Finishing Touches," will arrive at San Francisco's Curran Theater Tuesday for a two-week engagement.

Starring Barbara Bel Geddes and Robert Lansing, the romantic comedy deals with a New England university professor and his wife whose middle-age lives are thrown into an emotional romantic turmoil.

The play will open with a performance at 2 p.m.

ART

Rembrandt's famous portrait of his son, Titus, is now on display at the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum in San Francisco, courtesy of the Norton Simon Foundation. It will remain in the same gallery with the Zurbaran still life, "Lemons, Oranges and a Rose," which is also a loan from the Simon collection. The painting, executed about 1650, was purchased by Simon in 1965 for $2,234,000.

MUSIC

Cellist Leonard Rose will present his only Bay Area recital of the season Tuesday night at the University of California in Berkeley in a program of romantic works, including Brahms' "Sonata No. 2 in F Major" and Chopin's "Introduction and Polonaise Brilliante," Op. 3. He will perform in Zellerbach Auditorium.

Two nights earlier (Sunday) the Contemporary Chamber Ensemble of New York will present a program of contemporary music in UC's Hertz Hall. Featured soloist will be soprano Jan de Gaetani.

Contralto Janet Baker, who was the featured solist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra in London during the group's first European tour last May, will be featured artist at next week's subscription series in "Songs by Ruckert" by Mahler. Maestro Seiji Ozawa will also lead the orchestra in J. C. Bach's "Sinfonia in E-flat Major for Double Orchestra" and "Ein Heldenleben" by Strauss.

Child Molest Charge Lodged Against Man

A Delancey Street Foundation worker, who had been helping set up a warehouse in an abandoned Mill Valley supermarket, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of molesting a 13-year-old Mill Valley girl.

Police said Michael Ricciardi, 23, who gave his address as the Delancey Street residence in San Francisco's Pacific Heights, was booked at Marin County Jail for investigation of child molesting and was held in lieu of $10,000 bail. He was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said the girl was walking on Camino Alto near the old Purity supermarket at about 6 p.m. when a man came up behind her and forced her into bushes. She told police the man tried to get her to perform unnatural sex acts, but she struggled away and ran.

A passing driver picked her up and took her home. She later identified Ricciardi as her assailant, officers said.

The Delancey Street Foundation recently bought an apartment complex in Sausalito as a residence for its members who are former convicts and reformed drug addicts. It is also remodeling the Purity market to use as a warehouse for its supplies.

Mooing Trunk The Giveaway

SALINAS (UPI) — Police stopped a car with a noisy muffler and discovered four stolen calves hidden in the trunk.

"The trunk," explained officer Henry Yoneyama, "went 'moo.'"

Body Of Hub Woman Found In West Marin

A passing motorist found the body of Deborah Leigh Wolf, 22, inside her small foreign car at the West Marin Sanitary Land Fill site one-half mile north of the town, at 1:50 p.m. yesterday. She had shot herself in the head, coroner's deputies said. No notes were found.

San Anselmo police reported Miss Wolf had been reported missing at 8:20 a.m. yesterday by Donald Perkins of 79 Ridge Road. Perkins told officers the woman had been staying with his mother, but left the house about 8 p.m. Tuesday saying she wanted to hang herself. The revolver belonged to Perkins, police said. A missing persons alert had been broadcast.

Miss Wolf originally was from Albany, Alameda County, but had lived on the Bolinas Mesa for some time, police said.

CRISIS CONTAINERS

Pharmacist C. J. Fell of Saffrom Walden, England, is making do as best he can these days to continue to fill prescriptions for his customers. Fell yesterday was using sterilized whiskey, brandy and gin bottles for containers. Because of the lack of coal, due to a nationwide miner's strike, coupled with the oil shortage, England has been placed on a three-day work week and the glassmaking industry is one of those hard hit, thus a shortage of bottles.

Petaluma Kicks Off Bond Drive

The Petaluma Recreation Commission last night kicked off its campaign for a $1.9 million bond issue to improve city parks.

Named coordinators for the bond election campaign were Daniel N. Longaker and Anthony L. Wright.

On March 5, voters will decide the issue and vote on a $750,000 library bond issue.

Recreation Director James R. Raymond said a bond campaign committee will be named soon.

The Petaluma recreation commission also received a proposal for a system of bicycle paths from Lampman and Associates, traffic and planning consultants. The plan will be brought before the city council after consideration by the bikeways committee, the recreation commission and the planning commission. In addition, the commission set a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Five Corners Community Center, English and Western streets, to discuss organizing a community little theater program.

Felson Elected President Of Water District Board

Director John M. MacPhail was elected vice president.

Felson, 36, who represents the district's First Division, succeeds Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., who had presided since August, 1972.

He was appointed to the water board in November 1971 to fill the unexpired term of Ray W. Foreaker Jr., who resigned.

Felson, of Forest Knolls, is seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. He is owner of Forest Farm Camps, a children's camp in Forest Knolls.

In other action, directors agreed to explore the possibility of selling or leasing a surplus district corporation yard in San Rafael for low and moderate income housing.

Directors Felson, Ronald T. Stafford and MacPhail indicated they would discuss the matter with San Rafael city officials, according to water board attorney Tom Thorner.

The yard is on Second Street at Grand Avenue. Under a state law, effective last year, a local agency may lease, sell or grant surplus property for low and moderate income housing purposes, Thorner said.

Energy Crunch Ruins Business

MARSHALL, Mich. (UPI) — Marshall, population 7,253, was a one-taxi town until the energy crunch came.

"We just can't go on," said David Yeck, 37, who owned and operated the only taxi in Marshall. "The prices of everything, especially gasoline, has made it impossible. We just couldn't do it with these prices."

Yeck launched his one-car company four years ago and hired a woman to drive during the day while he handled fares at night. He charged 75 cents to cross the city and relied chiefly on old people for his business.

"We'll do it if prices come down again," he said, "but there's just no way they will."

Construction Cost Check Recommended

An $8,000 check of construction cost estimates for the Larkspur Ferry Terminal was recommended today by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge Directors.

Stanley M. Kowleski, the district's ferry transit manager, told the Independent-Journal the extra check will delay construction by another month. The terminal originally was to open this coming June with the arrival of the first new ferry, but the opening already had been postponed 12 months before today's meeting.

The firm of Lee Saylor Inc. of Walnut Creek was recommended to make the independent cost analysis. Results will be presented to the full board on Jan. 25.

Construction costs of the terminal first were figured at $4.3 million but several months ago turned out to be $8.8 million. Plans subsequently were trimmed to cut the cost to $6.9 million.

With land, dredging and engineering, and design costs included, total cost of the terminal now stands at more than $10.3 million.

The recommendation by the finance-auditing committee will go before the full board at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The committee also heard a staff report that a record 8,507 commuters were carried on district buses yesterday between 6 and 10 a.m.

Citizens Sought For Committees

The chairman of the parks and recreation commission of the Tamalpais Community Services District has called for citizen participation on eight committees dealing with recreation and other community matters.

The groups will explore park development, open space, dog control and noise abatement, among other things.

Volunteers are asked to contact Mary Fesler for assignments, according to Richard A. Drever, president of the services district board.

GLOOMY REPORT — Bill O. Mead, chairman of the American Bakers Association, tells a news conference in Washington that immediate controls on wheat exports are needed. In his report yesterday, Mead said that if action isn't taken, doubling of bread prices is a possibility by late spring. (UPI Telephoto)

24-Ounce Loaf Of Bread May Soar To $1 By Late Spring

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Faced with a gradual climb in the supermarket cost of bread and industry predictions of more possible increases, some homemakers are rediscovering an almost forgotten art—baking bread at home.

But due to the growing cost of flour, even that alternative is rapidly becoming uneconomical.

Barbara Williams, a Falls Church, Va., housewife, said that since the end of 1972 the price per pound of flour has jumped from 12 cents to 32 or 34 cents.

"Making bread at home will soon be a luxury no one can afford," Mrs. Williams said. "I think we housewives deserve a better deal than the Russians got." U.S. wheat reserves were depleted 18 months ago when the Soviet Union purchased huge supplies of American wheat to supplement its meager crop.

Bill O. Mead, chairman of the American Bakers Association, is another critic of the Russian wheat deal.

He told a news conference in Washington yesterday that because of large U.S. wheat exports, the nation's reserves are dangerously low.

Mead predicted that a 24 ounce loaf of bread on the shelves of grocery stores may cost $1 by late spring unless the administration moves to place temporary curbs on wheat exports.

In the absence of such restrictions, Mead said, "a bread shortage seems likely" and costs will skyrocket.

Later, Carroll G. Brunthaver, assistant agriculture secretary, rebutted Mead's charges, saying: "I don't think the price of wheat will increase substantially (from current record levels) and the price of bread should not increase substantially this spring." He said the administration does not "see the need for export controls."

Necertheless, consumers across the nation are finding their weekly grocery bills going up, partly because of climbing bread prices.

"I think it's ridiculous," said Dallas housewife Evelyn Brown of the rising prices. "But I kind of expect it, because of the wheat we gave away to Russia. We'll just eat less bread. We usually make a lot of our own anyway."

In Pittsburgh, where costs range between 38 and 45 cents per 24 ounce loaf, Mrs. James Herrmann said her family has taken affirmative action.

"We are dieting in our house so we have cut back on bread consumption," she said. "Prices of bread have been rising steadily since summer."

In Albany, N.Y., a housewife said she pays 43 to 53 cents a loaf, depending on the size, and added that even store brands—which used to be 29 cents—are now 39 or 40 cents a loaf.

"We've stopped buying at food stores and make purchases now at the thrifty (day-old) stores operated by the bakeries," she said.

Novato Boys Club Will Install Tomorrow Night

Paul S. Scheller, Novato building contractor, will be installed as president of the Novato Boys Club tomorrow night at the officer's club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Cocktails will be at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Scheller, a former vice president, will succeed Donald M. Shank.

Joseph D. Sotis of San Francisco, director of Boys Clubs of America activities west of the Mississippi, will be the speaker. Les Andersen of Novato, executive director of the San Francisco Boys Club, will be master of ceremonies.

Other officers to be installed are: Gino R. Westcott, first vice president; Rueben W. Kaehler, second vice president; J. Dennis DeSousa, secretary, and Harry W. Locke, treasurer.

The women's auxiliary also will have its installation, the details of which were previously reported in the I-J.

Actor Harris Engaged To Wed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Richard Harris is engaged to Anne Turkel, the daughter of a Scarsdale, N.Y., clothing manufacturer, it was announced yesterday.

Harris met Miss Turkel last fall when they appeared together in her first movie, "99 and 44-100 Per Cent Dead," filmed here and in Seattle. A spokesman for Harris said they will be married in New York City in April.

Panel To Reconsider Nuclear Plant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Coastal Zone Conservation Commission decided yesterday to reconsider its veto of a nuclear power plant expansion at San Onofre in San Diego County.

The commission voted 11-to-1 to take another look at the request by the Southern California Edison and San Diego Gas and Electric Co. for permits to build new nuclear stations on the coast near President Nixon's Western White House at San Clemente.

On Dec. 5, the commission turned down the application for coastal construction, required under the state's coastal zone protection law. The vote was 6-to-5 in favor of granting the permits, but a two-thirds margin is required for approval of a project.

James A. Hayes, of Los Angeles, a commission member, said its decision to reconsider the matter "does not bind us to vote approval when it is brought before us again."

The commission acted on the San Onofre project appeal at the opening of its regular meeting here. The reconsideration of the nuclear power plants will be studied at new hearings to be scheduled later.

The $850 million project is viewed by the power companies as vital to satisfy growing energy needs in the area. The two plants are "desperately needed," according to a spokesman for Southern California Edison.

The commission's original rejection of the construction permit was based on a staff recommendation which said the nuclear facility would be harmful to marine life and destroy scenic coastal cliffs.

The reconsideration was approved on condition that Southern California Edison will promise public access to the beach areas during construction and will establish monitoring systems on the effect of the facility on marine life.

A third condition sought by the commission was that areas around the plant be left in their natural state for at least 10 years. Southern California Edison declined to make that promise.

The lone vote against reconsideration was by Ellen S. Harris.

Amtrak Must Abide By No Saloon Laws

DENVER (UPI) — Amtrak is not exempted from state laws which prohibit the serving of mixed drinks, the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday.

The court's decision upheld an Oklahoma law invoked July 18 when state officers at Oklahoma City raided a passenger train and charged an employee with operating an open saloon.

Amtrak's lawyers challenged the state's authority to conduct the raid on grounds Congress exempted Amtrak from such laws. Also, they said, the train was being singled out.

The 10th Circuit Court said it found no merit to either argument.

Later School Starting Times Will Be Considered In Novato

The Novato Unified School District board will decide whether to change the school schedule because of Daylight Savings Time at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at Novato High School lecture hall.

Trustees will consider starting elementary classes at 9 a.m. and senior high school classes at 8:45 a.m., both half an hour later than at present, according to Annette Conklin, publications director.

Starting time for junior high schools would remain at 9 a.m., she said.

Trustees on Tuesday agreed not to act until next Wednesday so residents will have a chance to react to the proposed changes, Miss Conklin said.

She said the district office and schools received about 60 telephone calls about the starting times in the past two days.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

ENROLLMENT — Agreed to reopen enrollment at Sinaloa Junior High School to pupils from the Sinaloa attendance area who have been attending other junior high schools because space previously wasn't available for them.

GYMNASIUM — Approved preliminary plans for a gymnasium at Hill Junior High School, which the district hopes will be under construction this summer.

COMPLAINTS — Reviewed a proposed policy for processing complaints against employees, a procedure which would set forth the steps to be taken.

GIFTS — Received as gifts $300 from the Novato Hostess Club and $250 from the Hamilton-Loma Verde Little League Association for improvement of the lower playing field at San Jose Junior High School.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at Novato High School lecture hall to set budget priorities.

Bolinas Lagoon Pond May Hide Fort Built By Drake

The lagoon has changed greatly in 400 years. The most drastic changes happened after the 1850s, when shipbuilders built 70-foot-long schooners in the lagoon, and a navigable channel gave easy access for coastal lumber schooners to load at the wharf.

Heavy logging in the surrounding hills killed the shipbuilding and wharf use by the 1870s. The U.S. Geological Survey in a report on Bolinas Lagoon last September said the resulting hillside erosion silted up the lagoon so rapidly that a new landmark — Kent Island — appeared by 1900 and the lagoon will be nothing but marsh in another century or so.

But it was perfectly possible for Drake to sail the Golden Hinde — no larger than many of the lumber schooners — into the harbor. He would have been well hidden from Spanish pursers. Their captains lusted to avenge the ships and loot that Drake captured earlier in his travels along the west coast of Latin America.

Drake needed to patch and refit the Golden Hinde before completing his voyage across the Pacific and eventually home. His loot probably gave England an economic boost that changed the world, Elizabethian era researchers believe.

Neasham has combed most of the reputed Drake landing sites in Marin County since the 1940s. He searched the leeward side of Point Reyes and Drake's Bay, where Drake Navigators' Guild members believe the adventurer may have landed. He searched Indian mounds as far as Bodega, looking for artifacts left by the English, but found no definite proof.

In 1948, Neasham became chairman of the Marin County Centennial Commission. He and the late Dr. Herbert E. Bolton searched the Greenbrae site where Drake's Plate had been discovered a few years earlier.

"We found it absolutely sterile, archaeologically speaking," Neasham said. "If that was Drake's harbor, there should have been something" beside the plate, he added.

Many old structures in West Marin were found to have been built much later than Drake's visit.

After looking at state Department of Fish and Game aerial photos, Neasham, archaeologist Normal L. Wilson and Dr. Adan Treganza explored several likely sites around Bolinas Lagoon in 1962 and 1965. They found all of them too recent to have been connected with Drake.

A resident, Thomas Barfield, told the professor that the duck-pond had been built in 1872, by mounding dirt atop older dirt walls.

Last year, Neasham and coworkers obtained permission to explore the site from Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director.

Carefully dug trenches revealed there indeed were old walls beneath two sides of the reservoir. The other two sides of the older structure were still exposed, almost obliterated by the elements and the years. The old structure measured about 80 feet to a side. In the trenches, diggers found tar such as 16th Century mariners carried to patch their wooden ships, and bits of slag that apparently came from a forge.

Dr. Malcolm Watkins of the Smithsonian's history department inspected the site in September. He took the artifacts back to Washington, where the Smithsonian laboratories are testing them.

The tests barely have begun, Watkins told the Independent-Journal because of a huge backlog of research on objects found in other historic ruins nationwide.

Archaeologist Pritchard, who works for the California Department of Parks and Recreation historical architecture section, said he wasn't discouraged that so few artifacts were found during the brief exploration — all that was permitted by limited funds.

"The only things the English would have left behind deliberately would have been broken or unrepairable or perhaps a few lost coins or buttons. Possibly, they left some empty flasks from the wine they looted from Spanish ships," he said.

At one spot, however, diggers found the mold left by a wooden post about eight inches square. It was about where it should have been if the fort-like enclosure had a wooden outer wall to retain the dirt.

The whole, 6,400-square-foot site should be dug up inch by inch and sifted for more artifacts, Neasham and Pritchard said. To do so will cost about $25,000.

Copies of Neasham's and Pritchard's illustrated report on "Drake's California Landing — The Evidence for Bolinas Lagoon" are available for $2 each from the California Historical Society, 2090 Jackson Street, San Francisco. All proceeds from sale of the book will go toward continuing research on the site believed to be Drake's fort. Neasham and his co-workers supplied the illustrations used in today's I-J story.

"My next task is to raise it" and to get county officials to protect the site," Neasham said.

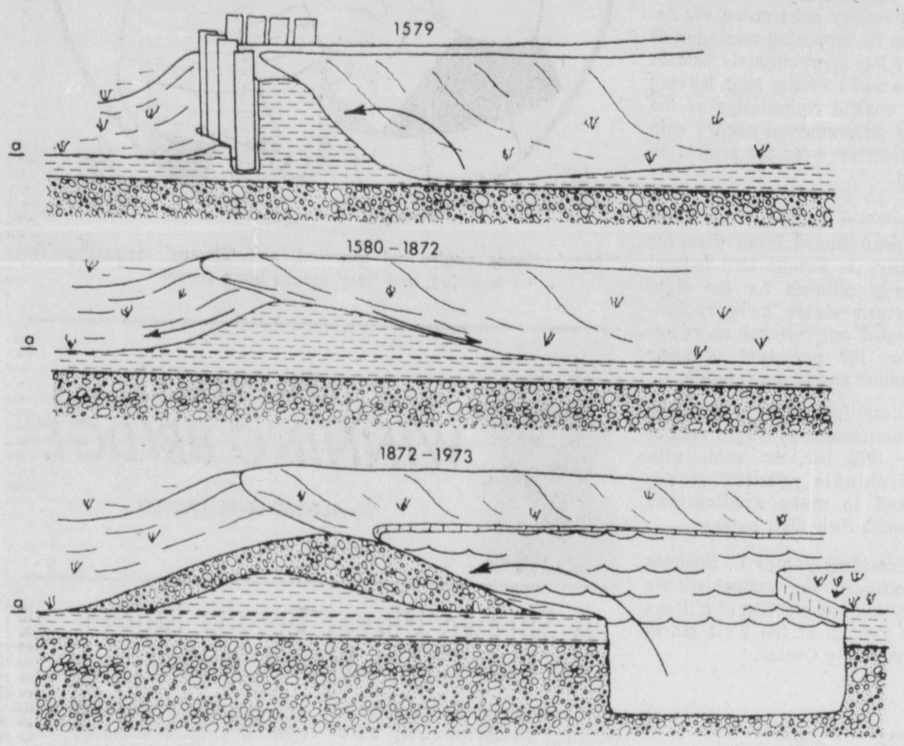
Both Neasham and Joske are concerned lest vandals or well-meaning, but untrained amateur archaeologists invade the site. The land, though county owned, is unsuitable for public access, the county official said. The exploratory trenches have been refilled.

Pritchard reported it is unlikely that anyone much later than Drake built the mysterious structure. Bolinas was occupied only by Indians until the 1840s, when Mexican settlers arrived, he said. The walls beneath the 1872 walls could not have deteriorated so extensively if built any time in the 19th Century, the expert said.

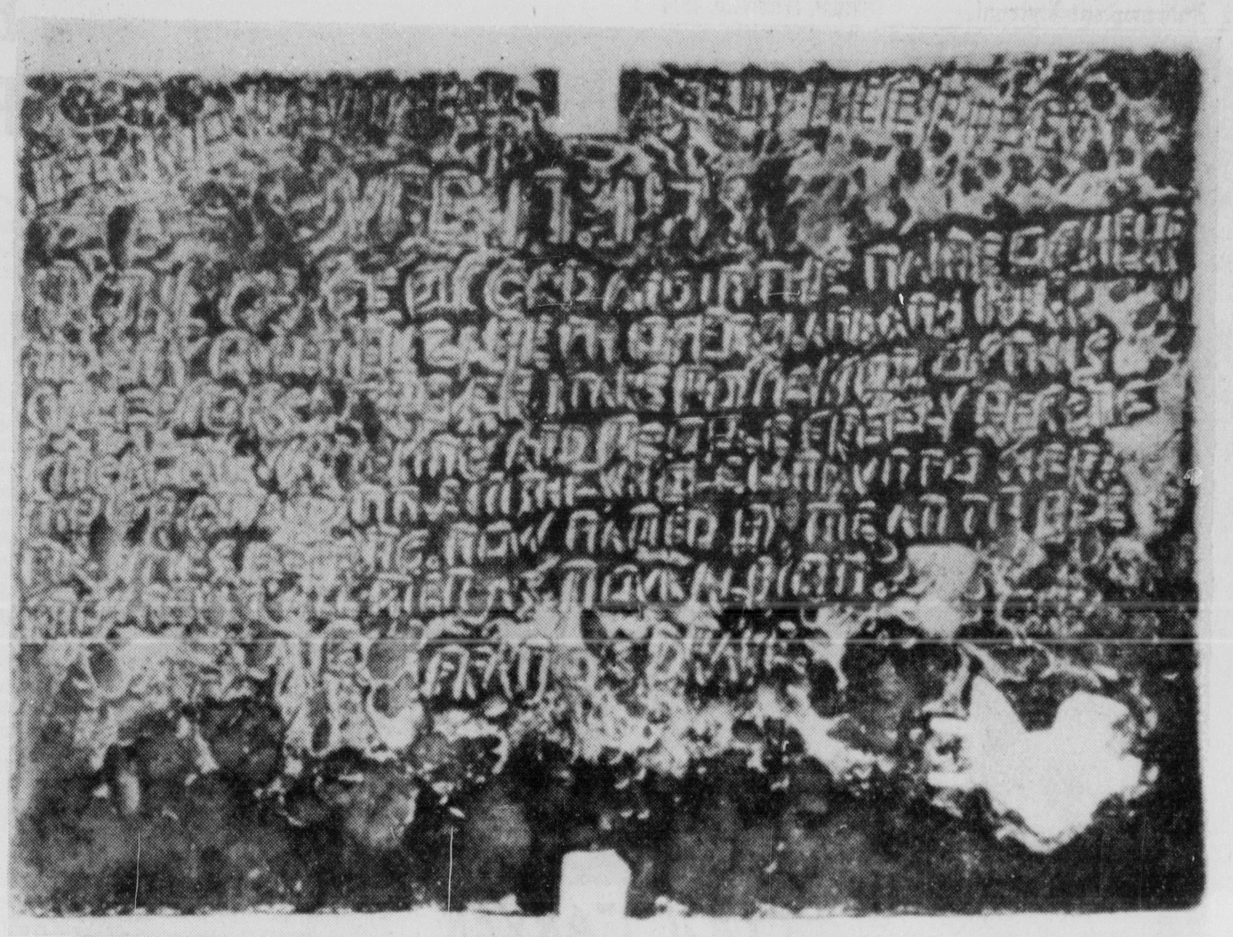
Neasham and Pritchard, in their papers to the convention, cited extensive historical material to back their belief that Bolinas is probably the site of Drake's anchorage.

"We still do not have 100 per cent proof," Neasham warned. "The finding of Drake's Fort would have world-wide importance, particularly with the coming of the 400th anniversary of Drake's landing in 1979.

"The oldest known English structure in the Western Hemisphere, it would be preserved . . . as the earliest example of that spirit of Elizabethan England" in what eventually became the United States, Neasham said.



HISTORY OF A RUIN — Archaeologist William E. Pritchard drew this cross section of the Bolinas ruin that may be Drake's fort, showing (top) the structure as it probably looked when built, (center) as eroded away by 1872, and (bottom) as it looks today, after new walls were poled atop the old in 1872 to make a duck hunting pond.



MAJOR CLUE — Drake's famous Plate of Brass, rediscovered in 1937, reads (in modernized English): "Be it known to all men by these presents — June 17, 1579 — By the grace of God and in the name of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth of England and her successors forever, I take possession of this kingdom whose King and people freely resign their rights and title in the whole land unto Her Majesty's keeping, now named by me and to be known unto all men as Nova Albion. — G. Francis Drake." In the lower right corner is the mysterious hole that once contained a sixpence coin.

Brass Mortar Found In Church May Have Belonged To Drake

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A blackened brass mortar that may have been left behind when Sir Francis Drake and the crew of the Golden Hinde visited Marin County in 1579 has turned up in a Novato church.

Santa Rosa historian Edward F. Von der Horten described the find today in a research paper at the national convention of the Society for Historical Archaeology here.

The Independent-Journal and other Bay Area newspapers cooperated a few years ago by printing photos of the back side of the old, mug-shaped object, saying that historians wanted to know how it got to Marin.

Von der Horten said he still hasn't learned where the mug was before 1950, when the late Katherine Ebright gave it to St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato. For years afterwards it was hung in chains as an "eternal light" until it was relegated to a storage cupboard.

An unsubstantiated legend grew up that it had been found during a church picnic at Drake's Bay, Van Der Horten reported. He has been unable to discover how Mrs. Ebright came to own the mortar.

Skilled researchers found that the mortar was made in Nuremberg not later than 1604, and almost certainly before 1570, the year crudely chiseled onto the mystery object.

Such mortars were traded through Europe and commonly were used by doctors, chemists, and persons making explosives, Van Der Horten said.

California Indian medicine men would have treasured it for their work, if Drake's men had given or traded it during their visit to Marin, the historian noted. He said there is no proof it wasn't brought to Marin by some later arrival, but it seems to have been buried for a long time in adobe-like soil.

PUZZLE — Since 1968 historians have attempted to learn the story of this mortar, about 5½ inches high and four inches in diameter, which was donated to a Novato church in 1950 by a woman whose knowledge of how she obtained it died with her. (Photo by Bonnie Pingray)

Bloomfield Ranch Plan Is Opposed

Directors of the Marin County Farm Bureau voted yesterday to oppose development plans for the 450 acre Bloomfield Ranch on the Marin-Sonoma County line on the grounds that it "would be a total loss of land for agricultural purposes."

The stand was recommended by Director Robert E. Parks who said the proposal for the 41 home sites on 10 acre lots would be "a hopscotch-type of development, setting a dangerous precedent in the surrounding agricultural area."

The directors, who will forward their recommendation to the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, said clustering the homesites in an area unsuitable for agriculture could leave options open for future use. But under the present proposal, they said, "land that may be needed for grazing in the future, would be lost forever."

Parks also warned against what he described as an increasing trend to find "uses that are taking away our agricultural land."

He cited as two examples the proposed Compadre de San Antonio, a 12,000 acre development north of Oceana Marine which will be considered by the regional Coastal Commission tonight and the Nicasio Equestrian project which would provide 31 homesites on 655 acres near Nicasio.

The Compadre de San Antonio was able to avoid both state and county subdivision regulations by proposing minimum 60 acre lots approximately 300 feet wide and 1.5 miles long, leaving the coastal commission as the only governmental agency with jurisdiction over the project he said.

In other business, the Farm Bureau heard from director Robert A. Borello that federal energy officials for the eight western states have recommended agricultural users receive 100 per cent of their gasoline and propane needs.

Diesel fuel oil allowances are recommended as 110 per cent of the 1972 use, he said, with individuals needing more, asked to make applications through their distributors.

Construction Of Warm Springs Dam Urged By Water Directors

The North Marin County Water District board has urged construction of the controversial Warm Springs dam project in Sonoma County.

The board Tuesday night endorsed construction of the project — which has been under fire from conservationists — by a 4-to-1 vote. Director Patrick H. Heffernan dissented, according to Chief Engineer James D. Fritz.

Heffernan said he objected because he didn't want the project to proceed without further study of its impact on the ecology of the area, Fritz reported.

About 20 persons representing groups seeking postponement of dam construction until more study has been done opposed the board's call for construction, Fritz said.

The proposed dam across Dry Creek (a major tributary of the Russian River) five miles west of Geyserville, would provide water to Sonoma and Marin counties and a part of Mendocino County.

Directors also urged that the water supply from the dam slated for municipal use, 115,000 acre feet annually, be reduced.

The water reduced from the municipal allocation should be applied "to instream fish, wildlife and recreation purposes in the Russian River and/or Eel River systems," the board said.

The North Marin County Water district board also:

POINT REYES — Agreed to form a sewer service improvement district at Point Reyes Station and set a public hearing on it for 8 p.m. Feb. 5 at West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

RESEARCH — Endorsed a research project into ways to achieve water conservation through construction of new buildings, with special water-saving facilities and authorized Dist. Mgr. John O. Nelson to apply for federal and state funds to finance the project, estimated to cost $162,000.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

A Shrewd Player Breaks Rules To Pull Off A Heart Victory

When the queen of trumps is missing, should you rely on a finesse or should you lead out the ace and king? There is a rule to answer this question, but the shrewd player must know when to break rules.

FIRST TRICKS

East took the king and ace of hearts and then switched to the ace and a low club. This left it up to South to win the rest of the tricks.

South's only problem was to find the queen of trumps. Should he lead out the top trumps or should he finesse? If the latter, in which direction should he finesse?

THE OLD RULE

The old rule about finesses says: With eight ever, with nine never. This means that you should try a finesse when you have only eight trumps, but not when you have nine trumps.

The rule is a good guide when you lack anything better. Never rely on a general guide, however, when you have specific evidence.

WEAK RAISE

In this case you get information if you consider West's weak raise to two hearts. The play to the first two tricks indicates that West started with four hearts headed by the queen. He had no high card in clubs and nothing better than the jack in diamonds.

What could influence West to raise his partner with so worthless a hand? Only marked shortness in spades. West should have a singleton, or perhaps a void, in spades.

ABANDONS RULE

Having worked this out, South abandons the old rule on finessing. He leads a spade to dummy's king and finesses through East for the queen of spades.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Avoid counting any exact number of points for the short values in the red suits, but you still have enough for an opening bid. In the black suits alone you have 11 points in high cards, and you may count two points for the doubletons.

Today is Thursday, Jan. 10, the 10th day of 1974 with 355 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. There technically is no morning star. The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury.

Early American patriot Ethan Allen was born Jan. 10, 1738.

In 1861, Florida seceded from the Union.

In 1920, the League of Nations came into being as the Treaty of Versailles went into effect.

In 1925, Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson was sworn in as governor of Texas, the nation's second woman state chief executive. Five days earlier, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross had become governor of Wyoming.

In 1970, a nursing home fire killed 31 in Marietta, Ohio.

A thought for the day: French writer Jean Jacques Rousseau said, "What wisdom can you find that is greater than kindness?"

SHOESTRINGS — A diagram of a proposed residential development for 1,252 acres on Bodega Bay in West Marin shows the unusual shapes of the 20 lots which average less than 300 feet in width and more than a mile in length. Each lot contains more than 60 acres and so the county has no jurisdiction over the project since state law exempts lots larger than 60 acres from its control. The North Central Coast Regional Commission will consider the development tonight.

'SHOESTRING LOTS'

Bodega Bay Development To Be Studied Tonight

A developer's plan to divide a large West Marin ranch into 20 "shoestring lots" — averaging less than 300 feet in width and more than a mile in length — will be considered tonight by the North Central Coast Regional Commission.

The unique proposal, labeled a "bad joke" by county planners, covers 1,252 acres overlooking picturesque Bodega Bay and was submitted by Lawrence J. Walters of Inverness.

Walters, a local real estate agent once involved in the now defunct Martinelli Farms project, is representing 20 owner-investors who call themselves Compadres de San Antonio.

The plan, in effect, skirts the county's A-60 zoning and environmental impact study requirements because the county has no planning jurisdiction over lots larger than 60 acres.

By creating the strip lots, each slightly larger than 60 acres, the 20 owners will each be afforded an ocean view building site if the plan is approved by the commission.

According to County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, the county has no jurisdiction because state law exempts lots larger than 60 acres.

Harvey E. Bragdon, county chief of current planning, said a similar subdivision outside the coastal commission's jurisdiction could proceed unchecked by governmental agencies.

Besides the "shoestring lots," the plan proposes that 1,182 acres be kept for agriculture and open space, with the remaining 70 acres to be used for 20 homesites of three and a half acres each.

The coastal commission staff, which has recommended denial of the plan, said the homesites would "form a line of homes and farm buildings" along the knolls 1,000 feet back from the shore and would be "visually prominent," contrary to the objectives of the coastal act.

The staff also criticized the plan because it does not provide public access along the ocean shore or Estero de San Antonio, which forms the southern boundary of the property.

It also said the 20 property lines are drawn "illogically in that they disregard existing topography" and that development "might cause a substantial adverse impact on the coastal environment by requiring new roads, utility lines, water and solid waste facilities."

The commission is slated to meet at 7 p.m. in the board of supervisors chambers at Civic Center.

Report Of A Second Cuban Plan During LBJ's Term

NEW YORK (AP) — A freelance journalist says the Central Intelligence Agency in 1964-65 planned a second invasion of Cuba combined with a scheme to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Tad Szulc, a former diplomatic correspondent for The New York Times, wrote in an article for the Jan. 17 issue of Esquire magazine that the plan had to be abandoned in April 1965 when United States troops were sent into the Dominican Republic in response to an uprising there.

Szulc said that during a period of about six months the CIA disbursed $750,000 monthly for the projected invasion, codenamed "Second Naval Guerrilla."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Interaction Of Drugs Remains Matter For Much Conjecture

Books have been written on the interaction of different medicines when taken together. Drug A taken by itself may be effective and safe, but when combined with Drug B, uncomfortable and even serious side effects may occur.

Now and then, a drug taken with certain foods, such as cheese, leads to side effects. Some medications also are capable of causing such diseases as gout or diabetes. Drug-induced gout or diabetes is temporary, and the symptoms usually disappear when the products are discontinued.

Periodic examinations had indicated that a physician was in the best of health. At 55, he began to have gall-bladder trouble and after procrastinating for a few years, he decided to have it out. The night before the surgery, he overheard his physician and the surgeon discussing his blood pressure, which was high (240/140).

DESPITE THE elevated pressure, he made a rapid recovery. However, after the surgery, the blood pressure remained high. Methyldopa, an excellent remedy, was prescribed, but he developed side effects, in that he was unable to control his blood pressure. His physician added chlorothiazine, a diuretic, which usually does the trick. Shortly thereafter, he developed weakness in the thigh and shoulder muscles. The chlorothiazide had increased his uric acid, and the man developed a full-blown attack of gout. Another diuretic, chlorthalidone, was given, and a most unusual reaction occurred. The gout disappeared and the blood pressure dropped. In fact, it went down so low that he felt weak and developed irregularities of the pulse.

BY THIS TIME, six years had elapsed since his operation. Now he began to lose weight and in the next year lost 49 pounds. He went back to the hospital where a diagnosis of diabetic acidosis was made. All medication was stopped, and insulin was started. After a few injections, he made a dramatic recovery and the doctors decided that his diabetes, like the gout, was iatrogenic in origin. Iatrogenic means a manmade condition. In this instance, certain drugs, especially the diuretics, were the culprits. The cure — no medication. He now feels 10 years younger and is healthy.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

TIRED AT 20

Jack writes: I'm 20 years old and always tired. In high school, I went in for strenuous sports and often stayed up most of the night cramming for exams. My doctor found no physical cause for my fatigue. Do you think I have worn out my physical machine and never will be able to lead a full life?

REPLY

Your physical machine should not wear out for another 40 or 50 years. Emotional fatigue is more common than physical fatigue and this is a good possibility in your case, since your physician could not find a physical cause. You might find our leaflet on fatigue interesting. It can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

B FOR BOOZER

REPLY

Yes, especially vitamin B.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday: Oxidants, clean air. Nitrogen, clean air. Carbon monoxide, light air pollution. Smoke particles, significant air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution. San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Kennedy Doubtful On Insurance Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says he has "major reservations" about the revised national health insurance plan that President Nixon is expected to send Congress later this month.

Kennedy said yesterday that although initial reports indicated Nixon's new plan was "serious and carefully prepared," Kennedy said it still would channel billions of dollars in "windfall profits" to the private health insurance industry.

Quake Rattles Hollister Area

The quake registered at 4.5 on Richter scale on the seismograph at the University of California in Berkeley.

Another Recall Of Mushroom Cans Announced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration has announced another recall of mushrooms that may be infected with bacteria that can cause botulism.

The agency said the 16-ounce cans are intended for use by restaurants and other large users and it was doubtful any of them are in the hands of consumers. It said it was possible, however, that some individuals may have the cans.

The mushrooms involved are all of those produced by the Oxford Corp. of Oxford, Pa., prior to May 10, 1972. The cans may be identified by an embossed one-line identification code on the lid or by a two-line code in which the top line ends in the numeral 2 preceded by numbers 1 to 129.

Favorite Flavors

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — Manufacturers planning to put flavored lipstick on the market said consumer testing showed favorite tastes are wild cherry, lemon, spearmint and orange mint, the South German Association of Retailers said yesterday.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Levin Is Appointed To Scripps Position

Warren S. Levin, son of Mrs. Walter S. Levin of San Anselmo and a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, has been appointed associate director of administration for the University of California's Scripps Institute of Oceanography in La Jolla.

Levin

Prior to joining the University of California at San Diego staff in 1970, where he was assistant vice chancellor for business and finance, Levin served for five years as assistant counsel in the office of the general counsel for the regents of the UC system.

He is a native of San Francisco, and was graduated cum laude from the University of California at Berkeley with a degree in economics. He also was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Three years later, he was graduated from the UC Boalt Hall School of Law.

Following graduation from law school, Levin, 38, served two years as an Army captain and later worked with the Myers, Praetzel and Pierce law firm in San Anselmo.

Advice Given On Gas Siphoning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you must use your mouth to start a gasoline siphon, don't draw any of the liquid into your lungs.

And if you should swallow some, don't induce vomiting, because that would increase the chance that the gasoline or its fumes might reach the lungs.

The advice comes from Dr. Sorell Schwartz of Georgetown University, who said yesterday, "Under any circumstances, priming a siphon with your mouth is life endangering and plain idiotic."

Brown Rips Reagan On State Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. yesterday called Gov. Ronald Reagan's suggestion that Brown's office be made nonpartisan a "transparent political effort to damage the Democratic party."

In his final State of the State message, Reagan proposed a constitutional amendment removing political designations from the secretary of state's office. Such an amendment would ultimately require voter approval.

Reagan argued the change was needed to guard against conflicts of interest and bias because of "a greatly expanded role for the secretary of state's office in the conduct of elections, in reporting campaign contributions and with the growing use of computers."

Brown, a Democrat who hopes to succeed Reagan as governor, is credited with enlarging the secretary of state's influence in election matters.

"Reagan has singled out the one statewide office now held by a Democrat and his suggestion is a transparent political effort to damage the Democratic party and aid the Republicans," Brown said in a prepared statement.

"I do not believe we should allow the governor's narrow partisanship to force a change in California's two-party system."

Of statewide elected officials, currently only the superintendent of public instruction is designated "nonpartisan," that is, campaigns are run without political party designations.

Brown also said he was disappointed that Reagan "failed to announce a positive plan to deal with the energy crisis."

The secretary of state characterized Reagan's speech as "lofty rhetoric, but he made it clear that he has no effective plan to deal with the energy crisis."

She'll Soon Have Very Tall Husband

LONDON (UPI) — Lesley Dean, the shortest policewoman in the City of London police, will soon have a husband she can look up to.

Lesley, five foot four inches tall, said she will marry constable Mick Martin, who is six feet ten inches on Jan. 26.

OAS Strong Quarter Of Century

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Simon Bolivar, the Venezuelan patriot who fought successfully for the independence of six South American nations early in the 19th century, also fathered the Pan American movement.

The modern expression of that movement is the 24-nation Organization of American States (OAS) which, despite predictions that it would not last, will be 26 years old this year.

(Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was nominated Tuesday by President Nixon to be the new U.S. representative to the OAS with the rank of ambassador.)

The OAS came into being in Bogota in 1948 and its founding fathers, including the United States, tried to make sure it would be an organization whose jurisdiction stopped where the sovereignty of each member began.

That has been both the organization's weakness and strength. It is the only regional group in the world in which a group of weaker nations meet as an equal with a super power (the United States). The reason is that, unlike the United Nations, there is no veto power in the OAS.

The OAS has weathered many storms but its gravest test perhaps came with U. S. intervention in the Dominican Republic's 1965 civil war on orders of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The crisis sparked emotional outcries throughout Latin America and shook the OAS, but did not tumble it. In fact, no member has ever left the organization with the exception of Cuba.

The OAS has been one of the favorite targets of Fidel Castro's propaganda machinery almost since the day he took power 15 years ago. Radio Havana calls it "the ministry of colonies of the United States." Castro himself recently referred to the OAS as a "latrine."

But Cuba technically is still a member although Castro has said repeatedly that Cuba never will sit on the OAS council as long as he is in charge on the island.

The OAS roster includes Argentina, Barbados, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, ElSalvador, El Salvador,temala, Haiti, Honduras, Jamaica, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Trinidad-Tobago, the United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

It is considered the oldest organization of its kind in the world. Its origins can be traced to the Treaty of Perpetual Union, League and Confederation, signed in 1826 by delegates of Central and South American countries meeting in Panama City at Bolivar's invitation.

The first formal organization came into being in April, 1890, when 18 Western Hemisphere nations, including the United States, met in Washington. The OAS was created April 30, 1948, in Bogota when 21 American Republics, again including the United States, signed its charter.

The charter was revised in 1967 to broaden the range of OAS activities by giving added status to two councils previously under the permanent council.

They are the Interamerican Social and Economic Council and the Interamerican Council for Education, Science and Culture.

All three councils now have equal rank and the OAS General Assembly, a term borrowed from the United Nations, was made the organization's supreme organ. It meets once a year at the foreign ministers' level.

The OAS conducts its business in four languages— English, Spanish, Portugese and French —and one of its official publications defined its purposes as follows:

"Through the charter of the OAS, the member countries strive to achieve an order of peace and justice, promote solidarity and strengthen collaboration among themselves, and defend their sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence."

$1.25Million Asked In Butcherings

SANTA CRUZ (AP) — Parents of five coeds butchered by mass murderer Edmund Kemper have sued state agencies and two psychiatrists for $1.25 million.

The action filed late Tuesday in Santa Cruz County Superior Court claimed the California Youth Authority, the State Department of Mental Hygiene and two court-appointed psychiatrists negligently diagnosed and supervised Kemper.

Kemper was committed to a state mental institution at the age of 15 for murdering his paternal grandparents and released after five years. He was convicted last November of the mutilation slayings of six hitchhiking coeds, his mother and her best friend.

The two court-appointed psychiatrists examined Kemper in September 1972 and declared he had rehabilitated himself.

Concert Planned By Jazz Ensemble

The Jazz Ensemble of the College of Marin Music Department will give a concert at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow in the fine arts theater at the Kentfield campus. Douglas W. Delaney will conduct.

The Community Chorus and Collegiate Chorale, with Scott Merrick conducting, will present a concert of works by Mozart, Pergolesi and Schubert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the theater.

EX-MANAGER SNUBS A'S

Williams Accepts Job In Florida

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Former Oakland Athletics baseball manager Dick Williams announced today he would pass up baseball this season to become administrative assistant to Florida multimillionaire developer John D. MacArthur.

Williams resigned from the A's after they won their second world championship last October but owner Charles O. Finley refused to free him from his contract to become manager of the New York Yankees. Former American League Commissioner Joe Cronin backed Finley's position.

"I am being held out of baseball for perhaps as long as two years by Mr. Finley, but I am happy about this agreement I have made with Mr. MacArthur," Williams said at a joint press conference with MacArthur, who made millions as founder of the Banker's Life Insurance Company.

MacArthur said Williams would be his only personal assistant in his many ventures, but he would not detail Williams' precise duties.

"He's going to learn the business and do some of the things I won't get to," MacArthur said.

Williams indicated he would like to get back into baseball as soon as possible.

"It could be two years, it could be six months or it could be one year," Williams said. His contract with Oakland had two more years to run.

MacArthur said he considered the arrangement permanent, although "I have never stood in anybody's way if they wanted to quit."

Williams said he was "very pleased" with remarks made yesterday by Oakland outfielder Reggie Jackson that the team would like to have Williams back as manager.

"I appreciate what he said and I feel the same way about him and the rest of the Oakland players," Williams said, but reiterated that he has no intentions of returning to Oakland. He said he could not comment on legal actions by his attorney to free him from the Oakland contract because the case is pending in the courts.

"I am under injunction filed by Finley not to sign with any of the other baseball teams but I think I should be a free agent," he said.

Williams said the MacArthur offer was one of several he received since resigning from Oakland and was thwarted in his efforts to manage the Yankees. He said one of the reasons he chose his new job was because it would be close to his home and family—one of the main reasons he gave for wanting to move east to the Yankees in baseball. He said his baseball career has prevented him from seeing his children during the summer months.

"I have an eight-year-old son, Mark, who I've probably seen four years," he said.

Loop Ruling: No Girls On Boys' Teams

It's now official. Girls cannot compete in boys sports in Marin County Athletic League activities.

The MCAL Board of Managers, made up of principals of the league's eight high schools, voted 5-3 to reword the MCAL constitution to officially ban coeducational league activities. The vote came at yesterday's board meeting in a conference room at Quail Hill office building at Northgate Shopping Center.

'NO CHANGE'

"There was no change made in the league policy," said George Corson, league commissioner. "Boys will compete on boys' teams and girls on girls' teams."

California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) has ruled that girls are eligible for boys sports but as Corson explained, league rules can be more restrictive. "According to the CIF," said Corson, "no section, league or school can have rules more lenient than the CIF ruling, but they can have rules more prohibitive."

TITLE IX

Title IX of the U.S. Education Amendments of 1972 forbids sex discrimination in any institutions using federal funds. It is Corson's understanding, and that of the board, that the rule was put in to insure girls the right to have athletic competition.

"Fifty per cent of schools didn't have good girls' programs," said Corson. "Here (MCAL) we have an excellent program, probably one of the best in the state."

MCAL POLICY

The policy of the MCAL has been to keep boys and girls sports separate, and it was believed to be called for in the league constitution. But studying it, San Rafael High School assistant principal Jeff Thorner found there was nothing restricting girls involvement in boys sports.

With yesterday's action at the closed meeting, the banning of girls on boys' teams has become official. And boys can't compete on girls' teams, either.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, the board approved the addition of Katharine Branson School in the league for girls gymnastics. That makes three schools, including San Domenico and Marin Academy, which are competing with the regular eight league schools in girls sports.

The board was presented with a financial report which showed the MCAL and North Bay League each made $1,200, after expenses, from last November's Top of the Bay Bowl football game.

PLEA FAILED — Oakland A's star Reggie Jackson, who was in New York yesterday to accept a nomination in the Gillette Cavalcade of Champions Awards athletic achievement contest, said he wanted Dick Williams to return as manager. However, the controversial Williams decided today to accept an administrative assistant position with Florida multi-millionaire developer John D. MacArthur. (UPI Telephoto)

Marin Tar '5' Tips Cage Foe

By PAUL DWORIN

SANTA ROSA — College of Marin played just one good half of basketball here last night, but it was enough as the Tars turned back a second half challenge from Santa Rosa Junior College to take a 49-44 Camino Norte Conference match.

The victory kept Marin undefeated this season (14-0) and raised its conference mark to 2-0, while the Bear Cubs (2-10) fell to 0-2 in league play.

The Tars broke away in the first nine minutes of the opening half, taking a commanding 16-6 lead.

Marin, third-ranked in the state junior college listings, used a combination of 57 per cent shooting from the field and an intimidating defense that forced Santa Rosa into turnovers its first five times downcourt to build a 32-15 halftime advantage.

After going out to their biggest bulge of the game, 36-16, at the start of the second half, the Tars played more like the third-ranked team in Marin and saw their 20-point margin trimmed to nine in the next eight minutes.

Marin finally scored with 10 minutes remaining in the game, but the shooting of Phil Magrini and the board work of Gary Wagner helped Santa Rosa whittle the lead down to five points with 3:20 to play.

This seemed to wake up the slumbering Tars a little, and they scored back-to-back baskets for the first time in the second half. Those two baskets plus a technical foul conversion by Len Smith gave Marin a 10-point advantage again.

Santa Rosa's comeback was spearheaded by Magrini, who scored all of his 10 points in the final half, and Wagner, who picked off 13 of his game-leading 16 rebounds.

Marin's shooting percentage in the second half was a terrible 32 per cent, which gave the Tars a 45 per cent effort for the night. Santa Rosa shot poorly in both halves and finished with 28.5 per cent.

Wil Garner and Harry Norman led Marin, with Garner scoring a game-topping 18 points and grabbing 12 rebounds, while Norman added 12 points and picked off a team-high 13 caroms.

Another Problem For Charlie Fox

As if Giants' manager Charlie Fox didn't have enough problems trying to find a suitable location for Dave Kingman last year, the team's braintrust has done it to Charlie again.

In the first round of yesterday's annual winter baseball free agent draft the Giants picked Dan Smith, 18-year-old from Canoga Park, Calif. Like Kingman, who was plucked off the University of Southern California campus in the summer of 1970, Smith is a pitcher-first baseman-outfielder.

Although he's not as tall as the 6-foot-6 Kingman and he's left handed, he plays as many positions. Smith is 6-2, but at 18 he might still have a few more years to grow.

Of the Giants' 12 picks, seven were pitchers. I am surprised all 12 picks weren't pitchers since the Giants' need in that catagory is starting to reach outlandish proportions. The A's, who have perhaps the best pitching staff in baseball, also picked seven hurlers in their 12 choices. And they know how to pick pitchers.

Since the first one did such a good job for the Giants, they picked another Mays later in the draft. This one was Cliff Mays of Portland, Ore., a right-handed pitcher. There was some confusion on the spelling of his name but Jack Schwarz, Giants' farm director who was making the S.F. selections, cleared it up in a hurry, according to reports out of New York.

"M-a-y-s," he said, "like in Willie."

NOVATO BARBER Dick Pend is betting all his money on the Miami Dolphins to win the Super Bowl Sunday and his logic is simple. He had picked Penn State (as in P) which beat Louisiana State 16-9 in the Orange Bowl, he picked Ohio State (as in O) which dumped USC 42-21 in the Rose Bowl, and he chose Nebraska (as in N) which beat Texas 19-3 in the Cotton Bowl. The only letter left for Pond is D, so he says, "I can't miss with the Dolphins."

ROGER STILLWELL, All-American defensive end for Stanford whose parents live at Hamilton Air Force Base, has said he will play football for the Cardinals next year despite his possibility of being drafted by the pros.

Stillwell is eligible for the NFL draft because his class is graduating this year. He missed one season of football because of injury. "I want to play in the Rose Bowl next year," said the 6-foot-6, 255-pound lineman. "That's more important to me now than the pros."

A communications major, Stillwell was a first-team choice to the 1973 UPI and Football News All-America teams. His parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Howard Stillwell, live at HAFB where Stillwell is chief of plans for the Western Air Force Reserve Region headquarters.

Capital Baseball Looming

CHICAGO (UPI) — The chances of major league baseball returning to Washington, D. C. are still alive but so are the chances of legal action against the San Diego Padres.

The National League yesterday rejected the request of financially troubled C. Arnolt Smith, owner of the Padres, for approval of the sale of the ball club to a group of nine Los Angeles residents headed by attorney Neil Papiano, including former Chicago racetrack operator Marjorie Everett.

"Washington is still a possibility," National League President Chub Feeney said after a meeting of league owners.

However, the decision of National League owners also incurred the wrath of San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, who said he would press two multimillion-dollar law suits aimed at keeping the Padres in San Diego.

Wilson termed the league's action "arrogant"and said the city would proceed with legal action, "an anticipatory breach based on interference with contractural relations."

The National League owners took only one vote in their session of more than 3 ½ hours, with at least four of them rejecting the sale of the club to the Papiano group.

Seals' Boldirev Scores 4 In Win

Ivan Boldirev, who had 27 goals in two National Hockey League seasons coming into this campaign, tied a club record with four tallies last night in a mad 8-6 triumph against the St. Louis Blues before only 2,883 fans.

The California center, who was born in Zrenjanin, Yugoslavia, became only the second player in the league to have a four-goal game this season. Chris Oddleifson of Boston performed the same feat against the Seals on Dec. 30, also on Oakland ice.

Boldirev, with 16 and 11 goals in his first two seasons, already has 14 tallies this time around.

Two of his goals came within a 33-second span of the second period to lift the Seals into a 5-4 lead. In compiling his first career hat trick, Boldirev also scored in the first and third periods in the loosely played game.

Boldirev's fourth score helped the Seals withstand a frantic rally in the final minutes. Garry Saberio and Don Awrey had cut the Seals' lead to 7-6 and the Blues had pulled their goalie for the final 34 seconds, but California's Rick Kessell iced the game with an empty net goal four seconds from the finish.

Floyd Thomson led the St. Louis attack with two goals an assist, and Warren Williams had three assists for the Blues.

Rangers Sign Draftee Smalley; Giants, A's Select Pitchers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Growing up in a family where both his father and uncle were major leaguers, it is little wonder that Roy Smalley nurtured a dream to be a ballplayer himself someday.

"This has been my lifelong ambition," the younger Smalley, now a mature 21 with a taste of success already behind him, said in Los Angeles yesterday after signing a contract with the Texas Rangers.

"I'm not there yet...in fact, I imagine I have a long way to go. But this at least is a start and I think you can imagine how a person would feel after dreaming about this since he was five years old, and finally getting a chance."

Smalley, a switch-hitting shortstop who helped Southern California win the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., last season, was the No. 1 choice in the winter baseball draft on Wednesday. He was chosen by the Rangers, who earned that privilege by compiling the worst record in the majors last year.

Just minutes after making their selection, the Rangers interrupted the draft, which was being conducted by telephone hookup in the commissioner's office, to announce they signed the young prospect. Terms weren't announced, but it was reported to be for a record draft sum of $100,000.

Smalley said that both his father, who has the same name, and his uncle, Montreal Expo Manager Gene Mauch, coached him but never forced him to play.

"I don't think there was a lot of pressure on me to turn pro earlier," the 6-1, 175-pound infielder said. "We knew I wasn't ready. We feel I'm ready now. I hope to stay with the Rangers and not have to go to the minors.

"I'm pretty excited. As a team, the Rangers are a young club and I think I have a good chance to stick with them. There are more opportunities with a young club and for me that's important. Billy Martin is one of the best managers in the majors.

"My dad and my uncle played with different clubs but that doesn't matter. Everything I am I owe to those two."

Two other players chosen on the first round also have relations associated with the big

OAS Strong Quarter Of Century

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Simon Bolivar, the Venezuelan patriot who fought successfully for the independence of six South American nations early in the 19th century, also fathered the Pan American movement.

The modern expression of that movement is the 24-nation Organization of American States (OAS) which, despite predictions that it would not last, will be 26 years old this year.

(Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was nominated Tuesday by President Nixon to be the new U.S. representative to the OAS with the rank of ambassador.)

The OAS came into being in Bogota in 1948 and its founding fathers, including the United States, tried to make sure it would be an organization whose jurisdiction stopped where the sovereignty of each member began.

That has been both the organization's weakness and strength. It is the only regional group in the world in which a group of weaker nations meet as an equal with a super power (the United States). The reason is that, unlike the United Nations, there is no veto power in the OAS.

The OAS has weathered many storms but its gravest test perhaps came with U. S. intervention in the Dominican Republic's 1965 civil war on orders of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The crisis sparked emotional outcries throughout Latin America and shook the OAS, but did not tumble it. In fact, no member has ever left the organization with the exception of Cuba.

The OAS has been one of the favorite targets of Fidel Castro's propaganda machinery almost since the day he took power 15 years ago. Radio Havana calls it "the ministry of colonies of the United States." Castro himself recently referred to the OAS as a "latrine."

But Cuba technically is still a member although Castro has said repeatedly that Cuba never will sit on the OAS council as long as he is in charge on the island.

The OAS roster includes Argentina, Barbados, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, ElSalvador, El Salvador,temala, Haiti, Honduras, Jamaica, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Trinidad-Tobago, the United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

It is considered the oldest organization of its kind in the world. Its origins can be traced to the Treaty of Perpetual Union, League and Confederation, signed in 1826 by delegates of Central and South American countries meeting in Panama City at Bolivar's invitation.

The first formal organization came into being in April, 1890, when 18 Western Hemisphere nations, including the United States, met in Washington. The OAS was created April 30, 1948, in Bogota when 21 American Republics, again including the United States, signed its charter.

The charter was revised in 1967 to broaden the range of OAS activities by giving added status to two councils previously under the permanent council.

They are the Interamerican Social and Economic Council and the Interamerican Council for Education, Science and Culture.

All three councils now have equal rank and the OAS General Assembly, a term borrowed from the United Nations, was made the organization's supreme organ. It meets once a year at the foreign ministers' level.

The OAS conducts its business in four languages— English, Spanish, Portugese and French —and one of its official publications defined its purposes as follows:

"Through the charter of the OAS, the member countries strive to achieve an order of peace and justice, promote solidarity and strengthen collaboration among themselves, and defend their sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence."

After going out to their biggest bulge of the game, 36-16, at the start of the second half, the Tars played more like the third-ranked team in Marin and saw their 20-point margin trimmed to nine in the next eight minutes.

Marin finally scored with 10 minutes remaining in the game, but the shooting of Phil Magrini and the board work of Gary Wagner helped Santa Rosa whittle the lead down to five points with 3:20 to play.

This seemed to wake up the slumbering Tars a little, and they scored back-to-back baskets for the first time in the second half. Those two baskets plus a technical foul conversion by Len Smith gave Marin a 10-point advantage again.

Santa Rosa's comeback was spearheaded by Magrini, who scored all of his 10 points in the final half, and Wagner, who picked off 13 of his game-leading 16 rebounds.

Marin's shooting percentage in the second half was a terrible 32 per cent, which gave the Tars a 45 per cent effort for the night. Santa Rosa shot poorly in both halves and finished with 28.5 per cent.

Wil Garner and Harry Norman led Marin, with Garner scoring a game-topping 18 points and grabbing 12 rebounds, while Norman added 12 points and picked off a team-high 13 caroms.

Another Problem For Charlie Fox

As if Giants' manager Charlie Fox didn't have enough problems trying to find a suitable location for Dave Kingman last year, the team's braintrust has done it to Charlie again.

In the first round of yesterday's annual winter baseball free agent draft the Giants picked Dan Smith, 18-year-old from Canoga Park, Calif. Like Kingman, who was plucked off the University of Southern California campus in the summer of 1970, Smith is a pitcher-first baseman-outfielder.

Although he's not as tall as the 6-foot-6 Kingman and he's left handed, he plays as many positions. Smith is 6-2, but at 18 he might still have a few more years to grow.

Of the Giants' 12 picks, seven were pitchers. I am surprised all 12 picks weren't pitchers since the Giants' need in that catagory is starting to reach outlandish proportions. The A's, who have perhaps the best pitching staff in baseball, also picked seven hurlers in their 12 choices. And they know how to pick pitchers.

Since the first one did such a good job for the Giants, they picked another Mays later in the draft. This one was Cliff Mays of Portland, Ore., a right-handed pitcher. There was some confusion on the spelling of his name but Jack Schwarz, Giants' farm director who was making the S.F. selections, cleared it up in a hurry, according to reports out of New York.

"M-a-y-s," he said, "like in Willie."

NOVATO BARBER Dick Pend is betting all his money on the Miami Dolphins to win the Super Bowl Sunday and his logic is simple. He had picked Penn State (as in P) which beat Louisiana State 16-9 in the Orange Bowl, he picked Ohio State (as in O) which dumped USC 42-21 in the Rose Bowl, and he chose Nebraska (as in N) which beat Texas 19-3 in the Cotton Bowl. The only letter left for Pond is D, so he says, "I can't miss with the Dolphins."

ROGER STILLWELL, All-American defensive end for Stanford whose parents live at Hamilton Air Force Base, has said he will play football for the Cardinals next year despite his possibility of being drafted by the pros.

Stillwell is eligible for the NFL draft because his class is graduating this year. He missed one season of football because of injury. "I want to play in the Rose Bowl next year," said the 6-foot-6, 255-pound lineman. "That's more important to me now than the pros."

A communications major, Stillwell was a first-team choice to the 1973 UPI and Football News All-America teams. His parents, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Howard Stillwell, live at HAFB where Stillwell is chief of plans for the Western Air Force Reserve Region headquarters.

Capital Baseball Looming

CHICAGO (UPI) — The chances of major league baseball returning to Washington, D. C. are still alive but so are the chances of legal action against the San Diego Padres.

The National League yesterday rejected the request of financially troubled C. Arnolt Smith, owner of the Padres, for approval of the sale of the ball club to a group of nine Los Angeles residents headed by attorney Neil Papiano, including former Chicago racetrack operator Marjorie Everett.

"Washington is still a possibility," National League President Chub Feeney said after a meeting of league owners.

However, the decision of National League owners also incurred the wrath of San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, who said he would press two multimillion-dollar law suits aimed at keeping the Padres in San Diego.

Wilson termed the league's action "arrogant" and said the city would proceed with legal action, "an anticipatory breach based on interference with contractural relations."

The National League owners took only one vote in their session of more than 3 ½ hours, with at least four of them rejecting the sale of the club to the Papiano group.

Seals' Boldirev Scores 4 In Win

Ivan Boldirev, who had 27 goals in two National Hockey League seasons coming into this campaign, tied a club record with four tallies last night in a mad 8-6 triumph against the St. Louis Blues before only 2,883 fans.

The California center, who was born in Zrenjanin, Yugoslavia, became only the second player in the league to have a four-goal game this season. Chris Oddleifson of Boston performed the same feat against the Seals on Dec. 30, also on Oakland ice.

Boldirev, with 16 and 11 goals in his first two seasons, already has 14 tallies this time around.

Two of his goals came within a 33-second span of the second period to lift the Seals into a 5-4 lead. In compiling his first career hat trick, Boldirev also scored in the first and third periods in the loosely played game.

Boldirev's fourth score helped the Seals withstand a frantic rally in the final minutes. Garry Saberio and Don Awrey had cut the Seals' lead to 7-6 and the Blues had pulled their goalie for the final 34 seconds, but California's Rick Kessell iced the game with an empty net goal four seconds from the finish.

Floyd Thomson led the St. Louis attack with two goals an assist, and Warren Williams had three assists for the Blues.

Rangers Sign Draftee Smalley; Giants, A's Select Pitchers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Growing up in a family where both his father and uncle were major leaguers, it is little wonder that Roy Smalley nurtured a dream to be a ballplayer himself someday.

"This has been my lifelong ambition," the younger Smalley, now a mature 21 with a taste of success already behind him, said in Los Angeles yesterday after signing a contract with the Texas Rangers.

"I'm not there yet...in fact, I imagine I have a long way to go. But this at least is a start and I think you can imagine how a person would feel after dreaming about this since he was five years old, and finally getting a chance."

Smalley, a switch-hitting shortstop who helped Southern California win the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., last season, was the No. 1 choice in the winter baseball draft on Wednesday. He was chosen by the Rangers, who earned that privilege by compiling the worst record in the majors last year.

Just minutes after making their selection, the Rangers interrupted the draft, which was being conducted by telephone hookup in the commissioner's office, to announce they signed the young prospect. Terms weren't announced, but it was reported to be for a record draft sum of $100,000.

Smalley said that both his father, who has the same name, and his uncle, Montreal Expo Manager Gene Mauch, coached him but never forced him to play.

"I don't think there was a lot of pressure on me to turn pro earlier," the 6-1, 175-pound infielder said. "We knew I wasn't ready. We feel I'm ready now. I hope to stay with the Rangers and not have to go to the minors.

"I'm pretty excited. As a team, the Rangers are a young club and I think I have a good chance to stick with them. There are more opportunities with a young club and for me that's important. Billy Martin is one of the best managers in the majors.

"My dad and my uncle played with different clubs but that doesn't matter. Everything I am I owe to those two."

Two other players chosen on the first round also have relations associated with the big

Warriors Miss Lee—Mullins

OAKLAND (UPI) — "We aren't going very far without Clyde Lee," says Golden State Warrior guard Jeff Mullins. "We've got to get him back, and if he can't come back, we've got to get someone to replace him."

Mullins, speaking as the Golden State Warriors readied for tonight's game with Seattle, commented on his team, which was 14-7 last Dec. 13 and has been 5-13 since.

Lee, the 6-10 rebounding forward, has been out since the middle of November with torn ligaments in his knee and although the Warriors had a hot streak in the games right after his injury, they have skidded since December.

"Every team needs a guy like Clyde, a guy who mixes it up, plays super defense, gets the big rebound. And when we don't have him, we're hurting," says Mullins.

Strange to say, the Warriors are still near the top of the National Basketball Association Pacific Division since the perennial champion Los Angeles Lakers are tottering, too. They are 24-20, which puts the Warriors 2 ½ games back.

Turnovers have killed the Warriors in recent outings and a lack of same helped them to a 104-92 win at Houston Tuesday in one of their better efforts.

"We're becoming paranoid about the mistakes, at least at times," says Mullins, the backcourter who admits he has been making his share of miscues.

"It's stupid, of course, everyone makes mistakes, even the best players. But most don't let the mistakes bother them. However, they're bothering us. We make a mistake and the feeling just seems to be there's no way we can win now. We start pressing and that brings on more mistakes."

A Quip And Complaint Super Bowl Shapes Up

For every quip uttered by Miami Dolphins' coach Don Shula, Bud Grant of the Minnesota Vikings seems to have a complaint—or two.

The differences in approach between the two veterans of past Super Bowl competition have set the tempo for Super Bowl VIII, which will be played Sunday in Rice Stadium.

Shula, who was known in his younger days as a quick-tempered coach, now says, "I've mellowed." Now coaching his fourth team in the Super Bowl, Shula seems to be intent on entertaining the newsmen.

"My idea of a satisfying win is to score the winning touchdown in the final minute on a muddy field in Oakland on the end of the field Al Davis is standing with his watering hose," Shula chuckled when asked about difficult places to play.

It was a reference to how often the Oakland field is wet when the Raiders are playing at home—even if it hasn't rained in Oakland for days.

Grant, meanwhile, continued to make snide remarks about the Vikings' training facilities even though he has been warned he may be fined by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for doing it.

Grant insists he wasn't defying Rozelle. But it will be interesting to see how Rozelle defines it.

"I don't think it's defiance," he said, "I just made my observations on what Miami has and what we have."

He added, "if we had to make our own arrangements, we would take care of these tthings ourselves and we wouldn't be facing this. The next time we come down, we'll make sure our locker room is up to snuff. This is the Super Bowl and you expect the best."

Grant even seemed to have a barb for the fact that Rozelle wasn't scheduled to arrive here until today. "You'll have to dig into that with the commissioner whenever he surfaces," he said when asked what he thought Rozelle might do about the threatened fine.

Grant said that was "probably so" but then launched into another complaint about the problems of preparing for the game.

"We've got to be here all week. The league says we have to arrive the Sunday before the game. It's a lot of inconvenience and bother and it's irritating for the players who are away from their families. The less we have that distracts the players and less they have to complain about, the better off we are."

But in one of his rare concessions to the league's operation of the game, he said, "this is the greatest spectacle in sports and the league has the background to base its decisions on. Who am I to knock it?"

Meanwhile, Shula also quipped about the controversy over the fact that the Miami front office isn't bringing the mothers of the bachelor players to the game.

"I would like to think that Bob Griese, who is married, still will be throwing the ball to Marlin Briscoe or Marv Fleming, who are single," he said. "I like mothers," he smiled.

Since the wives will be staying at a different hotel when they arrive, Shula even got in a quip in about their sex lives.

"I used to have a Tuesday night rule before each came but now I've relaxed it and I only have a Saturday nighr rule," he said.

Then he added, "of course, the coach doesn't need a Saturday night rule. All he ever thinks about is football. That's one of those comments you'd better put 'he chuckled' after."

Giants Head Coach Job To Arnsparger?

Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — Only a few minor details need to be ironed out before Bill Arnsparger is officially announced as head coach of the New York Giants.

Sources close to the Miami Dolphins said yesterday that Arnsparger, Don Shula's chief assistant and defensive coordinator, has agreed to take the job vacated by Alex Webster with a week remaining in the regular season.

The only details standing in the way of the announcement concern Arnsparger's exact powers. He has long insisted that he would not work under a general manager and the Giants recently have hired former star defensive end Andy Robustelli to oversee their football program.

"I talked with the Giants last week and I will talk to them again next week," Arnsparger said earlier this week. The Giants, meanwhile, have scheduled a news conference in New York next Wednesday.

leagues. Tucker Ashford, an infielder from Covington, Tenn., who was selected just behind Smalley by the San Diego Padres, is a brother-in-law of Phil Gagliano, and shortstop Larry Howser, picked ninth by the California Angels, is the brother of Yankee Coach Dick Howser.

The San Francisco Giants and Oakland Athletics both went for pitchers in the draft.

The Giants selected seven hurlers among their 12 picks and their number one choice was lefty Dan Smith, 18, Canoga Park, Calif., who can also play first base or outfield.

A total of 257 players were chosen by the 24 clubs in the regular and secondary phases, six more than were selected last January. The secondary phase included players who were drafted in the last 13 months, but did not sign contracts. The most notable of those chosen Wednesday was Brad Van Pelt, who plays football for the New York Giants. He was picked by Cleveland.

Rose Leads Batters

Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds led the National League in hitting during 1973 with a .338 mark, 18 points ahead of Cesar Cedeno of Houston. It was Rose's third batting title.

Novice Session Opens Monday

The Marin Aquatic Club's winter novice session, "a low-key recreational and precompetitive instruction program" in swimming, will begin Monday at three sites in Marin, coach Don Swartz announced yesterday.

The program will run Mondays through Thursdays from 5:30-6:15 p.m. for approximately 10 weeks at Redwood, Terra Linda and San Rafael high school pools.

The only prerequisite is that the individual be able to swim the crawl stroke with side breathing for about 40 feet, Swartz said. Cost is $15 and registration will be held at the first session.

Warfield Injured; May Miss 'Super'

HOUSTON (UPI) — Paul Warfield, the Miami Dolphins all-pro wide receiver, suffered a hamstring pull yesterday and could be out of Sunday's Super Bowl VIII game against the Minnesota Vikings.

"Warfield pulled a muscle," Mimai coach Don Shula said this morning. "I don't know his availability. We're just going to have him walk today. He'll do no running. It's a spasm type thing in the thigh."

"He got it coming off the line," Shula explained. "He felt something grab in his leg and we took him out. We iced him down right away and we still don't know exactly how it will turn out. We just have to wait and see."

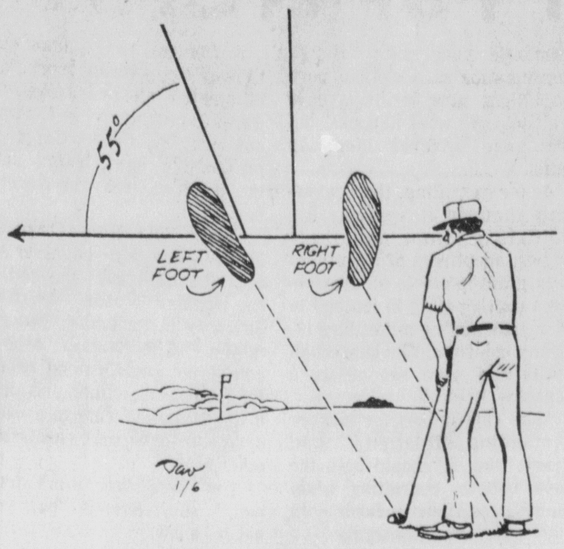
TREVINO TALKS GOLF



A Tip On Toes

By LEE TREVINO

The only foot drill I prescribe is turning the right toe in and pushing off on the right foot.

This lets my weight shift faster through the ball. When your right knee kicks in toward the hole, that weight has to go somewhere pronto.

Some players point their toes straight ahead. This can cause a balance problem. If you rock over on the outside of the right foot, it casts your body off line and throws your swing out of kilter.

240 Girls Entered In Gymnastics Meet

Approximately 240 girl gymnasts from nine high schools in Marin will compete Saturday in the county compulsory meet beginning at 9 a.m. at Redwood High.

The competing schools are Novato, San Marin, Terra Linda, San Rafael, Redwood, Drake, Tamalpais, San Domenico and Katherine Branson.

Gymnasts will vie in novice, beginner and intermediate classes in the customary events — balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting, floor exercise and all-around.

Top five finishers in each event, plus the top 50 per cent of the all-around field in novice and beginners and top 75 per cent in intermediates, will advance to the sectional meet Jan. 26 at Napa High.

Also upcoming on the schedule is the countywide optional meet, in which girls compose their own routines, March 2 at Redwood. A subsequent sectional optional meet is slated March 9 at Terra Linda High.

Free Boating Course Begins In San Rafael

The Marin Power Squadron is presenting a free boating safety course for those 15 years old and over at San Rafael, Redwood and Novato high schools.

The 12-week formats commence at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 29 at San Rafael, Jan. 30 at Redwood and Jan. 31 at Novato. The two-hour sessions for the first 10 weeks cover handling under normal and adverse conditions, seamanship and common emergencies, rules of the road, aids to navigation, compass and chart familiarization, running lights and equipment, boat trailering, inland boating, and Mariner compass and piloting.

The 11th week will be for review prior to the final examination in the 12th meeting. Those passing the test will receive a certificate of completion.

Class Chairmen are: Joe Kohlenstein, San Rafael; Chick Casey, Redwood; and Dr. Richard Albert, Novato.

Corte Madera Sets Children's Classes

Classes to develop the physical skills and coordination of children are scheduled to begin next week through the Corte Madera Recreation Department, with advance registration to be conducted at the Town Hall.

Classes include tumbling and acrobatics for tiny tots, Wednesdays from 10-11 a.m., tumbling for children six and older, Wednesdays from 3:30-4:30 p.m., and judo for children seven and older, Wednesdays from 4:30-5:30 p.m. Further information may be obtained from the Recreation Department.

Larry Drew of Petaluma, who won the 1973 title but failed to qualify for the main event in the first race of 1974 last week, will be out to redeem himself tomorrow night in the American Motorcycle Association Indoor Sportsman races at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa.

Also in the field for the 7 p.m. race are expected to be Terry Otton and Fen Pervier of Mill Valley, Mark Lamke of San Rafael and Kelvin McIssac of Novato.

The Saturday night program of Bay Cities Racing Association midget competition is expected to include Marlin Kentopp of Rohnert Park and Merv Sartori of Petaluma. Time trials start at 7 p.m.

Advance registration at the Town Hall is required for the class in body discipline and controlled exercise, Tuesdays from 7-8 p.m., and the course in "trimnastics," Mondays from 10:45-11:45 a.m. No registration is required to use the open gymnasium at San Clemente School Thursdays from 7-9 p.m. Further information may be obtained from the Recreation Department.

MVP Simpson Credits Coach, Line

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson today credited his coach and offensive line for his 1973 successes which brought him the Associated Press award as the National Football League Most Valuable Player.

"I don't think I did anything different than I did before, but we had that good offensive line," said a smiling O.J. who rushed for a league record of 2,003 yards for his Buffalo club this past season.

"Lou Saban came back as coach in 1972 and he gave me the football that year. Despite all the problems we had with our offensive line, I still led the league with 1,250 yards.

"This year, with Reggie McKenzie healthy all season, Donnie Green healthy and rookies playing well, we did better.

"The Bills picked up Paul Seymour and Joe DeLamielleure in the draft first round. We made a few great trades including picking up Mike Montler from the Jets and you know you put those guys on the offensive line and its's very formidable.

Simpson added: "I think next year we'll take up right where we left off. We had two rookies on the offensive line and we had a rookie quarterback in Joe Ferguson. I expect them to improve and with their improvement I expect myself to improve."

The 26-year-old Simpson, in his fifth season with the Bills and a former Heisman Trophy winner at the University of Southern California, was an overwhelming choice for the MVP honors. A panel of three sports writers and sportscasters from each NFL city vote. Only John Hadl and Harold Jackson of the Los Angeles Rams were named in addition to Simpson and each of them received only two votes.

Buffalo, with a strong finish, posted a 9-5-0 record and finished behind Super Bowl-bound Miami, 12-2. Behind in the division were the New York Jets, New England Patriots and Baltimore Colts.

Rancho To Host Sonoma Quintet

After 10 straight games on the road, Rancho Cotate High School will finally get a chance to use its Rohnert Park gym tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. when the Cougars host Sonoma in a Sonoma County League basketball game.

In other high school court action tomorrow, Petaluma hosts Santa Rosa in an 8:30 p.m. North Bay League contest, Casa Grande battles visiting SCL foe El Molino (Forestville) at 8:30 p.m., St. Vincent of Petaluma travels to Upper Lake for an 8:30 p.m. North Central League II tiff and Tomales treks to Point Arena for an 8:30 p.m. NCL II battle.

Rancho Cotate (0-1) will be facing a Sonoma (0-1) team that took second in the SCL last season, but was decimated by graduation. Still, the Dragons extended pre-season pick Analy (Sebastopol) in their SCL opener before losing by four points.

Petaluma (0-1) also got off to a poor start in league, and will be hosting a Santa Rosa team (1-0) that has to be considered a darkhorse candidate for the NBL championship.

Like Petaluma, the Panthers are not tall, they rely on quickness and outside shooting. The Trojans, who have had rebounding troubles all year, will be without their top board man, Gary Mungle, who injured himself Tuesday against Vintage (Napa).

Casa Grande (0-1) opened its league schedule against defending champion Cardinal Newman Tuesday and got blown off the court, 56-39. Tomorrow, the Gauchos hope to be doing the blowing when they battle defending celler-dweller El Molino (0-1).

El Molino, though, is not the pushover it was last year. Rookie coach Mark Bucklew from Sonoma State College has done a fine job of rebuilding the Lions, as their three-point overtime loss to Piner (Santa Rosa) indicates.

St. Vincent's NCL II opener was delayed one week due to snow-bound highways, but the wait should prove worthwhile to the Mustangs when they square off against hapless Upper Lake (0-1), which finished last in league in 1973 with a winless mark.

Tomales (1-0) started its NCL II schedule last week by thumping Upper Lake, 71-55, and could benefit by a little game-cancelling snow before tomorrow night when the Braves meet Point Arena.

The Pirates, who won the league title last year, gave indications that they are ready to defend it with a one-point victory over NCL I favorite Cloverdale Tuesday.

PREP NOTES

Schedule Changes Are Set

By LEW CODDINGTON

The Marin County Athletic League sports schedule for the upcoming weeks has undergone some revision, for such varied reasons as the energy crisis and Dr. Martin Luther King.

The Tamalpais High School District is celebrating Dr. King's Jan. 15 birthday on Monday, necessitating no schedule changes, but the Novato schools take Tuesday off.

That means Novato High's basketball game at Terra Linda and San Marin's game at Drake have been moved to Wednesday, as has San Marin's home wrestling match against Terra Linda.

The San Rafael City Schools have decided to cut energy consumption by eliminating night midweek basketball games, so Terra Linda High will play its varsity games at 5:30 p.m. instead of 7 p.m.

Affected are Wednesday's Novato game, the Feb. 5 clash with San Rafael and the Feb. 13 contest with Marin Catholic.

That creates an ideal situation for a red-hot basketball fan with a hotter car on Feb. 13. He can see three games in one day — at San Rafael, 4 p.m.; at Terra Linda, 5:30; and at Novato, 7. He'd just better not let the word reach energy czar William E. Simon.

Another change moves the Jan. 22 Terra Linda-San Marin game from 7 p.m. to 4 p.m.

IT'S A FACT — The 33 points scored by Marin Catholic's Mike Mahoney Tuesday against San Marin is the largest total in the MCAL since Wil Garner of Tamalpais netted 34 on Feb. 22, 1972 also against the Mustangs.

A Difficult Year Seen For NCAA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — No question — it's going to be a difficult year ahead for Walter Byers and his National Collegiate Athletic Association Council.

Byers and the other members of the Council sat by the past three days and watched the NCAA, during its annual convention, hand over powers which may be tough to live with.

For instance, the Convention redefined its amateur code with possible loopholes, gave Byers authority to deal with the energy crisis any way he sees fit, tightened recruiting in football and basketball and eliminated all restrictions on bowl invitations.

"I would have hoped, at least on the amateur code," said Byers, "that we had moved a little slower. I don't anticipate any problems right now but I'm not clairvoyant and can't even begin to anticipate what could happen."

In its restructuring of the amateur code the convention adopted a proposal which permits an athlete to be a professional in one sport and an amateur in college in another.

"From an administrative standpoint," said Byers, "the ruling does raise problems. But on balance it could prove to be a very good rule because it is an aid to the individuals.

"I'm inclined to think, although I could be wrong, that the borderline athletes going both ways will stay in college while the ones getting the big pro money will go pro all the way. Right now, though, it's hard to tell what will happen."

As for the energy crisis, the Convention gave Byers and the Council sweeping powers to deal with the situation in any way they see fit, even to cancelling charter flights for athletic teams, curtailing schedules, swapping opponents and limiting recruiting to areas close to home.

"This isn't lip service by any means," said Byers. "We realize the nation is in a crunch that could get even worse. Thus, we stand ready to do whatever has to be done to eliminate unnecessary energy consumption in a critical period. Right now we'll have to wait and see what happens, but we have several ideas in mind."

As for recruiting, the Convention changed its scholarship limitations from dollars to bodies, adopting a proposal that cuts grant-in-aid to studentathletes participating in football to 30 a year and no more than 105 at any one time. The basketball limitations were set at six a year and 18 in all.

"The rule makes for a more demanding situation," said Byers, "but it should help the have nots in recruiting while limiting the richer schools with more successful programs."

As for the bowl games, the Convention, without opposition, eliminated all restrictions regarding invitations. In the past no bids could be offered to prospective bowl teams until the third Saturday in November.

Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame had sought to extend the limit until the end of the regular season (the first Saturday in December) but got nowhere. Theoretically, a bowl committee could extend an offer anytime it wishes and then if the situation changes, withdraw the offer and pick some other school.

"I'm sure that won't happen," said Byers, "but you never know."

Fat Cat Rangers Bow In NHL

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The fat cat New York Rangers had better start getting serious about making the National Hockey League playoffs this year.

Two goals by defenseman Mike Pelyk propelled the much improved Toronto Maple Leafs ahead of New York into third place in the NHL's Eastern Division last night and that could be a bad omen for the struggling Rangers—long accused of being overpaid and lacking in desire.

Luckily, however, for New York, fourth place Buffalo was unable to make a similar gain, losing 3-0 to the Atlanta Flames to remain three points back of the Rangers. In other NHL action, the Chicago Black Hawks and Los Angeles Kings fought to a 4-4 tie, the Minnesota North Stars and Detroit Red Wings deadlocked at 2-2 and California beat St. Louis 8-6.

In the World Hockey Association, the Edmonton Oilers eked out a 6-4 victory over the Minnesota Fighting Saints and Winnipeg defeated Vancouver 6-4.

Toronto, which has won five and tied one of its last seven games, also got goals from Brian Glenny, Jim McKenny, Rick Kehoe and Gary Monahan in moving two points ahead of the idle Rangers for third place in the NHL east with 47. The hapless Penguins, meanwhile, have won just once in their last 10 games.

If Toronto was having its fun advancing, the Chicago Black Hawks weren't as lucky. Bob Murdoch's goal with 2:20 left to play lifted Los Angeles into a 4-4 tie with Chicago, preventing the Hawks from gaining a first place tie with the Philadelphia Flyers in the western division. One bright spot for Chicago was Pit Martin who scored his first hat trick in more than three years

Buffalo, hoping to edge either Toronto or the Rangers out for the final playoff berth in the east, ran into Dan Bouchard, the Atlanta's cool goalie who stopped 32 shots in sparking the Flames to a 3-0 win.

NBA ROUNDUP

A Cold Victory For Hot Celtics

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

But Old Man Winter nearly blew the whistle on last night's game in Boston as the National Basketball Association Celtics trampled the Chicago Bulls, 106-89.

A major winter storm blanketed the New England region with as much as 10 inches of snow, snarling traffic and bringing travel in the Northeast nearly to a standstill.

"It was cold out there," said Celtic coach Tommy Heinsohn about the court after the game. "They've been keeping the heat down and with this storm today it was really cold on the court. That's why the first half was so slow."

What slowed down the first half was the inability of either team to handle the ball in the manner of professional basketball. The Bulls and the Celtics committed 23 turnovers in the opening two periods. For Chicago their misplays spelled most of the difference at halftime, as the 10 points they surrendered in their 13 turnovers handed Boston its 48-37 edge midway in the game.

"We played like a bunch of amateurs in the first half," said Chicago coach Dick Motta. "They weren't much better, but they were luckier."

The Bulls made it to Boston after eight hours from Chicago but the three officials assigned by the NBA to referee the game did not. The game started at its scheduled time, but the tapoff was presided over by Kenny Hudson, a former NBA referee, with the assistance of Roscoe Baker, an official at many local college games. Baker's sole experience with pro basketball had been three intrasquad practice games held by the Celtics.

Jerry Loeber, the official referee, finally arrived by train from New York and took over the officiating duties in the second period. But Earl Strom and Lee Jones were trapped in New York by the weather and were never heard from.

Ultimately, it was rebounding that gave the game to Boston as Dave Cowens grabbed 19 caroms and Paul Silas caught another 11. As a team, the Celtics pulled in a whopping 65 rebounds while the Bulls could get their hands on only 29.

John Havlicek, the Celtics' captain and veteran forward, scored 18 points on the night, pulling him to within 23 points of the 20,000-point mark. Only seven other NBA players have achieved that scoring mark, and Havlicek could join them Friday night when the Los Angeles Lakers come to Boston.

In other NBA action, Detroit whipped Los Angeles 123-94, Phoenix nipped Houston 105-101, Seattle beat Kansas City-Omaha 100-96 and Philadelphia clipped Cleveland 90-86.

Detroit's all-star combination of Bob Lanier and Dave Bing combined for 52 points and the Pistons recorded their biggest victory margin ever over Los Angeles. Lanier hit 32 points and grabbed 20 rebounds while Bing added 20 points and 10 assists.

Phoenix blew a 22-point halftime lead and had to fight off Houston in the last three minutes to defeat the Rockets.

Seattle, up by 21 points after the first quarter and 18 points with less than 11 minutes remaining in the game, held off a frenetic rally by Kansas City-Omaha to down the Kings.

Marriage For Ex-Cubs' Star Joe Pepitone

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Chicago Cubs first baseman Joe Pepitone yesterday announced that he had married his longtime sweetheart and said he and his wife were expecting a baby in March.

Pepitone married 23-year-old Stephanie Shipley Tuesday.

Friends said Pepitone, 33, was with "Stevie" Tuesday on a downtown shopping trip when he turned to her and asked "Why don't we get married today?"

Basketball Results

Roosevelt Green scored 29 points last night to lead King Realty to a 69-40 victory over Hub City in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league play. The defeated Lost Devils 65-39 in the only other contest.

THE SKI SCENE

Whistler Mountain A Change Of Pace

By CHARLIE COANE

Do you know of a ski area that fires up its ski lifts at 8 a.m., has the longest vertical drop in North America and charges $7 for a ski ticket? Well, it's not in California — you're right about that.

Sooner or later, most serious Bay Area skiers (or even the not so serious ones) get the idea that they'd like to wander out of the state and check out the snow elsewhere. Sun Valley, Alta/Snowbird and Aspen are often under consideration. And fine places they are. But another option worthy of a long look is surprisingly easy to reach from these parts. You wouldn't think that the wilds of British Columbia would be nearby — but the fact is that an air flight plops you in Vancouver in two hours from San Francisco Airport and Whistler Mountain is a two to three hour ride from there.

Vancouver is an awesomely beautiful place and aptly dubbed as the San Francisco of Canada. It's a very pretty ride from Vancouver to Whistler — much of the trek is along a rugged Pacific coastline such as you encounter on the way to Stinson Beach. The leaving-the-country scene doesn't really slow you down at all. In fact, it adds a bit of glamour to everything to change the U.S. dollars to Canadian (and lose a few cents) and back again (and still lose a few cents).

A quick customs check and you're on your way. There are a number of ski packages to go to Whistler which involve the airplane trip to Vancouver, bus to Whistler, accommodations, lifts etc. Or, you can make your own arrangements and drive yourself. It's only 75-80 miles along a road that's not exactly Interstate 80, but it's fun. You pass through such world famous places as Squamish, and even cross a one-lane bridge.

Whistler mountain has only a handful of places to stay and it's best to make reservations well ahead of time during peak periods such as Christmas. There are no clunky motels, neon signs and stoplights. The nightlife is there in the various lodges, but it's not like Aspen. (Then again, there is NO nightlife like Aspen.) But, the atmosphere is warm, the people very friendly and the skiing is first rate. Whistler's got it all.

It's a half-hour ride via a gondola or chairlift to the top; which gives you an indication of the size of the mountain. And, if that's not enough for you, there is literally endless helicopter skiing among the glaciers. You can also close out your day with about a seven-mile run. And, if that doesn't make you sit down and rest for a while, nothing will. There are runs that go all over the place — as tough or as easy as you like. Whistler gets tons of snow and the ski season runs about six months.

Carew A Hitter

Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins led the American League batters during 1973 with a .350 mark. He finished 44 points ahead of runners-up George Scott of Milwaukee and designated hitter Tommy Davis of Baltimore.

CONSIDER RETREADS
I've never advertised re-caps before, because frankly I felt new tires in most cases were a better value.
NOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED!!!
The biggest enemy of a re-tread was LONG DISTANCE HIGH SPEED DRIVING: couple this with a heavy car and for a fast driver, I didn't feel a re-cap was a super deal.
THINGS HAVE CHANGED!!!!
You've probably noticed SPEED LIMIT 55 MPH ... Now that's not high speed. Cheapy tires are disappearing from the market ... I mean like the 5th. line cheapies marked by Goodyear-Firestone-Sears-Wards-ect. I don't mean a good tire at a good deal.

CHARLES ZEGELBONE
Promotion manager

I-J Names Promotion Manager

Charles S. (Chuck) Zegelbone, former promotion manager of Pioneer Press Inc. in the Chicago suburbs, is the new promotion manager for the Independent-Journal. He succeeds John Colèy, who went into business for himself.

Wishard A. Brown, publisher of the Independent-Journal, announced that Zegelbone was appointed as of Monday.

A graduate of Indiana University with a degree in marketing, Zegelbone served with the United States Army in France, England and Thailand from 1966 to 1969, emerging as captain. He was an account executive with CBS in Chicago for two years, then served as promotion manager of Pioneer Press Inc., a subsidiary of Time, Inc., from July of 1971 through last December.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Realty Trusts Have Problems

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Please comment on mortgage investment trusts. I am considering buying Diversified Mortgage Investors (NYSE) for its high yield. — J. T. My wife and I hold Fidelity Mortgage Investors (NYSE) and First Mortgage Investors. Would you advise us on these? — W.R.

A. This entire group has suffered more than most in the stock market. However, because there are wide differences in their operating methods not all participants in the industry have been beset by the problems which have hit a number of these trusts. The mortgage investment trust was virtually unheard of until the late 1960s, when a sudden proliferation of these companies began. An amendment of the income tax laws in 1960 paved the way for the formation of this industry, but the burgeoning demand for short-term construction and development loans supplied the impetus needed to expand the field from 2 to more than 80 participants.

As with any major rapidly expanding industry, there comes a period of attrition when the weaker members are either absorbed or fail entirely.

Fidelity's portfolio is 97 per cent short-term construction and development mortgage loans. A high rate of loan defaults (10 per cent of their portfolio is not accruing interest) created major problems and the directors elected in December to omit the dividend. This issue should be sold. First Mortgage, the oldest company in the field, had a sharp drop in earnings beginning in the final 1972 quarter. Improvement appears to be underway; a recent merger has added to the diversity of their loan portfolio. Hold. Diversified Mortgage, a medium-term trust, has at present only about 2 per cent of its portfolio in problem loans. While the issue has appeal it is speculative. For the more conservative investor, I prefer Chase Manhattan Mortgage Realty (NYSE) or BT Mortgage Investors (NYSE).

MERCEDES COUPE ROADSTER

The 450 SL coupe-roadster, which comes with both hard and soft tops as standard equipment, is the only two-seat sports model offered by Mercedes-Benz for 1974. Local Mercedes dealer is R.A.B. Motors Ic. of San Rafael.

Redwood Bank Opens San Francisco Office

Redwood Bank, which was established 11 years ago in San Rafael and has been expanding ever since, went big time this week with the formal opening of its new office at 735 Montgomery Street in San Francisco, near the Transamerica Building.

Opening of the new office means the transfer of headquarters from 1447 Fourth Street in San Rafael to Montgomery Street, and the consolidation of Redwood Bank's Union Street office, opened three years ago, with the new headquarters.

Redwood Bank President Byron W. Leydecker, former Marin County supervisor, presented a redwood tree seedling to San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto at opening ceremonies of the new headquarters Tuesday.

The move from San Rafael to San Francisco is in line with the bank's aim of becoming a Bay Area regional bank. Last March, when Leydecker asked shareholders to approve the transfer of headquarters to San Francisco, he declared:

"The management's goal... is to strengthen the Corporation's ties with the financial community centered in San Francisco, and to heighten the public awareness of the Corporation as a member of that community."

The bank now has offices in San Francisco, San Rafael, Napa, Vallejo and San Mateo, with resources of $68 million. In February of 1972, it organized its holding company, Redwood Bancorp, which engages in mortgage banking and insurance through its subsidiaries.

Partial Recovery Made By Traders On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices, lower much of the morning, turned mixed around noon today on the New York Stock Exchange. Recently hardhit glamors led the partial recovery.

In the news, energy chief William E. Simon established a task force to audit "price, profit and supply records of every petroleum refinery in the nation." This news, coupled with heavy institutional profit taking, sent the oil group broadly lower. Ohio Standard fell 3 ¾, Superior 3 ⅜, Atlantic Richfield 2 ⅞, Getty 2 ¾, and Exxon 1 ⅜.

But the glamor group, weaker for the last several months, posted strong gains, with IBM ahead 6 ¼, Honeywell and ARA Services 3 apiece, Xerox and Texas Instruments 2 ½ each, Burroughs 2 ⅜, and Polaroid 1 ¾.

Der Hof-Brau Haus To Be Sold To San Rafael Man Next Week

Der Hof-Brau Haus at 276 Northgate One shopping center in Terra Linda will be sold next week to Bert Farber of San Rafael, who had operated Bert's Coffee Shop on Montgomery Street in San Francisco for 21 years until he sold it last November. Farber said he sold the coffee shop because he got tired of commuting and wanted to work closer to home.

Farber and his wife Sylvia bought Der Hof-Brau Haus from David Woo, who will devote full time to Lin-Fa Gardens, which he bought last November. Woo said his Lin-Fa Gardens will expand services for banquets, catering and delivery of Chinese, Polynesian and American dishes.

Der Hof-Brau Haus will be open from 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. seven days a week, offering beer and wine and other hof brau food. The Farbers will be assisted by their daughter and son-in-law, Barbara and James Smith of Terra Linda, who ran a dude ranch in Montana, where they served food for about eight years.

THOMAS R. REDDOCK of San Anselmo has been named assistant vice president in Wells Fargo Bank's data processing division, funds control group, San Francisco. He joined Wells Fargo last September.

Reddock

Roseler

G. A. (RUSS) ROSELER of San Rafael was appointed general manager, Antioch container operations, container division, for Fibreboard Corporation, San Francisco-based forest products company. His responsibilities include sales and operations at the company's Antioch plant, which produces corrugated containers.

BRET HARTE BARBER Shop at 91 Woodland Avenue (Bret Harte Shopping Center) in San Rafael was sold this week to Joseph (Joe the Barber) Hildreth, who owned Redhill Barber Shop in San Anselmo from 1970 to 1972.

Hildreth bought the shop from William E. Sharp of San Rafael, who had operated it for 12 years. Sharp is looking for work in a new field.

Hildreth offers razor cuts and styling in addition to regular haircuts. He has 15 years of experience, including operation of Gay Nineties in Terra Linda and Country Club Barber Shop in San Rafael.

Bret Harte Barber is open five days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

CHRYSLER-PLYMOUTHS are now being sold at Dodge agencies in Marin, and vice versa, under a new policy being tried on a temporary basis by Chrysler Corporation.

This means Dodge cars and trucks are available at Corte Madera Chrysler-Plymouth, and Chryslers and Plymouths are also being sold at Francisco Dodge Center and at Nave Dodge in Novato. This gives each of the three Marin dealers a full line of Chrysler Corp. cars from which customers can choose.

HOPE EMERY of Larkspur, salesman for U.S. Audio and Copy Corp. of San Francisco, won the company's New Salesman of 1973 award at a year-end sales meeting held in Oakland last week. Mrs. Emery, who joined the firm last April, sells dictation equipment in the Bay Area.

A GUNG-FU school, believed to be the first in Marin, has opened at 831 Fourth Street in San Rafael, next to Marinello School of Beauty.

Headmaster and chief instructor is David Chin, who is assisted by Tony Galvin-Wing. Both Chin and Galvin-Wing are disciples of the late Grandmaster Harry Y. M. Ng., who died in San Francisco about two years ago.

The official name of the school is Tibet Lama Hop Gar Gung-Fu. Galvin-Wing explained that Gung Fu has a three-fold aim: To promote physical health and well being, develop self defense and fighting techniques, and promote spiritual meditation to develop powers of the mind.

Men, women and children of all ages may enroll at David Chin's Gung-Fu School. The only requirement is that a student be of "good character," said Galvin-Wing.

KAY NOAH and Associates Realtor announced two new additions to the Kentfield office (former Seymour and Hickman) at 802 College Avenue, across from College of Marin. They are Erna (Frankie) Longfellow, who was with Home and Land in San Rafael for five years; and Alice Allen, licensed broker, who was with Fox and Carskadon in San Rafael for four years.

GILBERT F. ALLARD, president of Brockmann Real Estate Inc. in Mill Valley, announced the appointment of Edward I. Ravizza as general manager. Ravizza joined Brockmann's last August after 12 years of experience in real estate.

Brockmann Real Estate, at 36 Tiburon Boulevard, also added two men to its 20-man sales staff: Bruce A. Kurtz, former engineer, and Richard S. Barkley, who had his own office of Red Carpet Realtors in Southern California.

JOSEPHINE WRIGHT of San Rafael was promoted to customer service manager at United California Bank's Marina office in San Francisco. She previously was a customer service representative.

Mrs. Wright joined UCB in 1949, worked in the San Rafael office from 1949 to 1951 and again from October to December of 1972, when she transferred to the San Francisco office.

GRUBB & ELLIS Company's Greenbrae office has two new additions:

KARIN JONES of Fairfax, formerly with Gallagher-Sturiale in San Anselmo; and Hugh Carruthers of Kentfield, who was with Seymour & Hickman in Kentfield for the past 12 years.

Real Estate Loan Figures Announced

Will J. Clardy Jr., Northern California general manager for the company's real estate investment department, reports that the entire amount was for city properties.

Dividend Set

SAN FRANCISCO — A dividend of 50 cents per share of beneficial interest was declared by the trustees of BankAmerica Realty Investors for the quarter ending Jan. 31, 1974. The dividend is payable March 1 to shareowners of record Jan. 14, 1974.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Historic Discovery Needs Protection

There is no more intriguing event in Marin County history than the landing of Sir Francis Drake.

Until the 18th century, no European except perhaps Drake and his crew of the Golden Hinde set foot in what is now Marin, as far as anyone knows. Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo may have glimpsed it from the sea in 1542, as did Sebastian Rodriguez Cermeno in 1595 and Sebastian Vizcaino in 1603. But none of them landed.

Not until Juan Manuel de Ayala explored San Francisco Bay in August, 1775, did any Spanish explorer set foot in Marin. The honor of being first belongs to Jose de Canizares or one of his small boat crew, sent by Ayala to seek an anchorage on the north side of the bay.

Nor is there any evidence that the Russians, working down the coast from Alaska in search for the sea otter, came ashore in Marin before the visit by Ayala's men.

BUT NEARLY two centuries earlier — on June 17, 1579 — the English privateer Drake careened his ship somewhere in the vicinity for repairs.

Just where Drake landed has been a subject of great dispute. Most of those who have studied the meager evidence incline to Drake's Bay, now a part of Point Reyes National Seashore.

But now new evidence has come to light, through explorations by two archeologists, one of them V. Aubrey Neasham, a former Marinite. They think they have found the remains of a fort Drake and his crew built for protection while they made repairs on their ship. And the site is not at Drake's Bay, but on Bolinas Lagoon.

The evidence, as described by Jeff Greer in a story on page one of today's Independent Journal, is exciting and provocative. What Neasham and William E. Pritchard found may be the remnants of the earliest English structure in North America, built six years before Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated expedition erected a fort on a Carolina island.

IT IS FORTUNATE — or should be — that the site is on county land. Measham and Pritchard want to dig further, to prove or disprove the theory that what appears to be a modern reservoir site is actually a fort built (to be later built upon) as the only permanent structure in what Drake called Nova Albion.

But if they're to do so, the site must be protected. It would be a major tragedy if the chance for proof were destroyed by amateur diggers or souvenir hunters.

We say it is fortunate that the site is on county land, because the county can set up an immediate watch over it. And it should do so.

This need not be expensive. The Sacramento school system has found that the best protection against vandalism on school property is provided by allowing a family to live there in a trailer house. This would be a simple way for Marin County to protect what may be the oldest English structure in America.

This or some similar protective measure should be taken at once. A find of such possible historic significance must not be allowed to be vandalized.

Incumbents' Advantage Seen As Hindering Campaign Reform

By GENE BERHARDT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most any congressman will tell you his profit margin is low because his expenses are high and that being an incumbent is not a sure fire ticket for reelection like some campaign reformers claim.

Americans for Democratic Action figures that just being in office gives an incumbent a $375,000 advantage over a challenger and that this, in effect, means public financing of his campaign for re-election.

The question of incumbency —or "them that's in, win" —is a major issue in the drive in Congress for campaign reform that was spurred by Watergate revelations of hidden contributions from special interest groups expecting a return on their investment.

YOU HAVE TO remember, though, that it is the incumbents who must change the system. That's going to require a mighty lot of public pressure, more than has been generated so far.

The ADA, a liberal oriented organization, and Common Cause, along with a sprinkling of House and Senate members, see taxpayer backed campaigns, with private contributions outlawed, as the only way to cure abuses that existed long before Watergate.

Some members say total public financing would encourage every Tom, Dick and Harry to run for office at taxpayer expense. ADA responds that such opposition is understandable because incumbents have $274,754 in personal and staff salaries and office space, $66,977 in communications and travel and $34,615 in "miscellaneous benefits," to play with — all provided by taxpayers.

Added to that, says ADA, is the normal news media exposure of the incumbent because of his office, plus the patronage available and the help from just doing his job in helping constituents in their dealings with federal agencies.

ALL OF THIS MAY go up in a few weeks as President Nixon is mandated by law to recommend in his budget whether he, Congress and the judiciary should get a pay raise. Figuring that none of them got a pay boost since March, 1969, when congressional pay went to $42,500 a year, chances are strong the recommendation will be for an increase.

ADA and Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., chairman of a House Republican task force on election reform, said recent election returns are proof of the viability of being an incumbent.

In 1968, they said, 98 per cent of incumbent House members and 83 per cent of senators won re-election. The figure was 96 per cent and 79 per cent respectively in 1970 and again in 1972.

Noting the weapons available to incumbents, Frenzel said "over 80 per cent of Congress' campaigns are contested feebly, if at all."

He added: "Incumbents have a formidable array of weaponry available to them. They have staff allowances. Legitimate staff legislative work frequently overlaps the political function."

Frenzel opposes public financing of campaigns but says there should be limits on individual contributions as well as on spending with more stringent reporting requirements.

ONE OF THE MORE refreshing proposals came from Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, in announcing his candidacy for election an 11th term.

"I will endeavor to campaign without a campaign fund, no contributions to be accepted, no funds to be spent, no signs, no campaign cards, no advertising, no purchase of time or space in the media," said Vanik, who has had primary as well as general election opposition in each of his past 10 races.

The key word in that proposal is "endeavor." It will be interesting to check back with Mr. Vanik in September, two months before election time.

Humanity Endangered By Social Scientists' Experimentation In Control Of Behavior

Probably every great advance in human society has had its problems, its possible disadvantages, even its dangers.

When primeval men tamed fire, some of them were probably aware of its harmful possibilities. When they touched it they hurt. More lately, great advantages — such as steam engines, railways, motor cars and airplanes — have been viewed by some with the greatest alarm. And to some extent they were right.

Social concern, moral concern, applies very directly to many phenomena of our own day, notably to the splitting of the atom and the use or abuse of the great power derived from fission or fusion.

BUT NOTHING MORE deeply shocks and warns us than the experiments now under way in the field of electronic or chemical behavior control, unless it be the pre-planning of the human race through genetic manipulation.

What can now be done in the modification of human behavior raises profound moral questions; what may be done tomorrow in genetic experiment (test tube babies! selective breeding!) disturb most those who have some technical knowledge of the possibilities.

Some of the present research and experimentation in behavior control is hair-raising. Some of its applications have become commonplace, but are nonetheless uncertain in their ultimate effects. Thus, many parents today use tranquilizers — albeit mild — on babies and children. In the 18th Century, some parents quieted children with a rag soaked in gin, which is dubious enough, but today's drugs may be even more parlous.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGISTS are now talking about the "deviance" of the "hyper-active" child. Such children, say these specialists, suffer from "minimal brain dysfunction," and while they resemble normal children by most tests, can be identified and dosed with drugs to make them more tractable to the norms of society. How many of the world's most valuable adults were "hyperactive" children, and might have been irreparably damaged by drugging, is one of the serious questions raised.

Some current experiments involve implanting behavior modifying electrodes in the brain, and giving the subject orders which he finds himself unable to modify by his own will. Thus, experimenters faced with a person deemed to be socially dangerous would permanently modify his thinking by electrodes. Or they would employ psycho-surgery by which brain tissue is actually destroyed.

In other cases, the control would come through drugs.

ONE PROPOSAL is that socially dangerous persons should be required to wear a bracelet carrying a sending device, a transponder. This is described as "a kind of externalized conscience — an electronic substitute for the social conditioning, group pressures and inner motivation" that are expected to keep normal people orderly and harmonious in society. The synthetic conscience would simply let a computer know exactly where the dubious person was all the time, thus inhibiting him from anti-social behavior. Big Brother would always be listening. Thus, say the proponents of these methods, the prisons could be emptied and dangerous persons returned to useful roles.

The possibilities of good or evil run through the whole range of behavior control research. Those working in the field are aware of the dangers; indeed, probably more aware than any of the rest of us. They are sorely tempted by the benefits to take the risks of abuse. But they know there must be controls and that these would be very difficult.

SO MANIFEST are the hazards that one is tempted to say: "Close the book. Lock the door. Abandon the laboratory." And yet this cannot really be done. Men will learn all they can about human behavior. They will strive for knowledge. But in this field, more than most, the necessity for wisdom is urgent. It must be wisdom which respects the inviolable autonomy of man under God. The Faustian experiment is a delusion. Already we have seen that we know little of the side effects and ultimate consequences of many of our interferences with the natural world. When this interference concerns the individual, the precious individual, we must go very slowly and very prayerfully.

(A footnote: Some people suffer from a familiar illusion that they are already being tampered with by radio, or other external controls. This is simply a false belief. I know of no evidence that any of the efforts to control behavior have gone beyond controlled experiments in which individual consent was always given in one way or another.)

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Will We Bury Russia Or Will She Bury Us?

When the late Russian Premier Nikita Khruschev, during his historic visit to the U.S. in 1959, made his shocking statement, "We will bury you," he didn't mean that Russia would destroy us, but that we would destroy ourselves, dig our own graves, and Russia would merely shovel in the dirt.

If the people of all social levels, from the lowest to the highest in the U.S., don't inform themselves about what is really going on, don't demand honest information from every source, don't insist, without violence, on ethical and moral conduct from politicians, lawyers, economists, corporations and industrialists, big and small businessmen alike, labor unions, Madison Avenue, the entertainment world and the communications media, the technologists and the scientists and the environmentalists, and every other institution in the country, including the churches and religious evangelists, and don't consult our own consciences and integrity — then we might just as well be digging our own graves.

On the other hand, if Russia continues to oppress and suppress its "dissidents," its intellectuals and scientists, its writers and artists, and its straight thinkers who want to reveal to the world and their own people the truth about some of communist Russia's own mistakes, cruelties and social blindness, it could be just the other way around — we might have to bury her.

Above all, let's see to it that an even worse and more ridiculous thing doesn't happen: that we both don't bury each other by the mutually insane use of nuclear bombs!

Taco Bell Turndown Called 'Unbelievable'

Your editorial of Jan. 4 about the Novato City Council vs. Taco Bell, "Sitting In Judgement On Own Appeal," was very much appreciated by Mrs. Ostlind and myself. It is nice to know somebody else is watching their actions.

Because of your attention to this matter there were about a hundred Novato citizens in attendance at the council meeting last night, Jan. 8, in our support. More than a dozen made comprehensive statements in favor of the Taco Bell. To all these people who came down to stand with us in this kangaroo court, and all the others who attempted to reason with the councilmen, we would like to say we sincerely appreciate all the efforts they have made. Without them we would sink without a ripple under the rule of such an arbitrary group as Quesada, Jones and Sartain.

After the hearing and vote were over, the most often heard comment was, "Unbelievable!" Many of these people witnessed for the first time the attitude of stubborn defiance displayed by these councilmen as they listened (without hearing) to two hours of concise and penetrating favorable testimony from a cross section of Novato residents . . .

Not only had all three councilmen who voted down the permit widely announced their pre-judgement of the Taco Bell, but Councilman Jones should have disqualified himself because of conflict of interest. He was employed by Taco Bell as late as three years ago as one of their attorneys in a lawsuit against Mill Valley.

How any councilman, especially one asking to be re-elected (Sartain), can totally ignore a massive expression of community feeling, as they did last night, has to be seen to be believed. . .

'What You Did To Comics Is Lousy'

I am 13 years old and I read your paper all the time, since my parents have subscribed to it for 10 years. I think that what you did to the comics page is lousy. I read "Nancy" all the time, but now you have all those comics like "Tumble Weeds" and I honestly think they are crummy. Also why did you cut down the size of the comics page when you just could have cut down the size of some of your advertisements? My father used to read the comics all the time, but now he's so disgusted that he's about ready to cancel the subscription.

Quote From Mark Twain On Loyalty To Country

"My kind of loyalty was loyalty to one's country, not to its institutions or its office-holders. The country is the real thing. . . to watch over. . . Institutions are extraneous, they are its mere clothing and clothing can wear out or become ragged. . . To be loyal to rags, that is the loyalty of unreason. It is pure animal.

"The citizen who thinks he sees that the country's political clothes are worn out, and yet, holds his peace, and does not agitate for a new suit, is disloyal; he is a traitor. That he may be the only one who thinks he sees this decay, does not excuse him; it is his duty to agitate anyway." — Mark Twain (1885).

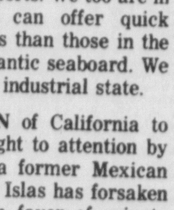
California Might Ape Texas' Trade Promotion



By EARL G. WATERS

Californians are constantly subjected to the propaganda that theirs is the greatest state, the leader in all things, the cradle of all new bright ideas.

So it may come as a surprise to some that there are other people in this world possessed with brains, know-how and good ideas. California hasn't cornered the market in that field. It should look around and see what others are doing.

TAKE TEXAS for example. The people in that state do more than just brag about how big their state is. Not limited to producing oil, raising cattle and millionaires, the Lone Star State has become an important industrial center. Within its borders it produces 94 per cent of the type of products marketed in Mexico by this country.

Reviewing these facts, the Texans asked themselves why Mexican buyers were trading with New York and other industrial states much farther removed from Mexico.

From those thoughts were born the idea of establishing a trade mission permanently stationed in Mexico City to expand trade between Texas and Mexico.

As they graphically point out in advertisements in all of the important trade magazines in Mexico, the two have much in common.

Having once been a part of Mexico and having a large segment of population composed of persons of Mexican descent, Texas has a natural affinity for the Mexican people.

They share a common border and are linked directly by highways, railroads, airports and seaports. Their proximity offers faster delivery at lower costs than the same products purchased from more distant places.

THE TEXAS OPERATION suggests that the great state of California is asleep at the switch. Nothing said in furtherance of developing better trade relations between Texas and Mexico cannot be said about California.

This state, too, was once a part of Mexico. A substantial segment of this state's population is of Mexican descent. Much of our historical background is steeped in Spanish culture.

We also share a common border with Mexico and are linked by highways, rails, airports and seaports. We too are in close proximity and can offer quick delivery at lower costs than those in the Midwest or on the Atlantic seaboard. We too have an important industrial state.

THE DERELICTION of California to this market was brought to attention by Senor Antonio Islas, a former Mexican consul in Sacramento. Islas has forsaken government service in favor of private enterprise. But he has a fondness for California and wonders why the state hasn't established a trade mission in Mexico City similar to that of Texas.

It is a good question. But as Col. Benoid E. Glawe, the genial head of Texas' International Trade Mission, points out, such an effort can't be achieved with some political hacks in need of jobs. If the state is to undertake that kind of program it must recruit to it those who are well established in Mexico, know the people, their customs and their business.

County Clerk's Employees Shiver As Thermostats Turned Down

There's many a cold calf in the county clerk's office — not the bovine variety, but attached to the chilly legs of women employees.

An unwritten but still enforced rule there forbids women from wearing any kind of trousers to work, or even long skirts.

Well, fashion and appearance are one thing, but comfort is another. In these days of 65-degree thermostats, it seems it's time to be more sensible about dress regulations.

MORE THOUGHTS on the energy crisis:

But walking to the corner market for a loaf of bread, instead of hopping into the car, takes fuel too. True, it's not gasoline that powers human beings, it's food. But each unit of food we eat doesn't just appear on our doorstep under its own power.

It takes fuel to plow the ground, sow the seed, weed the fields, harvest the crop and process it. Gallons are required to bring it to market, keep it cool (or warm) and light the store while we shop.

I'm not saying it takes more fuel to bring us a gram of protein to be burned up in climbing a flight of stairs than it does to run an elevator to take us there. I don't know the ratio.

BESIDES, THERE ARE nice side benefits of walking instead of riding, not the least of which is a sense of physical well-being and spiritual uplift.

But I am saying there's no such thing as a free lunch. Stopping all the elevators, if it comes to that, is a good way to hit people with the reality of the energy shortage, but it wouldn't save much fuel.

Blank Hughes Checks Donated To Nixon Reelection Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An agent for billionaire Howard Hughes says he gave a batch of blank, signed checks to Presiden Nixon's reelection campaign.

Sally Harmony, secretary to former campaign aide and Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, said in a sworn deposition made public yesterday that she filled in the amounts on the checks, totaling $50,000.

In her deposition, given last April 27 in a damage suit filed by the Democratic National Committee against the Republicans over the Watergate bugging, she said the Hughes checks were signed by Robert Bennett, a Washington-based public relations man for Hughes.

Bennett, in a statement to UPI, said the blank checks were delivered to Liddy because his own secretary was tied up and didn't have time to fill in the amounts.

"The scenario runs this way," Bennett said. "The decision was made to contribute $50,000 from Howard Hughes to the re-election of Richard Nixon.

"I went over to the Finance Committee for the Re-Election of the President on the 6th of April and told them I was prepared to contribute $50,000 of Mr. Hughes' money as his agent," he said.

Because there is a ceiling of $3,000 on giving to any one entity, Bennett said Liddy gave him a list of committees to make the checks out to.

"I took the list back to my office. My secretary was busy and had something important to get out. I said, 'when you get a free minute, type a committee name on each check,'" Bennett said.

SALLY HARMON
Filled in amounts

He said he was then called by Liddy who told him the contributions, in order to remain secret, had to be made and processed by April 6 and that the committee was getting ready to make a deposit.

"We don't want to rush you," he quoted Liddy as saying, "but could we get it right away?" Bennett said Liddy came over to pick the checks up and, after seeing that the amount was not typed in, said "Look, my secretary can do that. Let me take them over and she can do that."

The $50,000 contributed by Hughes through Bennett is in addition to the $100,000 another Hughes agent gave Nixon's close friend Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo. Rebozo has told investigators he kept that money in a safe deposit box three years and then returned it. The filled-in blank checks — 16 for $3,000 and one for $2,000—were cashed.

Flood Work For Ross Is Ordered

A legal logjam that has halted completion of flood control in the lower Ross Valley appeared yesterday to have been broken.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court ordered the Marin Flood Control District to relieve flooding in Ross and told the town to cooperate in the construction of a concrete ditch along Corte Madera Creek.

The compromise ruling came in a suit filed by the city council against the flood control district. The court action has held up flood control improvements in Ross for almost two years.

Wilson ordered the district to build $175,250 worth of facilities to stop flooding on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Ross Common. The town must contribute $6,250, he ruled.

Ross joined the district in 1967 and agreed to permit a concrete channel to replace Corte Madera Creek if the district would do something about local flooding.

When county supervisors, who control the flood control district, slapped a $60,000 limit on what could be spent on such flooding, the town withdrew its permission for construction of the crucial final phase of the main creekbed channel and filed suit.

Fire Services Sought In Country Club Area

Homeowners Opposed to Political Expansion, who successfully opposed annexation of the Country Club area to San Rafael, today announced they have obtained more than 100 signatures on a petition for formation of a county services area in Country Club.

The petition has been given to Marin County Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere for presentation to the board of supervisors, reported Joseph Kohlenstein and Donald S. Manion, leaders of the group. They were to meet today with County Administrator John F. Barrows to discuss procedures to place the petition before the Local Agency Formation Commission and eventually bring it to a vote of Country Club residents.

A county services area is a device for providing special services for an unincorporated area and is governed by the board of supervisors. It is sought for Country Club as a way to provide fire protection for the area.

"Regardless of the manifest opposition to annexation," said Kohlenstein in a letter to Roumiguiere, "there exists a significant, if not majority, interest by Country Club residents in obtaining improved fire protection."

As an alternative to a county services area, it suggested location of a county fire station on San Pedro Road to serve Country Club and Bayside Acres. Manion said, however, that this was a separate proposal, and the county services area would be sought regardless of whether the county agreed to locate fire fighting equipment there.

Manion said the signers believe the services area could contract with San Rafael for fire protection at less cost than annexing to the city and paying full city taxes. He pointed out that a 34-cent tax levy by the county for "structural fire protection" would be eliminated by such a setup.

"We are just as concerned with fire protection as are those who wanted to annex to the city," he said. "We believe this would be a less expensive way to get it, and that we are better off by remaining under county jurisdiction."

Leader Gets Assurances Of School Fuel

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The president of the National Education Association said yesterday the federal government assured her schools will have a high priority for use of gasoline, heating oil and other fuels.

"As a result of our testimony Monday at a Senate subcommittee hearing regarding schools with the energy crisis, the federal energy office has ruled that gasoline and diesel fuel regulations will specifically include school buses in the category of public passenger transportation entitled to 100 per cent of current requirements," Dr. Helen D. Wise of State College, Pa., said.

Dr. Wise, in San Antonio to speak to public relations directors from schools in 34 states, said she told the government unilateral decisions "to alter school schedules in the guise of saving energy would unquestionably produce controversy."

Basement Duty For A Longhair

"I'm ashamed of him," Parker said in announcing Shea's transfer from the traffic division to the supply department.

Newsword Adventure

Our word "bus" comes from the French term "omnibus," coined in the 19th Century to describe a horse-drawn passenger-carrying vehicle. The English writer E. M. Forster entitled one of his short stories "The Celestial Omnibus," and the bus indeed is turning out to be heavenly in these days of fuel shortages. Conservationist Robert Cahn lists these figures for Btu's of energy consumed per passenger mile on the average: airplanes — 9,700; autos — 4,250; railroads — 1,700; and last and least, buses at 1,090.

DO YOU KNOW — What does "Btu" stand for?

No matter how often you come in...no matter how large your account, you'll find that all seven of our offices have one big, important trait in common: a genuinely friendly way of doing business.

As a matter of fact, you don't even have to make a deposit to take advantage of our refreshingly "un-business-like" personal approach. Want some help in deciphering all of our new high interest rates? Let us help unscramble things a little. Want to make sure you have a savings program that is right for your own personal savings objectives? We'll be happy to review our different plans with you...any time.

The smiles are just as bright and just as sincere when you come in to take advantage of our many free services, like Money Orders,* Travelers Checks,* Notary Service, Note Collection,* and Copy Service to name a few.

And if you just want to drop by to chat about the job and kids, we like that too. You see, we're Bay Area folks; this is where we grew to seven friendly branches. So chances are your interests are our interests too.

Ross Valley Savings, in San Anselmo, Walnut Creek, Milpitas, Fairfield, Greenbrae, San Leandro and Vallejo, where a sincere, personal manner is the only way we know how to do our job. Come in soon and experience this personal approach yourself.
